REFUSE TO SIT ON COMMITTEE EVEN IF ELECTED

Czechs Oppose Participating In Drafting Plan For Year-Around Assembly

BALLOT VOTE ON PROPOSAL 38 TO 0; 10 ABSTAINED

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Soviet Russia and her satellites today boycotted the first test vote on Secretary of State Marshall's proposal to overhaul United Nations machinery and indirectly served notice they would refuse to sit in a year-around assembly even if approved by a majority of the members.

The ballot on referring the Marshall proposal to a drafting sub-committee was 38 to 0 with Russia, White Russia, Soviet Ukraine, Poland, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia refusing to vote. Four Arab nations abstained.

A moment later the assembly's 57-nation political committee voted membership on the sub-committee to Russia, Czechoslovakia and 13 other nations. The Russians and Czechs immediately announced that they would not participate even in drafting work because the whole plan was "illegal."

Asked whether these steps meant that Russia would refuse even to sit in the "Little Assembly" envisaged by Marshall, a Soviet spokesman said today's action could be "compared" to the Greek case. There, after being voted down 36 to 6 in efforts to block creation of a watch commission in the Balkans, Russia and Poland were elected to seats on the commission and promptly announced a boycott.

Chairman Joseph Bech of Luxembourg took note of the Russian and Czech statements and announced tartly that places would be left open on the drafting group. He had taken the same action after the boycott in the Greek case.

Another Week Assigned In Order To Make Goal Assigned

Announcement was made Saturday by J. S. Cage, president of the Twin City Community Chest, that the campaign now in progress to raise $49,000, for the support of nine vital civic agencies has been so slow that the drive will be continued for one week more. Up to Saturday noon only $8,520 had been reported which is barely 18 percent of the total sum required.

One drive captain reported that he had contacted 40 percent of his prospects which was the best report returned by any leader. Another captain has 30 percent of his prospects canvassed, while four others had 20 percent to their credit. A number reported that they had seen and interviewed 10 percent each of the names that had been assigned to them.

The question has been raised as to how much of the money raised stays in Monroe and to this interrogation,

LOVESICK LLAMA IN ZOO ROMANCE

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Juan, the lovesick llama, was feeling chipper today. He and Jezebel were practically on speaking terms.

Juan has been mooning around Griffith Park Zoo of late in a mood which his keepers attribute to approach of mating time. So yesterday they brought Jezebel south from the William Randolph Hearst ranch at San Simeon.

Jezebel acknowledged Juan's overtures in old llama custom—by spitting in his eye. The keepers explained that spitting out the cud is a common defensive move by members of the camel family.

But today all was peace and contentment. They munched breakfast from the trough side by side.

Brazil Near Break With Soviet Union

Ending Of Diplomatic Relations Reported To Await Only Official Brazilian Announcement

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A break in diplomatic relations between Brazil and Soviet Russia awaits only an official Brazilian announcement, it appeared today.

Foreign Minister Raul Fernandes held a long conference with President Eurico Gaspar Dutra, giving rise to speculation that announcement of the break is imminent. A high government source said yesterday an official announcement could be expected within 72 hours.

The newspaper Diario Anoite said "relations are already broken."

Another afternoon newspaper Folha Carioca said that Fernandes, when asked in an interview whether he would make an official announcement, replied. "At the right opportunity, yes." The paper concluded that "this constitutes indirectly a confirmation of the break because he did not deny the report."

The paper said it had learned the Brazilian embassy in Moscow had received a note of instructions on breaking relations with Russia but did not give the source of this report.

Fernandes was quoted as saying however, that the foreign office has "furnished no information about a break of diplomatic relations with Russia. All reports on the subject are journalistic."

The anticipated action is being interpreted here as a turning point in

TAX CUT FORECAST MADE BY KNUTSON

Claims Reduction Bill To Pass First Regular Or 'Special' Session

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. —(AP)— A prediction that Congress will pass an income tax reduction bill as soon as it meets "whether in regular or special session" came today from Rep. Knutson, Republican, Minnesota.

Knutson is chairman of the House ways and means committee, which handles all tax matters. Congress is due to reconvene in regular session in January, but may be called back sooner.

Knutson said in a statement that he can not "spell out details of the bill" until he has talked with other members of the committee.

The ways and means committee will resume hearings on the revenue act of 1948 on November 4, Knutson announced, but before that date expects to receive a report from a special tax study committee.

Knutson said he and Rep. Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, ranking minority member of the committee, probably will meet with the special committee next Tuesday to learn of its progress.

The Minnesotan, who returned today to Washington, said he had visited more than a dozen states since the adjournment of Congress and found the people "more or less in despair over the confusion that exists in Washington and the sad lack of a program."

At the same time, he declared, current "diaries" of the official family

INCREASE LOOMS IN DOLLAR NEEDS FOR AID PROGRAM

GOPS BACK IMMEDIATE AID FOR HUNGRY NATIONS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Administration officials said today this country may have to increase rather than cut the $22,400,000,000 total of European requests under the Marshall plan.

These officials, who withheld the use of their names, said they fear the 16 western European nations have over-estimated their ability to increase their own exports in the four-year period concerned, and are over-optimistic in foreseeing a 12 1/2 per cent drop in U. S. prices. Such a drop would better the buying power of their scant supplies of dollars.

A heavily Republican congressional committee meanwhile returned from Europe with a demand for immediate foreign aid under the Marshall plan of a "similar plan."

Their statement, issued by Chairman Short (R.-Mo.) of the nine-member group of House appropriations and armed services committeemen, said American help must be forthcoming "at the earliest possible time" to forestall a complete downfall of Europe.

A series of other developments in the administration's drive to funnel food and goods to Europe marked the week-end. They were:

First, bakers in Des Moines, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh joined a growing movement toward higher bread prices. They announced 1-cent-a-loaf increases starting Monday in the two eastern cities, following similar news from Baltimore and New York yesterday.

ABDICATION OF NIP EMPEROR SUGGESTION KEPT FROM JAPS

TOKYO, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Occupation headquarters censors today killed a news story reporting a New York Times editorial suggestion that Emperor Hirohito abdicate.

No reason was given, but it is doubtful if any major paper in Japan would have printed it. Most Japanese and many occupation officials consider the abdication issue dead.

Occupation authorities say perpetuation of the emperor system is guaranteed by the surrender terms as long as the Japanese want it and that any change in the occupancy of the throne also is up to the Japs.

General MacArthur had authority at the outset to remove Hirohito the individual, however, and possibly would have done so except for the emperor's ready cooperation with the occupation.

Authoritative Japanese sources say that court officials on at least two occasions some time ago talked the emperor out of plans to resign in favor of 14 year old Crown Prince Akihito.

The Times editorial on Oct. 15 said Hirohito should abdicate and "thereby permit his country to wipe the slate clean and start afresh under a new emperor."

It was based on war crimes trial testimony of Marquis Koichi Kido, which it said "now makes plain what has always been known in informed quarters—namely that Emperor Hirohito was by no means the 'bumbling, ineffectual ruler,' or the ignorant and innocent puppet that he has sometimes been represented, but rather a

RED NEWSPAPERS IN GREECE CLOSED BY POLICE ACTION

ADMINISTRATION LIBERALS RESPONSIBLE FOR ACTION

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Greek government, acting on the initiative of its liberal ministers, struck hard at Communist propagandists tonight and closed Communist party and EAM newspapers by police action which may have been agreed to by the American and British embassies.

The police occupied the offices of Rizospastis, the Communist party morning newspaper, a Communist weekly, issued from the same headquarters, and the offices of Elletheri Ellada, organ of the Communist-directed EAM, a so-called national resistance group.

A printing plant several blocks away also was occupied, and the police began carting away furniture and equipment which will be confiscated under a measure authorized only last night and signed by the king this morning.

No arrests were made.

The liberals in the coalition government thus succeeded in doing in 24 hours what the previous administration had not dared to do in 16 months.

The previous Populist administration had been urged by the rightist war minister, Napoleon Zervas, and most of the other ministers to take such action, but a final decision apparently had been withheld because of fear of the unfavorable reaction from international opinion.

The measure authorizing the government to close down Communist publications was written by Christos Ladas, liberal minister of justice, and Constantine Rentis, Liberal minister of public order, after consultations with Petro Mavromihalis, Populist minister of the interior.

Liberal Premier Themistokles Sophoulis also placed his stamp of approval on it this morning when he told a news conference that the Greek press was at liberty to criticise the government but when "the press manifests solidarity with the guerrillas and incites the people to take to the mountains" the government would have to take security measures.

High officials in both the American and British embassies have privately expressed the conviction that Communist organs were directly linked with the guerrilla rebellion and were serving its cause.

Premier Sophoulis confirmed reports in the Liberal party newspaper Vima

MARSHALL MAKES 'PATIENCE' PLEA

College Gives Honorary Degrees To Secretary Of State, Austin, Aranha

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Secretary of State Marshall pleaded today for world-wide patience as the United Nations struggled to find the path to peace.

Marshall, in a speech at Lafayette College Founder's day exercises, said the U. N.'s work should be considered "in the light of how human beings proceed," adding:

"Broad perspectives are required, as well as thinking, patience and great determination."

Marshall, Ambassadoor Warren R. Austin and Dr. Oswaldo Aranha of Brazil, president of the U. N. general assembly, received honorary degrees of Doctors of Law at the exercises.

Marshall asserted American high school and colleges are deficient in teaching history and declared, "If there were more knowledge of history in Congress, three-fourths of the speeches there would be eliminated."

"We suffered a great deal where there was lack of knowledge of what

EXPORTS TO RUSSIA TOTAL HALF BILLION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.) made public today a commerce department report showing that Soviet Russia has had more than a half billion dollars worth of exports from the United States since October 1945, including $91,200,000 in the first half of this year.

Wiley told newsmen he asked a break-down on exports to Russia to learn whether any equipment that could be used in war or is needed in the United States for post-war recovery, is being exported.

Of exports during the first half of this year more than 70 per cent was electrical machinery, power-generating machinery, locomotives, construction and conveying machinery, mining, well and pumping machinery, and machine tools, Blaisdell's report showed.

Petrillo Closes Lid On Record Industry

AFL Union Musicians Barred From Making Phonograph Records, Radio Transcriptions After Dec. 31

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(AP)—James C. Petrillo announced today that union musicians would be barred from making any records or radio transcriptions after December 31, but recording industry sources said they anticipated the move and had enough unissued records to last from one to two years.

The fiery boss of the A. F. L. Federation of Musicians said his 225,000 members were "destroying themselves" by making records and transcriptions and added, "there will never be any more phonograph records or transcriptions made by members of the musicians union."

The ban, which Petrillo said was voted unanimously by the union's executive board in a closed session, brought a quick reaction from trade sources in the industry.

"The Big Three—Columbia, RCA-Victor and Decca—have been making records so rapidly in recent months, both here and abroad, that they can continue to issue records for at least two years," said one man in New York long associated with the industry.

Petrillo said the ban also would end "canned" shows being turned out by the networks and this posed a different problem. These so-called "canned" programs are produced ex-

Jes' Ramblin'

As physicians and psychologists declare that a laugh a day is salutary for humanity, here is one we heard today:

Two lads were making a trip on a motorcycle, John was at the wheel and Tom was his passenger. The day was windy and soon Tom cried out that he was getting mighty cold. "All that wind you kick up goes right to my chest," he complained.

"W'll just stop and you put on your coat hindside before" declared John. They suited the action to the word and as Tom clambered awkwardly into the garment, John buttoned it behind. Then they started off again. After some distance had been traveled, John turned to see how his friend was faring.

To his amazement, he was not on the machine.

In trepidation, John turned the motorcycle around and proceeded for a half mile when he came upon a crowd standing near the middle of the road and there prostrate lay his chum stretched out on the highway.

"Isn't he conscious? Hasn't he moved?" asked John in deep anxiety.

"Wall no, he haint moved one bit since I twitched his head around where it had ought to be!" responded a long white-whiskered bystander.

75,000 JAM STATE FAIR OPENING DAY

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A record crowd in excess of 75,000 persons jammed the fair grounds here today as the 42nd annual Louisiana State Fair opened.

A morning feature of the fair was the opening of the Ark-La-Tex band festival, with 51 bands composed of some 4000 high school musicians parading through the streets of the city.

In the afternoon sports fans witnessed automobile races and a football game in which Chattanooga University whipped the gentlemen of Centenary College 20 to 0.

Poultry judging contests were staged for 4-H club members, with Colvert Soule of St. Francisville winning first place. Second was won by Claire De Plessis of Darrow and third by Sammie Land of Natchitoches. Their victories won for them a trip to Chicago where they will represent Louisiana in poultry judging at the national 4-H Club congress the last week in November.

W. R. Hirsch, secretary-manager of the fair, said agricultural and livestock exhibits this year are the largest in the history of the event, with competition unusually keen for the $40,000 offered in prizes.

CHOLERA DEATH TOLL SOARING IN EGYPT

CAIRO, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The health ministry, reporting a death toll of 1,849 from Egypt's 25-day-old cholera epidemic, said tonight all doctors in the infected areas had been drafted for government service. The ministry listed 247 deaths in the 24 hours ended at 8 a.m.

Premier Mahmoud Fahmy Vokrashy Pashw, after a meeting at the health ministry, told reporters the spread of the disease was due primarily to the public's failure to report suspected cases and to numerous attempts to trespass cordons isolating the affected zones.

WARNER IS STAR WITNESS ON HOLLYWOOD 'RED' PROBE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Jack Warner, vice-president of the company that filmed "Mission to Moscow," was billed today as witness No. 1 when the House committee on unAmerican activities starts hearings Monday on communism in Hollywood.

The movie stars come along later for what Washington expects to be the biggest show of the fall investigating season. No feminine stars have been tapped to testify. But the witness list has names like Robert Taylor, Gary Cooper, Robert Montgomery, Ronald Reagan and others.

Right from the start, the committee plans to begin "naming names" and developing through questions and answers whether the movie capital is infested with Reds.

And the opening day of the inquiry is expected to throw some light on a report from a subcommittee last May that "some of the most flagrant Communist propaganda films were produced as a result of White House pressure."

Today, the stage was being set in the big, marble-lined caucus room in the old House Office building. Movies, radio, television and the press busily moved in equipment for recording the investigation.

Hollywood lawyers were flying into town. Key witnesses were due to arrive throughout the week-end.

All along, President Eric Johnston of the Motion Picture Association of America has been saying the industry has no objection to a fair inquiry, that there undoubtedly are some Communists in Hollywood.

And Committee Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) says the only objective is "facts regarding the inroads

11 Bodies Recovered After Plane Plunges Into Mediterranean; 8 Children, 16 Women Aboard Ill-Fated Craft

PARIS, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Forty-one persons were believed today to have been killed in the crash of a French plane in the Mediterranean Sea.

The company operating the plane said two persons, the pilot and another crew member, had been rescued. The French navy ministry said 11 bodies had been recovered. The plane was carrying 43 passengers and crew.

A search by military planes, a submarine and surface craft failed to disclose any signs of additional survivors of the crash, which occurred yesterday while the plane was en route from Marseille to Oran, Algeria.

The company operating the plane said two persons. The pilot and another crew member, had been rescued. The French air ministry said the bodies of six others had been recovered from the sea and taken to Casablanca, Morocco, for identification.

The company, a small airline called Compagnie des Transports Aeriens Intercontinentaux (Intercontinental Air Transport Co.), said it had "little hope" of saving any more of the crew of five and 38 passengers.

Yesterday it had announced that everyone was safe, but today the company said it was unable to give an explanation of a telegram received from the air transport control reporting all aboard had been picked up by a Spanish vessel.

Eight children and 16 women were listed among the passengers, all apparently residents of France or North Africa. One of the crew members was the plane hostess.

French and Spanish military planes and surface craft searched the area of the crash, reported in a dispatch by the French News Agency as 120 miles north of Oran. A dispatch from

FRENCH CABINET MEETS TO SOLVE PARIS WALKOUTS

UNION LEADER ASSAILS INTERFERENCE BY U. S.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The French cabinet met in emergency session today to try to end the six-day-old Paris subway and bus strike, in the face of a Communist labor threat to lead all organized Paris workers off their jobs Monday.

Press attaches at Premier Paul Ramadier's office said there was "reason for hope" of a settlement of the municipal transport strike. Vice-Premier Pierre-Henri Teitgen presided at the emergency session of the ministers in the absence of Ramadier, at his home in Decazeville for tomorrow's municipal elections.

Eugene Henaff, Communist head of the Paris Federation of Labor unions, made a thinly-veiled threat of a general Paris strike, recalling that the federation's general committee would meet Monday. He declared that "it will take all decisions necessary to get satisfaction not only for the Metro (subway) workers but for all the workers in the Paris region."

Henaff, addressing 15,000 transportation workers who voted to continue their strike, also attacked the United

FLASH FLOOD HITS TOWN IN VIRGINIA

$3,000,000 Damage Estimate Given; 150 Families Forced From Homes

GALAX, Va., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Seven houses were washed away and 150 families were forced from their home early today as a flash flood tore down narrow Chesnut creek into this southwest Virginia town causing damage estimated by Mayor Ross C. Penrey at from two to three million dollars.

No castualties were reported.

Ironically, the flood knocked out the town's pumping system and by early afternoon the 3,000 residents were without drinking water.

The crest of the flood struck shortly after midnight—only five hours after the water began to rise—and swept up costly lumber from the yards of furniture factories which line one bank of the creek, accounting for most of the financial loss.

Some observers disagreed with the mayor's estimate, placing the damage at nearer the one million dollar mark.

The Norfolk and Western Railway cancelled all service between Galax and nearby Pulaski and sent emergency crews into the flooded area to repair damaged rails and weakened bridges.

Red Cross workers moved in early in the day and set up headquarters to care for the homeless, even as volunteer squads began the job of clearing the streets of debris.

General MacArthur had authority at the outset to remove Hirohito the individual, however, and possibly would have done so except for the emperor's ready cooperation with the occupation.

Authoritative Japanese sources say that court officials on at least two occasions some time ago talked the emperor out of plans to resign in favor of 14 year old Crown Prince Akihito.

The Times editorial on Oct. 15 said Hirohito should abdicate and "thereby permit his country to wipe the slate clean and start afresh under a new emperor."

It was based on war crimes trial testimony of Marquis Koichi Kido, which it said "now makes plain what has always been known in informed quarters—namely that Emperor Hirohito was by no means the 'bumbling, ineffectual ruler,' or the ignorant and innocent puppet that he has sometimes been represented, but rather a

ADMINISTRATION LIBERALS RESPONSIBLE FOR ACTION

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Greek government, acting on the initiative of its liberal ministers, struck hard at Communist propagandists tonight and closed Communist party and EAM newspapers by police action which may have been agreed to by the American and British embassies.

The police occupied the offices of Rizospastis, the Communist party morning newspaper, a Communist weekly, issued from the same headquarters, and the offices of Elletheri Ellada, organ of the Communist-directed EAM, a so-called national resistance group.

A printing plant several blocks away also was occupied, and the police began carting away furniture and equipment which will be confiscated under a measure authorized only last night and signed by the king this morning.

No arrests were made.

The liberals in the coalition government thus succeeded in doing in 24 hours what the previous administration had not dared to do in 16 months.

The previous Populist administration had been urged by the rightist war minister, Napoleon Zervas, and most of the other ministers to take such action, but a final decision apparently had been withheld because of fear of the unfavorable reaction from international opinion.

The measure authorizing the government to close down Communist publications was written by Christos Ladas, liberal minister of justice, and Constantine Rentis, Liberal minister of public order, after consultations with Petro Mavromihalis, Populist minister of the interior.

Liberal Premier Themistokles Sophoulis also placed his stamp of approval on it this morning when he told a news conference that the Greek press was at liberty to criticise the government but when "the press manifests solidarity with the guerrillas and incites the people to take to the mountains" the government would have to take security measures.

High officials in both the American and British embassies have privately expressed the conviction that Communist organs were directly linked with the guerrilla rebellion and were serving its cause.

Premier Sophoulis confirmed reports in the Liberal party newspaper Vima

College Gives Honorary Degrees To Secretary Of State, Austin, Aranha

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Secretary of State Marshall pleaded today for world-wide patience as the United Nations struggled to find the path to peace.

Marshall, in a speech at Lafayette College Founder's day exercises, said the U. N.'s work should be considered "in the light of how human beings proceed," adding:

"Broad perspectives are required, as well as thinking, patience and great determination."

Marshall, Ambassadoor Warren R. Austin and Dr. Oswaldo Aranha of Brazil, president of the U. N. general assembly, received honorary degrees of Doctors of Law at the exercises.

Marshall asserted American high school and colleges are deficient in teaching history and declared, "If there were more knowledge of history in Congress, three-fourths of the speeches there would be eliminated."

"We suffered a great deal where there was lack of knowledge of what

EXPORTS TO RUSSIA TOTAL HALF BILLION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.) made public today a commerce department report showing that Soviet Russia has had more than a half billion dollars worth of exports from the United States since October 1945, including $91,200,000 in the first half of this year.

Wiley told newsmen he asked a break-down on exports to Russia to learn whether any equipment that could be used in war or is needed in the United States for post-war recovery, is being exported.

Of exports during the first half of this year more than 70 per cent was electrical machinery, power-generating machinery, locomotives, construction and conveying machinery, mining, well and pumping machinery, and machine tools, Blaisdell's report showed.

Petrillo Closes Lid On Record Industry

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(AP)—James C. Petrillo announced today that union musicians would be barred from making any records or radio transcriptions after December 31, but recording industry sources said they anticipated the move and had enough unissued records to last from one to two years.

The fiery boss of the A. F. L. Federation of Musicians said his 225,000 members were "destroying themselves" by making records and transcriptions and added, "there will never be any more phonograph records or transcriptions made by members of the musicians union."

The ban, which Petrillo said was voted unanimously by the union's executive board in a closed session, brought a quick reaction from trade sources in the industry.

"The Big Three—Columbia, RCA-Victor and Decca—have been making records so rapidly in recent months, both here and abroad, that they can continue to issue records for at least two years," said one man in New York long associated with the industry.

Petrillo said the ban also would end "canned" shows being turned out by the networks and this posed a different problem. These so-called "canned" programs are produced ex-

Jes' Ramblin'

As physicians and psychologists declare that a laugh a day is salutary for humanity, here is one we heard today:

Two lads were making a trip on a motorcycle, John was at the wheel and Tom was his passenger. The day was windy and soon Tom cried out that he was getting mighty cold. "All that wind you kick up goes right to my chest," he complained.

"W'll just stop and you put on your coat hindside before" declared John. They suited the action to the word and as Tom clambered awkwardly into the garment, John buttoned it behind. Then they started off again. After some distance had been traveled, John turned to see how his friend was faring.

To his amazement, he was not on the machine.

In trepidation, John turned the motorcycle around and proceeded for a half mile when he came upon a crowd standing near the middle of the road and there prostrate lay his chum stretched out on the highway.

"Isn't he conscious? Hasn't he moved?" asked John in deep anxiety.

"Wall no, he haint moved one bit since I twitched his head around where it had ought to be!" responded a long white-whiskered bystander.

75,000 JAM STATE FAIR OPENING DAY

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A record crowd in excess of 75,000 persons jammed the fair grounds here today as the 42nd annual Louisiana State Fair opened.

A morning feature of the fair was the opening of the Ark-La-Tex band festival, with 51 bands composed of some 4000 high school musicians parading through the streets of the city.

In the afternoon sports fans witnessed automobile races and a football game in which Chattanooga University whipped the gentlemen of Centenary College 20 to 0.

Poultry judging contests were staged for 4-H club members, with Colvert Soule of St. Francisville winning first place. Second was won by Claire De Plessis of Darrow and third by Sammie Land of Natchitoches. Their victories won for them a trip to Chicago where they will represent Louisiana in poultry judging at the national 4-H Club congress the last week in November.

W. R. Hirsch, secretary-manager of the fair, said agricultural and livestock exhibits this year are the largest in the history of the event, with competition unusually keen for the $40,000 offered in prizes.

CHOLERA DEATH TOLL SOARING IN EGYPT

CAIRO, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The health ministry, reporting a death toll of 1,849 from Egypt's 25-day-old cholera epidemic, said tonight all doctors in the infected areas had been drafted for government service. The ministry listed 247 deaths in the 24 hours ended at 8 a.m.

Premier Mahmoud Fahmy Vokrashy Pashw, after a meeting at the health ministry, told reporters the spread of the disease was due primarily to the public's failure to report suspected cases and to numerous attempts to trespass cordons isolating the affected zones.

WARNER IS STAR WITNESS ON HOLLYWOOD 'RED' PROBE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Jack Warner, vice-president of the company that filmed "Mission to Moscow," was billed today as witness No. 1 when the House committee on unAmerican activities starts hearings Monday on communism in Hollywood.

The movie stars come along later for what Washington expects to be the biggest show of the fall investigating season. No feminine stars have been tapped to testify. But the witness list has names like Robert Taylor, Gary Cooper, Robert Montgomery, Ronald Reagan and others.

Right from the start, the committee plans to begin "naming names" and developing through questions and answers whether the movie capital is infested with Reds.

And the opening day of the inquiry is expected to throw some light on a report from a subcommittee last May that "some of the most flagrant Communist propaganda films were produced as a result of White House pressure."

Today, the stage was being set in the big, marble-lined caucus room in the old House Office building. Movies, radio, television and the press busily moved in equipment for recording the investigation.

Hollywood lawyers were flying into town. Key witnesses were due to arrive throughout the week-end.

All along, President Eric Johnston of the Motion Picture Association of America has been saying the industry has no objection to a fair inquiry, that there undoubtedly are some Communists in Hollywood.

And Committee Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) says the only objective is "facts regarding the inroads

11 Bodies Recovered After Plane Plunges Into Mediterranean; 8 Children, 16 Women Aboard Ill-Fated Craft

PARIS, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Forty-one persons were believed today to have been killed in the crash of a French plane in the Mediterranean Sea.

The company operating the plane said two persons, the pilot and another crew member, had been rescued. The French navy ministry said 11 bodies had been recovered. The plane was carrying 43 passengers and crew.

A search by military planes, a submarine and surface craft failed to disclose any signs of additional survivors of the crash, which occurred yesterday while the plane was en route from Marseille to Oran, Algeria.

The company operating the plane said two persons. The pilot and another crew member, had been rescued. The French air ministry said the bodies of six others had been recovered from the sea and taken to Casablanca, Morocco, for identification.

The company, a small airline called Compagnie des Transports Aeriens Intercontinentaux (Intercontinental Air Transport Co.), said it had "little hope" of saving any more of the crew of five and 38 passengers.

Yesterday it had announced that everyone was safe, but today the company said it was unable to give an explanation of a telegram received from the air transport control reporting all aboard had been picked up by a Spanish vessel.

Eight children and 16 women were listed among the passengers, all apparently residents of France or North Africa. One of the crew members was the plane hostess.

French and Spanish military planes and surface craft searched the area of the crash, reported in a dispatch by the French News Agency as 120 miles north of Oran. A dispatch from

FRENCH CABINET MEETS TO SOLVE PARIS WALKOUTS

UNION LEADER ASSAILS INTERFERENCE BY U. S.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The French cabinet met in emergency session today to try to end the six-day-old Paris subway and bus strike, in the face of a Communist labor threat to lead all organized Paris workers off their jobs Monday.

Press attaches at Premier Paul Ramadier's office said there was "reason for hope" of a settlement of the municipal transport strike. Vice-Premier Pierre-Henri Teitgen presided at the emergency session of the ministers in the absence of Ramadier, at his home in Decazeville for tomorrow's municipal elections.

Eugene Henaff, Communist head of the Paris Federation of Labor unions, made a thinly-veiled threat of a general Paris strike, recalling that the federation's general committee would meet Monday. He declared that "it will take all decisions necessary to get satisfaction not only for the Metro (subway) workers but for all the workers in the Paris region."

Henaff, addressing 15,000 transportation workers who voted to continue their strike, also attacked the United

FLASH FLOOD HITS TOWN IN VIRGINIA

$3,000,000 Damage Estimate Given; 150 Families Forced From Homes

GALAX, Va., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Seven houses were washed away and 150 families were forced from their home early today as a flash flood tore down narrow Chesnut creek into this southwest Virginia town causing damage estimated by Mayor Ross C. Penrey at from two to three million dollars.

No castualties were reported.

Ironically, the flood knocked out the town's pumping system and by early afternoon the 3,000 residents were without drinking water.

The crest of the flood struck shortly after midnight—only five hours after the water began to rise—and swept up costly lumber from the yards of furniture factories which line one bank of the creek, accounting for most of the financial loss.

Some observers disagreed with the mayor's estimate, placing the damage at nearer the one million dollar mark.

The Norfolk and Western Railway cancelled all service between Galax and nearby Pulaski and sent emergency crews into the flooded area to repair damaged rails and weakened bridges.

Red Cross workers moved in early in the day and set up headquarters to care for the homeless, even as volunteer squads began the job of clearing the streets of debris.

Final Testimony Before U. N. On Palestine Dispute Proves Contradictory

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Leading spokesmen for the Arabs and Jews of Palestine gave completely contradictory testimony today before the United Nations assembly's special 57-nation Palestine committee as it concluded its general discussion on the Holy Land issue.

Taking the floor first for the Palestinian Arabs, Jamal Husseini, deputy chairman of the Arab higher committee for Palestine, declared the establishment of "a small Jewish state of a million people in the heart of this Arab world can have no chance of survival."

Speaking next in support of the majority report of the U. HURRICANE TO MISS ATLANTIC SEABOARD

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A severe hurricane with winds of 115 miles an hour and mounting in size and fury took a northwest turn in the Atlantic late today without offering an immediate threat to continental United States.

A weather bureau spokesman said the southeastern part of the country was "well out of the path" of the storm, which at 3 p. m. (C. S. T.) was about 650 miles east southeast of Miami.

If it continues on its present course, the weather bureau said, it will "pass well east of Cape Hatteras, N. C."

Planes reported winds up to 115 miles an hour near the hurricane's center which the weather bureau said indicated the storm is still increasing in intensity. It is moving about 14 miles an hour.

METHODIST PARSONAGE IS BEING CONSTRUCTED

JONESVILLE, La., Oct. 19.—(Special)—A six-room Methodist parsonage is now being constructed in Jonesville by A. A. Terry, Harrisonburg contractor.

The home will house the new First Methodist Church pastor who probably will be selected early in November. Rev. Garland Dean, former pastor, resigned recently to return to school.

Being built at a cost of $6,800, the parsonage will have three bedrooms, a dining room, living room, kitchen and front porch. It will have asbestos roofing and siding and will be ceiled with sheetrock.

It is located on the property commonly known as "The Mound," former site of a large Indian mound in the central part of the town. The parsonage will be the first structure to be erected on "The Mound," which is owned by Grover C. Womack, of Manifest. Womack donated the parsonage site to the church.

What To Do For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling

Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled-over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what indigestion was, felt strong as an ox? As age advances the "old stomach and the ever-changing blood" need help. Now you may again release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. HOUSING LACK IS GIVEN STUDY

Factors Causing High Prices Are Studied By Architects

The housing shortage can not be attributed to any one cause, according to a statement by Max H. Foley, New York architect and member of a special delegation appointed by The American Institute of Architects to confer with the joint congressional committee which is investigating the housing shortage.

"The supply of both labor and materials, methods of financing, and several other factors should be examined," Mr. Foley said in the statement which has been filed with the committee.

"In order that you may realize the magnitude of the problem of providing housing, we should recall that during the period of the depression there was a very limited amount of housing built and that the war cut off the building of housing except for emergency purposes. Moreover, in the depression interval much housing was wrecked to save taxes, much has become obsolete and unusable, and our fire losses have been heavy. In addition to these factors, the war in itself stimulated an unprecedented demand for housing.

"As a consequence, at the end of the war there was a dearth of housing accumulated over a considerable period of time. Even under the most ideal conditions, it would be very difficult to cope with a problem of this magnitude. Under conditions of readjustment following war, it has been even more difficult.

"In attempting to speed up construction of homes, it should be understood that it is not possible to successfully divorce housing from the rest of the construction industry. Any atempt to make the building of houses a healthy, vigorous enterprise and, at the same time, neglect or cripple the rest of the industry by artificial restrictions cannot succeed. The industry does not work that way. Such an attempt is like trying to build a man's right arm into a healthy vigorous member and at the same time kill the rest of his body.

"As for materials, there has been a very great increase in cost and a disinclination on the part of suppliers to guarantee any price or any delivery date. My advice to the committee is to invite the heads of the various organizations and associations which supply materials and equipment to explain their costs and prices at their plants, show the costs of transportation to given points and then show the prices to the ultimate consumer at those points. I have no knowledge that this simple demonstration will show any discrepancies. If it does, there will be opened an avenue for exploration and recommendation.

"Architects and engineers know that, in this era of high costs, it is necessary for them to do their utmost in design to keep building costs down. There has been a determined effort on a nationwide scale for the last eight years to introduce the so-called Modular System of design through which cutting and patching on jobs can be reduced to a minimum. I do not believe that this system of design should be forced upon the country by law but I do believe that this committee after examining it can safely recommend it to the industry as a means of promoting greater efficiency and reducing costs.

"I believe that what is more important than a reduction in costs is stabilization in costs. It is to be hoped that we can stabilize at a somewhat lower level than the present one but the important thing is to reach a level at which a builder can give an owner a cost estimate on a building operation with a reasonable expectation that it will not be exceeded. I do not believe that there will be a drastic reduction in the cost of housing for a long time to come. I believe that one of the most important contributions that this committee can make is to reach a conclusion, after a fair examination, as to what costs are likely to be for the next few years and then tell that conclusion to the country. If the present cost level is to be maintained and housing is urgently needed, then the problem is to find the money for housing."

HOUSING LACK IS GIVEN STUDY

Factors Causing High Prices Are Studied By Architects

The housing shortage can not be attributed to any one cause, according to a statement by Max H. Foley, New York architect and member of a special delegation appointed by The American Institute of Architects to confer with the joint congressional committee which is investigating the housing shortage.

"The supply of both labor and materials, methods of financing, and several other factors should be examined," Mr. Foley said in the statement which has been filed with the committee.

"In order that you may realize the magnitude of the problem of providing housing, we should recall that during the period of the depression there was a very limited amount of housing built and that the war cut off the building of housing except for emergency purposes. Moreover, in the depression interval much housing was wrecked to save taxes, much has become obsolete and unusable, and our fire losses have been heavy. In addition to these factors, the war in itself stimulated an unprecedented demand for housing.

"As a consequence, at the end of the war there was a dearth of housing accumulated over a considerable period of time. Even under the most ideal conditions, it would be very difficult to cope with a problem of this magnitude. Under conditions of readjustment following war, it has been even more difficult.

"In attempting to speed up construction of homes, it should be understood that it is not possible to successfully divorce housing from the rest of the construction industry. Any atempt to make the building of houses a healthy, vigorous enterprise and, at the same time, neglect or cripple the rest of the industry by artficial restrictions cannot succeed. The industry does not work that way. Such an attempt is like trying to build a man's right arm into a healthy vigorous member and at the same time kill the rest of his body.

"As for materials, there has been a very great increase in cost and a disinclination on the part of suppliers to guarantee any price or any delivery date. My advice to the committee is to invite the heads of the various organizations and associations which supply materials and equipment to explain their costs and prices at their plants, show the costs of transportation to given points and then show the prices to the ultimate consumer at those points. I have no knowledge that this simple demonstration will show any discrepancies. If it does, there will be opened an avenue for exploration and recommendation.

"Architects and engineers know that, in this era of high costs, it is necessary for them to do their utmost in design to keep building costs down. There has been a determined effort on a nationwide scale for the last eight years to introduce the so-called Modular System of design through which cutting and patching on jobs can be reduced to a minimum. I do not believe that this system of design should be forced upon the country by law but I do believe that this committee after examining it can safely recommend it to the industry as a means of promoting greater efficiency and reducing costs.

"I believe that what is more important than a reduction in costs is stabilization in costs. It is to be hoped that we can stabilize at a somewhat lower level than the present one but the important thing is to reach a level at which a builder can give an owner a cost estimate on a building operation with a reasonable expectation that it will not be exceeded. I do not believe that there will be a drastic reduction in the cost of housing for a long time to come. I believe that one of the most important contributions that this committee can make is to reach a conclusion, after a fair examination, as to what costs are likely to be for the next few years and then tell that conclusion to the country. If the present cost level is to be maintained and housing is urgently needed, then the problem is to find the money for housing."

BOMB SQUADRON NOW ACTIVATED

Barksdale Field Gives Official Notice; Col. Jones Commander

The official activation of the 579th bomb squadron (reserve) was recently announced by Lieutenant-Colonel Sherman F. Martin, commanding officer of the 174th reserve training unit at Barksdale field, upon notification from the commanding general, Tenth Air Force, of unit assignment orders. Lieutenant-Colonel Luther A. Jones, Jr., 392 Kentucky Street, Monroe, has been appointed the squadron commander. The 579th squadron is one of the four squadrons of the 392nd bomb group at Barksdale field, which is commanded by Colonel Louis M. Gregory, of Shreveport. Two of the other squadrons are located at Shreveport and one at Adams field, Little Rock, Ark.

Personnel of the 579th squadron will receive training throughout the year at Barksdale and will receive some flying, ground and unit training at Selman field. Air reserve personnel in the Monroe area are presently being flown to Barksdale every other Wednesday in a C-47 transport aircraft for flying and ground training, and are returned to Monroe the same day. Facilities have been allotted to the air reserve at Selman field and plans are now being formulated whereby some aircraft will be ferried from Barksdale to Selman for operation for a few days on a regularly-scheduled basis, after which they will be returned to Barksdale for advanced maintenance and inspections. Office equipment and supplies have been requisitioned for the 579th squadron, and it is hoped that they will be received by the unit in the near future. The exact date of starting the operations at Selman field will be announced later.

Excellent cooperation has been received from the officers and enlisted air reserves and city officials in Mosroe in connection with the organizing of the units and furnishing space and operating agreements at the airport.

It is hoped that it will be possible to place units such as the 579th on two weeks' active duty at a regular air force station in order that they may function as a unit with their own assigned equipment and aircraft. The unit is now activated as class "C," being composed of officer personnel only, but a vigorous drive is now being conducted to select and assign enlisted air reservists to the 579th in order that it might be up-graded to a class "B" status. All former air force enlisted personnel who desire to maintain an active status in the reserve program, therefore being eligible for active duty training with pay, reserve promotions, and other benefits, are urged to contact Lieutenant-Colonel Jones or the 174th Base Unit at Barksdale field, either in person or by letter, in order that their exact status may be verified, and for them to receive first consideration for key assignments now available in the 579th squadron.

These reserve combat units would be called to active duty as a unit in the event of another national emergency. It is planned that these units would require from two to six months to complete their training and be ready for their assigned operational duty which would result in saving of many precious months under the system of re-calling the reserves individually without unit training, after which they would have to be screened, organized into units, and many other time-consuming operations prior to their actual readiness for operational duty.

There will be a meeting of all air reservists in the Monroe area Tuesday night, October 21, at 7:30 p.m., in the City Hall, at which time orders will be given to those personnel assigned to the 579th squadron and plans will be discussed concerning the proposed operation of reserve aircraft at Selman field.

RUSSIAN VIOLIN ARTIST SLATED

Will Appear Here On Civic Music Program November 5

With a material increase in adult memberships sold this season over that of last year, Fred Fudickar, president of the Monroe Civic Music Association, stated that the local association has been able to select an even more outstanding slate of artists this season than the splendid group presented here last year.

The season will officially open on Wednesday evening, November 5, with the presentation of Devy Erlih, Russian violinist, who was born and educated in Paris. In his native Paris, Mr. Erlih is considered "The Prince of the Violin." He has made appearances with the leading symphony orchestras of France, England, Belgium and Germany. However, before coming to the United States, he appeared in concerts under the auspices of the American Red Cross and was thus heard by our service men throughout the European theater.

Other artists, with dates of their appearances to be given later, are: Sylvia Zaremba, well-known American pianist; the Apollo Boys' Choir, under the director of Coleman Cooper; and Robert Weede, leading baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Association, and baritone star of the Columbia Broadcasting System's "Great Moments in Music." Upon hearing that Robert Weede would be one of the Civic Music Concert artists this season, an accomplished musician who has recently moved to Monroe stated that the concert of Mr. Weede alone would be well worth the price paid for the entire season.

V. F. W. SEEK TO HALT ACCIDENTS

Urges Emergency Phones On Call Boxes Every 5 Miles Of Highway

At the meeting of the V. F. W. Thursday night in Monroe, the post received 11 applications for membership, and the membership committee reported that at the next meeting the number of new members would probably be doubled. The present membership drive is expected to be the most successful this post has ever had. Membership applications were received by Rodney J. Hobbs Post No. 1809 from the following veterans: S. S. Henry, V. T. McCoy, J. S. Falletta, G. L. Stephens, H. H. Hawthorne, E. F. Hayward, R. W. Dumm, E. G. Heller, J. E. Hart, J. W. Gulliford, L. Barton and D. M. McMahon.

Plans for the annual barbecue were made and the committee for this social affair was apointed by the commander of the post. The date of the barbecue has not been announced but the entertainment will be supplied by Ed Miller and his "Louisiana Playboys."

The Veterans of Foreign Wars are constantly working to increase safety precautions on our state and national highways, as is evident by the warning signs placed on the highways, to remind motorists and pedestrians of the impending dangers of carelessness. However in order to better facilitate the summoning of aid at the time of an accident, the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1809 has passed the following resolution:

"Whereas, recently numerous automobile accidents have occurred on the public highways of the state of Louisiana, with resulting personal injuries and loss of life; and

"Whereas, persons arriving at the scene of such accidents have experienced difficulty in location communications facilities for the purpose of calling emergency aid especially at night; and

"Whereas, it is in the interest of safeguarding and preserving human life that communication facilities for the purpose of calling emergency aid be made available to travelers on the public highways of the state of Louisiana; and

"Whereas, an emergency telephone or call-box placed on existing poles along public highways in the state of Louisiana at intervals of every five miles, connected to police headquarters at the nearest town, village or city, and displaying identifying lights, for night time identification, would provide the necessary facilities for summoning aid; now

"Therefore, be it resolved by Rodney J. Hobbs Post No. 1809, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of Monroe, Louisiana, that this post now endorse and recommend to the proper authorities, that these telephones or call-boxes be placed on existing poles at intervals of every five miles along public highways in the state of Louisiana connected to police headquarters at the nearest town, village, or city, and displaying identification lights for night time identification, for the purpose of providing communication facilities for persons desiring to summon aid in the event of automobile accidents.

"Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the governor of the state of Louisiana, the state highway department, department headquarters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, national headquarters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and any other authorities that this post deems necessary."

A Judge Speaks

Judge Henry F. Turner of Shreveport Thursday granted a temporary injunction to restrain members of a bus drivers union from "further acts of violence" in the prolonged strike of drivers on the Southern Bus Lines, Inc., and in his statement giving his reasons for granting the injunction, expressed what we believe to be the general public's opinion. Unlike one of his contemporaries who gave two or three of the goons a mere slap on the wrist when they were brought before him on criminal charges, Judge Turner expressed concern for the public's safety and the protection of private property.

In reference to the recent wave of violence, Judge Turner stated in his written opinion:

"The public is not going to stand by and put up with such acts. The public will not tolerate it, and the courts will not, if they can put a stop to it.

"It was fortunate that more serious injury was not done. The court is certain that there are many good men who belong to the union, but it's just as certain that there are outlaws among them. This is evidenced by the fact that they use makeshift masks and arm themselves with guns."

Judge Turner, referring to the contention by defense attorneys that the union had not authorized such violence, said that union members had been warned against violence through pamphlets distributed by union officials, but added:

"This means has been totally ineffective. If they had been effective, there would be no necessity for the courts interceding now. But violence has increased since the pamphlets were issued.

"We feel that the organization is one that could control the actions of its members if it desires to do so. For two months now, violence has continued unabated and there has been no effort on the part of the union to discipline its members for these acts. We find that the union not only permitted but ratified the acts."

We agree thoroughly with Judge Turner's analysis of the case. We know, too, that there are many good men in the union—we know some of them personally here—but we likewise contend that it is up to union leaders to throttle the outlaws, as Judge Turner terms them, when they attempt to substitute mob violence for orderly procedure to settle their differences.

We hope that the precedent set by Judge Turner will give other public officials—including law enforcement officers—the courage to provide individuals and the general public with the protection which they are entitled to.

FOREIGN OIL

At a meeting the other day Kansas independent oil and gas men were told that so much steel is being exported to push foreign oil developments that domestic producers cannot complete wells in the United States. Russell B. Brown of Washington, D. C., general counsel of the independent producers, believes the design is to boost production abroad and create a market for foreign oil in the United States.

American oil resources are under a heavy strain and imports might be used to ease the pressure on American withdrawals, husbanding American oil resources for some future crisis.

But, according to Brown, it doesn't work out that way. After World War I an attempt was made to conserve American supplies by bringing in foreign oil. If that had been successful, the American oil industry would have gone to pot and the United States could not have supplied 85 per cent of the oil used by the Allies in World War II.

Could the United States obtain oil from as far away as Asia in event of another war? The navy could conceivably keep open the sea lanes, but could sufficient land forces be deployed at such a distance to protect wells and pipelines?

The domestic oil industry must be kept strong for an emergency. That cannot be accomplished by favoring foreign over domestic oil.

MURDERS OF GAMBLERS

The New York police department has closed its file on one Jack Rose and thus "finis" is written to the Herman Rosenthal murder case of 1912. The death of Rose attracted no attention until word of it reached police headquarters and memories were quickened.

Rose a cheap gambler, was an informer. As principal state witness, he sent Police Lieutenant Becker and four gunmen to execution for Rosenthal's murder. He testified that Becker was a partner of Rosenthal in a midtown Manhattan gambling joint—that when the two fell out and Rosenthal prepared to reveal Becker's gambling interests to the authorities, Becker ordered Rosenthal murdered. Rose hired the four murderers.

For turning informer, Rose went free. The district attorney, Charles S. Whitman, was elected governor of New York. Rose went into vaudeville at $1,000 a week and lectured at training camps in World War 1 on the evils of gambling.

This was the first of what might be described as modern gang murders. Rosenthal was not "taken for a ride" and dumped into a vacant lot on the outskirts of the city. He was murdered as he came out of a hotel on West 43rd street at 2 a.m. The murderers, one of whom bore the classic nickname of Gyp the Blood, were not, in fact, members of a gang in the modern sense, but East Side toughs who hung around gambling places.

As the campaign approaches, President Truman should look carefully into those recipes being released by the White House. That mixture of marshmallows will not make many votes.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18.—Pals of Elliott Roosevelt and Faye Emerson report that their marriage is in shoal water, and that they'll try to save it via a trial separation. . . . Good listening: Keenan Wynn's recording of Frank Tashlin's very clever fable, "The Bear That Wasn't." . . . Martin Block, the gold-mining disc jockey, will further pad his fabulous earnings by producing a series of shorts for M.-G.-M., telling the success stories of famous name bands. . . . Feuding: Desi Arnaz and Xavier Cugat. . . . Blue-pencil those rumors of romance between George Raft and Gail Robbins; she's happily married to a veteran now attending college in Los Angeles.

Marie McDonald's bridegroom, shoe magnate Harry Karl, is high-pressuring her to throw away her make-up kit and devote full time to being Mrs. Karl. . . . Add men in a mess: Independent producers who must pay stars huge salaries stipulated by contracts, but are unable to get production money from bankers because of the foreign market collapse. . . . Now it's Jimmy Stewart who's begging producers for "tough guy" roles. . . . For Adults Only: 20th Century-Fox's "Nightmare Alley" (Tyrone Power-Joan Blondell-Coleen Gray-Helen Walker). Powerful, well-played drama, but highly questionable because of its sordid, revolting plot. Keep the kids at home. . . . Best Performance: Tyrone Power in "Nightmare Alley."

For the past three months, all of Hollywood's femme columnists and magazine writers have been in an emotional dither over the Greer Garson-Richard Ney divorce. On Monday, I read that Greer has dissolved into tears at mention of Ney's name; on Tuesday I read that "poor Richard" is wasting away to a shadow from melancholia. I'll have to confess that I've talked with neither Miss Garson nor her divorced spouse about their present feelings in the matter, but since there should be some fire where there's so much smoke, I find myself rather puzzled. If Greer is broken-hearted by the marital wreck, and Ney is pining for a reconciliation, why in Sam Hill don't they get together like sensible people and try to find a solution for their problems? And until they do, it might be a good idea for the Filmville sob-sisters to quit sympathizing with their unhappiness.

To hand this morning is a letter from the Hollywood Guild and Canteen that deserves attention. It reports that ex-servicemen continue to pour into Hollywood by the thousands in the expectation that they can find employment in the movie industry. It further reports that eight, at least, in every ten, are completely inexperienced in any of the crafts that might qualify them for studio jobs. Obviously, conditions being what they are at the moment, the job-hunters are bound to be disappointed. Picture production is at low ebb because of uncertain domestic boxoffice conditions and the collapse of the foreign markets. Hollywood hasn't nearly enough jobs to keep its own veteran workers in employment. Until better times dawn, job-hunting veterans should be wise and stay away from the motion picture industry which wishes them the best, but is in no position to give them the breaks they want.

This week, a Los Angeles father was arrested for beating a two-year-old baby because the child insisted on talking during the showing of a motion picture. While considering his punishment, authorities might be wise to consider a law forbidding parents to take small children to late-hour shows—not so much to protect other patrons as to protect kids who should be in bed.

OUR CHILDREN

THE BYSTANDER

This is a word of friendly advice to the bystander, the other parent, the relative or the family friend who is standing by when somebody is having difficulty with a child. Sympathy with one or the other of the contestants is natural, irritation caused by the actions of one or the other is normal also, but silence is best. Get out of the way, out of sight and hearing if that is possible, and keep your counsel until it is asked for. If you speak your thought during such a conflict, you add fuel to the flame. Wait.

Wait until your opinion is asked for and then give it for what it is worth, not as a command from Sinai. Wait for time to put the battle in perspective before saying anything at all. It takes days, sometimes longer, for the emotions caused by a conflict to subside and to let the actual conditions come through clearly for all concerned. No good comes of talking, blaming and advising until the echoes of battle have died away.

A mother wants a child to take a spoonful of medicine, and the child refuses. Her mother insists because she knows the child needs it, or firmly believes she needs it for her restoration to health. The child won't open her mouth. Her mother swings her under her arm, holds her nose and manages to get some of the medicine into her mouth and the rest over herself.

Grandma, sitting by, says, "Give her a sound spanking and she'll soon take it." Father says, "That's no way to treat a child. What do you expect anyway? She's too little to know to take medicine." Mother, all excited, worried, heated and worn out, snaps back. The child gets a confused notion that she is among enemies, with one feeble voice raised in her behalf, and battles more fiercely than ever.

When such a state prevails in the household, the bystanders would be helpful by their absence. Thoughts have a way of seeping through to those about them so that the mother feels grandmother's impatience and Father's opposition, and the child feels the confusion and antagonism. It is hard enough for the struggling parent without this added burden of opposing thought. Just get out of the way and be silent.

It is always easy to bear another's pain. If we were in the place of the worried mother, the harried teacher, the struggling child, we might feel very differently about the whole matter. The kindest thing for us to do, and the most helpful, is to go silently from the place and pray for grace for all concerned.

The habit of obedience is one which diverts many children from taking up a headstrong position. For help in the difficult problem of teaching obedience, consult Dr. Patri's well known booklet No. 301, "Obedience," obtainable by sending 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to him, c/o this paper, P. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Sunday School Lesson For Oct. 26
Scripture: James 1:22-27; 2:14-20
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

"Living Our Religion," is the topic of this lesson for young people and adults, and that is religion in practice.

The Epistle of James is reputedly the epistle of "works," and some, including the great Martin Luther, have set it over against the Epistle of Paul as epistles of "faith." But to make such a contrast is utterly untrue both to the facts of life in the early Christian church, and to the letter and spirit of the whole New Testament. As much as James, Paul was insistent upon practical Christian living, defined in terms of the example of the Master, and the fruits of the spirit.

Four Jameses are mentioned in the New Testament: James, the Apostle, son of Zebedee, and brother of John; James, the son of Alphaeus, also an Apostle (see Luke 6:16, American Revised Version); James, the father of Judas, the Apostle who was not Judas Iscariot; and James, the brother of Jesus.

This last James, Christian history asserts, was the author of the Epistle of James. He was not among the Twelve Apostles; in fact, we are told in John 7:3-5, that the brothers of Jesus did not believe in Him. But after His crucifixion, they joined the Christian company (Acts 1:4), and two books of the New Testament, James and Jude, are associated with brothers of the Master.

James is mentioned by Paul (1 Corinthians 15:7) as among those who had a vision of the Risen Christ. He became a great power in the church at Jerusalem, and, far from being in any way opposed to Paul, the two had been in close fellowship, as may be seen by reference to such passages as Galatians 1:18-19; 2:1-10; and Acts 15:4-34; 21:18-19.

What leads, perhaps, to so much emphasis upon the Epistle of James as an epistle of "works" is the fact that there is no elaborate doctrinal discussions and expositions, as in Paul's writings. But, as he appears in Acts 15, he shows himself to be like Paul in the apprehension of the meaning of Christian faith.

When we think of James as the leader of the Christian community we can see him much as we would see the wise pastor of a church, dealing with his people according to their needs and conditions, rebuking laxity and un-Christian attitudes and tempers, commending the right way, and defining it so that none might miss its meaning.

By the time the Epistle was written, the Christian community had grown enough to present new problems. The "man with the gold ring" was typical of some of the well-to-do who had been drawn to the Christian fellowship, and James found it necessary to remind the Christians that God was no respecter of persons. Likewise, when he saw Christian duties and opportunities for kindness being neglected, he gave the great, practical definition of pure religion in James 1:27.

Both the world and the church need a lot of this Epistle today.

"IN WASHINGTON"
By Bascom N. Timmons

On the top items of the Republican congressional calendar early in the coming session of congress is Senate action on the anti-poll tax bill.

Informed Republican sources say that strategy will be to bring it up in the Senate early in the session so that there will be sufficient time to ride out the inevitable Southern filibuster.

The anti-poll tax bill (H. R. 29) passed the House by a thumping 290 to 112 during the last session of congress, despite bitter southern opposition.

It has previously passed the House in campaign years in other recent congresses, only to die in the Senate, asphyxiated by prolonged debate.

While the bill would have undoubtedly mustered a majority vote in past sessions of the Senate, it could never be brought to a vote. For in order to get a vote, it was necessary to invoke cloture on debate, which required a two-thirds, and not merely a simple majority.

In past years, Republican senators have not been too enthusiastic about supporting cloture. While they made nice speeches and issued pronouncements of support for the measure itself, when it came to viring to shut up the southerners many of the Republicans demurred.

"Why should we help the Democrats put over this bill, only to have them get the credit?" they asked realistically.

But now the situation is different. Republicans control congress. If they clamp down on southern debate and pass the bill, they will get the credit.

During the election year session coming up, you will therefore probably witness a new enthusiasm for closing debate on the Republican side of the aisle.

The bill, if enacted, would affect only a handful of southern states, where a charge is still made for the right or privilege of casting a ballot. Even in those states, it is doubtful whether removal of the tax would offset the immediate and revolutionary changes in politics that some of the supporters of the bill anticipate.

The bill is important, however, for its political effect upon Negro voters in the large metropolitan centers in key states.

Republicans have been making inroads into the big-city Negro vote in recent years, after losing it lock-stock-and-barrel to Roosevelt during the New Deal days.

Republican political strategists believe that adoption of the anti-poll tax bill will win additional Negro voters to their cause in the 1948 elections, and especially in the populous and important key states where the additional votes will count for something.

That, in brief, is the reason for their determination to see it through to early passage, if at all possible.

A South Carolina lady wrote her United States senator, Olin D. Johnston, this week asking for her federal bonus—she has eight sons.

She claimed there is a national law which gives money to mothers of more than seven sons.

Johnston did some research on the subject and found that President Theodore Roosevelt had once suggested that the government should reward mothers of more than seven boys. But Congress never did anything about it.

A Civil Service Commission examiner down south reports that he offered a young lady in need of work a job in a stenographic pool.

"Oh," she replied hesitantly, "I'd like to accept, but I'm afraid I can't."

"Why?" the examiner asked. "You type and take shorthand well."

"Yes," she said, "but I couldn't work in a pool. I can't swim!"

IN MOVIELAND

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Little-known facts about a well-known town:

In 1904 the staid community of Hollywood passed an ordinance prohibiting the sale of liquor except by pharmacists on prescription. . . that year the speed limit for horses, automobiles and bicycles was set at 12 miles per hour. . .

Hollywood has 45 churches, one cemetery. Latter is adjacent to RKO and Paramount studios. . . The town was incorporated in 1903. It became part of Los Angeles in 1910 in order to get a water supply . . . About 30,000 people work in motion picture studios, which are scattered around the Los Angeles area. Paramount, RKO and Columbia are the only big studios located in Hollywood. . .

Population of Hollywood is somewhat over 150,000. In 1910 it was 4,000. Most film players, except for some oldtimers, live in other areas. . . Altitude: 385 feet . . . Famous Vine street is actually less than two miles in length. . .

No studio has a stage 13, film workers being a superstitious lot. The 13th stage is called 12A. . . There are 10 film houses in Hollywood Boulevard, no regular legitimate theater, no burlesque show. . .

The first movie made here was "Her Indian Lover" in 1911. Among its stars was Jack Conway, who last directed "The Hucksters" . . . within three months the climate attracted 15 film companies and in five years the yearly studio payroll was estimated at $20,000,000. . .

There are areas named North, East and West Hollywood, but no South Hollywood. . . Aside from movies and radio programs, Hollywood also manufacturers automotive parts, medicine, stationery, phonograph records, fruit drinks, plumbing . . . Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Illinois, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri and New Mexico also have towns named Hollywood . . . There is only one daily newspaper here, the Citizen-News. . .

The original Indians in Hollywood effected marriage by an exchange of money, which consisted of shells, and other valuables between two parties. This was a primitive forerunner of what is now done with four lawyers and the community property law.

New York Day By Day
By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: This diary entry is a few days late, because of other material that had the right of way before. But I'm going to tell you something about a thrilling experience I had a few days ago, riding the Train of Tomorrow for about a hundred miles.

I hope everybody in America, and particularly every railroad man and railroad bondholder, will get to see this amazing passenger train. It is not in service. It is an experimental laboratory train; an effort by experts to demonstrate what can be done in carrying passengers by rail in comfort and with pleasure for everybody concerned.

You've often heard the wisecrack—I don't know who invented it—that Old Man Pullman built a sleeping car immediately after the War Between the States, and the only improvement made since is a slot in the wall of the men's lounge to receive safety razor blades.

That was true until a few years ago, when some of the streamlined trains broke away from traditional design. Many of these fast trains, however, were built so light that they bounded around on the washboard tracks, giving the alleged sleepers a tough night of it.

About a million Americans saw this Train of Tomorrow before we in New York got a glimpse of it. When it came to town the other day, a party of writers and broadcasters went up to Millerton, a place hitherto unheard of, in the northeast corner of Duchess county.

Thence we rode to Van Cortlandt Park station, just inside the north boundary of New York City, and a brisk walk from my house.

The trip was made mostly over the ancient Putnam division of the New York Central, over some of the roughest winding track in this part of the world. The country on both sides of this outmoded rail stretch is about as beautiful as any area in New York, and that's saying a bookful.

We had gone up to Millerton from Grand Central on a special train of the Central. It was one of the most modern in the service, and indeed quite comfortable and elegant. Even the lunch was delicious. But wait till you see the Train of Tomorrow!

Bright silver and blue, she came moseying down the track to take us on, her diesel locomotive of 2,000 horses turning over gently, almost noiselessly, and her horn sounding handsomely. A regular locomotive bell was ringing, too. When General Motors designed these diesel locomotives it got engineers to invent an electric apparatus that made a noise exactly like a bell. No soap with the enginemen. It was bad luck to go out without a real old brass bell.

The four cars of this train are integrated so that, with the locomotive, they form a unit that looks as though it had no doors until the doors open for receiving passengers.

The distinguishing feature of features on this train consists of an upper story of polarized plexiglass, where 24 passengers can sit and get an unobstructed view of the scenery. One of these rectangular domes atop each car. The glass is glare-proof and weather-proof. But not sunburn proof, as I discovered when I reached home. Without feeling it, I had picked up a lobster surface. Ultra-violet rays are admitted by the glass.

I'll tell you some more about it.

Pitching Horseshoes
By Billy Rose

One evening a couple of months back, my Aunt Frieda telephoned me. "Your Uncle Charlie is busy with business tonight," she said. "Maybe you'd like to come and eat his portion sauerbrauten so it shouldn't go to waste."

Billy Rose

A fast minute later, I was in a cab headed for the East Side and the best sauerbrauten in the world. "Don't worry about the lights," I told the driver. "Matter of life or death."

As I got to the tenement in which Charlie and Frieda have lived for years, my nose began doing nip-ups. The whole house smelled like a ketchup factory.

"What's cooking?" I asked a kid who was sitting on the stoop.

"Tomatoes," said the youngster. "On every floor, tomatoes."

As I climbed the three flights to Charlie's flat, the odors of roasted, boiled, fried and fricasseed tomatoes filled the halls. Aunt Frieda was waiting for me on the landing. "You'll have to come in through the kitchen," she said. "The parlor is full."

"Full of what?" I asked.

"Tomatoes," said my aunt.

I peeked into the parlor. It was chock-a-block with crates and baskets of tomatoes. "Where' Uncle Charlie?" I asked.

"In the penitentiary," grinned Frieda.

"Begin at the beginning," I said. "The tenement smells like an antipasto plant. The parlor is full of tomatoes. Uncle Charlie is in the hoosegow. What happened?"

"What happened," chuckled my aunt, "could only happen to your Uncle Charlie. Last Saturday we are going on the bus to catch some fresh air on my Cousin Irving's farm."

"You mean the cousin who has a truck farm in New Jersey?"

"The identical," said Frieda. "For eight years, Irving is making a A-number-one living raising vegetables. In twenty minutes, your genius uncle figures out how for eight years what Irving has been doing is wrong. A regular Louie Burbank. He starts with telling him how he should make rain with dry ice, and finishes with an invention to make green tomatoes get ripe right away. I tried to warn Irving that your uncle is a genius—genius spelled backwards, jackass—but Charlie is getting Irving excited with big words from Popular Mechanics.

"Next day Irving is picking off the green tomatoes, like your uncle tells him, and putting them in the cellar. Charlie is going away ' New York and coming back with sun lamps which he is borrowing from our boy Melvin, the druggist-doctor."

"Did the ultra-violet rays ripen the tomatoes?" I asked.

"Red like borsh they got," said my Aunt Frieda. "I am picking one up and sampling same. Not only is it ripe—it is also fried. When Cousin Irving sees he is owning two acres of fried tomatoes, he is calling a lawyer who is a relation on his wife's side. The lawyer is making an opinion Charlie must buy the crop on account there are no wholesale customers for fried tomatoes. Irving and the lawyer is making the price seventy-five dollars and, besides, your uncle must get a truck and move out the fried vegetables.

"Next day while I am visiting with Mrs. Mendel, your uncle behind my back is piling high the parlor with the tomatoes."

"Where did Charlie get the seventy-five?"

Aunt Frieda sighed. "Who has seventy-five dollars? A bank. So your uncle goes to a bank. When they ask what security he has got, he tells them two acres tomatoes.

"In couple days, the tomatoes is making itself known in the house, and the tenants is forming themselves a committee to complain to the landlord your uncle is cooking glue in the flat. Charlie is postponing the complaint by giving each tenant a crate fried tomatoes complimentary. Soon every restaurant for blocks is featuring on the menu Tomato Surprise.

"This morning, is coming an inspector from the Board Health. He says kiddies up to Eighth street is breaking out with red spots. While Charlie is having a glass tea with the Board Health, is coming a man from the bank with a policeman. The man says someone is snitching to the bank your uncle put up fried collateral. And for this, Charlie is now in the Seventh precinct penitentiary."

"Let's go down to the stationhouse and bail the old boy out," I said.

"Let him sit there a little," said my aunt. "How about a plate sauerbrauten?"

"Sauerbrauten with potato pancakes?" I asked hopefully.

"No," smiled Frieda. "With tomato sauce."

A Judge Speaks

Judge Henry F. Turner of Shreveport Thursday granted a temporary injunction to restrain members of a bus drivers union from "further acts of violence" in the prolonged strike of drivers on the Southern Bus Lines, Inc., and in his statement giving his reasons for granting the injunction, expressed what we believe to be the general public's opinion. Unlike one of his contemporaries who gave two or three of the goons a mere slap on the wrist when they were brought before him on criminal charges, Judge Turner expressed concern for the public's safety and the protection of private property.

In reference to the recent wave of violence, Judge Turner stated in his written opinion:

"The public is not going to stand by and put up with such acts. The public will not tolerate it, and the courts will not, if they can put a stop to it.

"It was fortunate that more serious injury was not done. The court is certain that there are many good men who belong to the union, but it's just as certain that there are outlaws among them. This is evidenced by the fact that they use makeshift masks and arm themselves with guns."

Judge Turner, referring to the contention by defense attorneys that the union had not authorized such violence, said that union members had been warned against violence through pamphlets distributed by union officials, but added:

"This means has been totally ineffective. If they had been effective, there would be no necessity for the courts interceding now. But violence has increased since the pamphlets were issued.

"We feel that the organization is one that could control the actions of its members if it desires to do so. For two months now, violence has continued unabated and there has been no effort on the part of the union to discipline its members for these acts. We find that the union not only permitted but ratified the acts."

We agree thoroughly with Judge Turner's analysis of the case. We know, too, that there are many good men in the union—we know some of them personally here—but we likewise contend that it is up to union leaders to throttle the outlaws, as Judge Turner terms them, when they attempt to substitute mob violence for orderly procedure to settle their differences.

We hope that the precedent set by Judge Turner will give other public officials—including law enforcement officers—the courage to provide individuals and the general public with the protection which they are entitled to.

FOREIGN OIL

At a meeting the other day Kansas independent oil and gas men were told that so much steel is being exported to push foreign oil developments that domestic producers cannot complete wells in the United States. Russell B. Brown of Washington, D. C., general counsel of the independent producers, believes the design is to boost production abroad and create a market for foreign oil in the United States.

American oil resources are under a heavy strain and imports might be used to ease the pressure on American withdrawals, husbanding American oil resources for some future crisis.

But, according to Brown, it doesn't work out that way. After World War I an attempt was made to conserve American supplies by bringing in foreign oil. If that had been successful, the American oil industry would have gone to pot and the United States could not have supplied 85 per cent of the oil used by the Allies in World War II.

Could the United States obtain oil from as far away as Asia in event of another war? The navy could conceivably keep open the sea lanes, but could sufficient land forces be deployed at such a distance to protect wells and pipelines?

The domestic oil industry must be kept strong for an emergency. That cannot be accomplished by favoring foreign over domestic oil.

MURDERS OF GAMBLERS

The New York police department has closed its file on one Jack Rose and thus "finis" is written to the Herman Rosenthal murder case of 1912. The death of Rose attracted no attention until word of it reached police headquarters and memories were quickened.

Rose a cheap gambler, was an informer. As principal state witness, he sent Police Lieutenant Becker and four gunmen to execution for Rosenthal's murder. He testified that Becker was a partner of Rosenthal in a midtown Manhattan gambling joint—that when the two fell out and Rosenthal prepared to reveal Becker's gambling interests to the authorities, Becker ordered Rosenthal murdered. Rose hired the four murderers.

For turning informer, Rose went free. The district attorney, Charles S. Whitman, was elected governor of New York. Rose went into vaudeville at $1,000 a week and lectured at training camps in World War 1 on the evils of gambling.

This was the first of what might be described as modern gang murders. Rosenthal was not "taken for a ride" and dumped into a vacant lot on the outskirts of the city. He was murdered as he came out of a hotel on West 43rd street at 2 a.m. The murderers, one of whom bore the classic nickname of Gyp the Blood, were not, in fact, members of a gang in the modern sense, but East Side toughs who hung around gambling places.

As the campaign approaches, President Truman should look carefully into those recipes being released by the White House. That mixture of marshmallows will not make many votes.

For the past three months, all of Hollywood's femme columnists and magazine writers have been in an emotional dither over the Greer Garson-Richard Ney divorce. On Monday, I read that Greer has dissolved into tears at mention of Ney's name; on Tuesday I read that "poor Richard" is wasting away to a shadow from melancholia. I'll have to confess that I've talked with neither Miss Garson nor her divorced spouse about their present feelings in the matter, but since there should be some fire where there's so much smoke, I find myself rather puzzled. If Greer is broken-hearted by the marital wreck, and Ney is pining for a reconciliation, why in Sam Hill don't they get together like sensible people and try to find a solution for their problems? And until they do, it might be a good idea for the Filmville sob-sisters to quit sympathizing with their unhappiness.

To hand this morning is a letter from the Hollywood Guild and Canteen that deserves attention. It reports that ex-servicemen continue to pour into Hollywood by the thousands in the expectation that they can find employment in the movie industry. It further reports that eight, at least, in every ten, are completely inexperienced in any of the crafts that might qualify them for studio jobs. Obviously, conditions being what they are at the moment, the job-hunters are bound to be disappointed. Picture production is at low ebb because of uncertain domestic boxoffice conditions and the collapse of the foreign markets. Hollywood hasn't nearly enough jobs to keep its own veteran workers in employment. Until better times dawn, job-hunting veterans should be wise and stay away from the motion picture industry which wishes them the best, but is in no position to give them the breaks they want.

This week, a Los Angeles father was arrested for beating a two-year-old baby because the child insisted on talking during the showing of a motion picture. While considering his punishment, authorities might be wise to consider a law forbidding parents to take small children to late-hour shows—not so much to protect other patrons as to protect kids who should be in bed.

OUR CHILDREN

THE BYSTANDER

This is a word of friendly advice to the bystander, the other parent, the relative or the family friend who is standing by when somebody is having difficulty with a child. Sympathy with one or the other of the contestants is natural, irritation caused by the actions of one or the other is normal also, but silence is best. Get out of the way, out of sight and hearing if that is possible, and keep your counsel until it is asked for. If you speak your thought during such a conflict, you add fuel to the flame. Wait.

Wait until your opinion is asked for and then give it for what it is worth, not as a command from Sinai. Wait for time to put the battle in perspective before saying anything at all. It takes days, sometimes longer, for the emotions caused by a conflict to subside and to let the actual conditions come through clearly for all concerned. No good comes of talking, blaming and advising until the echoes of battle have died away.

A mother wants a child to take a spoonful of medicine, and the child refuses. Her mother insists because she knows the child needs it, or firmly believes she needs it for her restoration to health. The child won't open her mouth. Her mother swings her under her arm, holds her nose and manages to get some of the medicine into her mouth and the rest over herself.

Grandma, sitting by, says, "Give her a sound spanking and she'll soon take it." Father says, "That's no way to treat a child. What do you expect anyway? She's too little to know to take medicine." Mother, all excited, worried, heated and worn out, snaps back. The child gets a confused notion that she is among enemies, with one feeble voice raised in her behalf, and battles more fiercely than ever.

When such a state prevails in the household, the bystanders would be helpful by their absence. Thoughts have a way of seeping through to those about them so that the mother feels grandmother's impatience and Father's opposition, and the child feels the confusion and antagonism. It is hard enough for the struggling parent without this added burden of opposing thought. Just get out of the way and be silent.

It is always easy to bear another's pain. If we were in the place of the worried mother, the harried teacher, the struggling child, we might feel very differently about the whole matter. The kindest thing for us to do, and the most helpful, is to go silently from the place and pray for grace for all concerned.

The habit of obedience is one which diverts many children from taking up a headstrong position. For help in the difficult problem of teaching obedience, consult Dr. Patri's well known booklet No. 301, "Obedience," obtainable by sending 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to him, c/o this paper, P. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

"Living Our Religion," is the topic of this lesson for young people and adults, and that is religion in practice.

The Epistle of James is reputedly the epistle of "works," and some, including the great Martin Luther, have set it over against the Epistle of Paul as epistles of "faith." But to make such a contrast is utterly untrue both to the facts of life in the early Christian church, and to the letter and spirit of the whole New Testament. As much as James, Paul was insistent upon practical Christian living, defined in terms of the example of the Master, and the fruits of the spirit.

Four Jameses are mentioned in the New Testament: James, the Apostle, son of Zebedee, and brother of John; James, the son of Alphaeus, also an Apostle (see Luke 6:16, American Revised Version); James, the father of Judas, the Apostle who was not Judas Iscariot; and James, the brother of Jesus.

This last James, Christian history asserts, was the author of the Epistle of James. He was not among the Twelve Apostles; in fact, we are told in John 7:3-5, that the brothers of Jesus did not believe in Him. But after His crucifixion, they joined the Christian company (Acts 1:4), and two books of the New Testament, James and Jude, are associated with brothers of the Master.

James is mentioned by Paul (1 Corinthians 15:7) as among those who had a vision of the Risen Christ. He became a great power in the church at Jerusalem, and, far from being in any way opposed to Paul, the two had been in close fellowship, as may be seen by reference to such passages as Galatians 1:18-19; 2:1-10; and Acts 15:4-34; 21:18-19.

What leads, perhaps, to so much emphasis upon the Epistle of James as an epistle of "works" is the fact that there is no elaborate doctrinal discussions and expositions, as in Paul's writings. But, as he appears in Acts 15, he shows himself to be like Paul in the apprehension of the meaning of Christian faith.

When we think of James as the leader of the Christian community we can see him much as we would see the wise pastor of a church, dealing with his people according to their needs and conditions, rebuking laxity and un-Christian attitudes and tempers, commending the right way, and defining it so that none might miss its meaning.

By the time the Epistle was written, the Christian community had grown enough to present new problems. The "man with the gold ring" was typical of some of the well-to-do who had been drawn to the Christian fellowship, and James found it necessary to remind the Christians that God was no respecter of persons. Likewise, when he saw Christian duties and opportunities for kindness being neglected, he gave the great, practical definition of pure religion in James 1:27.

Both the world and the church need a lot of this Epistle today.

"IN WASHINGTON"
By Bascom N. Timmons

On the top items of the Republican congressional calendar early in the coming session of congress is Senate action on the anti-poll tax bill.

Informed Republican sources say that strategy will be to bring it up in the Senate early in the session so that there will be sufficient time to ride out the inevitable Southern filibuster.

The anti-poll tax bill (H. R. 29) passed the House by a thumping 290 to 112 during the last session of congress, despite bitter southern opposition.

It has previously passed the House in campaign years in other recent congresses, only to die in the Senate, asphyxiated by prolonged debate.

While the bill would have undoubtedly mustered a majority vote in past sessions of the Senate, it could never be brought to a vote. For in order to get a vote, it was necessary to invoke cloture on debate, which required a two-thirds, and not merely a simple majority.

In past years, Republican senators have not been too enthusiastic about supporting cloture. While they made nice speeches and issued pronouncements of support for the measure itself, when it came to viring to shut up the southerners many of the Republicans demurred.

"Why should we help the Democrats put over this bill, only to have them get the credit?" they asked realistically.

But now the situation is different. Republicans control congress. If they clamp down on southern debate and pass the bill, they will get the credit.

During the election year session coming up, you will therefore probably witness a new enthusiasm for closing debate on the Republican side of the aisle.

The bill, if enacted, would affect only a handful of southern states, where a charge is still made for the right or privilege of casting a ballot. Even in those states, it is doubtful whether removal of the tax would offset the immediate and revolutionary changes in politics that some of the supporters of the bill anticipate.

The bill is important, however, for its political effect upon Negro voters in the large metropolitan centers in key states.

Republicans have been making inroads into the big-city Negro vote in recent years, after losing it lock-stock-and-barrel to Roosevelt during the New Deal days.

Republican political strategists believe that adoption of the anti-poll tax bill will win additional Negro voters to their cause in the 1948 elections, and especially in the populous and important key states where the additional votes will count for something.

That, in brief, is the reason for their determination to see it through to early passage, if at all possible.

A South Carolina lady wrote her United States senator, Olin D. Johnston, this week asking for her federal bonus—she has eight sons.

She claimed there is a national law which gives money to mothers of more than seven sons.

Johnston did some research on the subject and found that President Theodore Roosevelt had once suggested that the government should reward mothers of more than seven boys. But Congress never did anything about it.

A Civil Service Commission examiner down south reports that he offered a young lady in need of work a job in a stenographic pool.

"Oh," she replied hesitantly, "I'd like to accept, but I'm afraid I can't."

"Why?" the examiner asked. "You type and take shorthand well."

"Yes," she said, "but I couldn't work in a pool. I can't swim!"

IN MOVIELAND

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Little-known facts about a well-known town:

In 1904 the staid community of Hollywood passed an ordinance prohibiting the sale of liquor except by pharmacists on prescription. . . that year the speed limit for horses, automobiles and bicycles was set at 12 miles per hour. . .

Hollywood has 45 churches, one cemetery. Latter is adjacent to RKO and Paramount studios. . . The town was incorporated in 1903. It became part of Los Angeles in 1910 in order to get a water supply . . . About 30,000 people work in motion picture studios, which are scattered around the Los Angeles area. Paramount, RKO and Columbia are the only big studios located in Hollywood. . .

Population of Hollywood is somewhat over 150,000. In 1910 it was 4,000. Most film players, except for some oldtimers, live in other areas. . . Altitude: 385 feet . . . Famous Vine street is actually less than two miles in length. . .

No studio has a stage 13, film workers being a superstitious lot. The 13th stage is called 12A. . . There are 10 film houses in Hollywood Boulevard, no regular legitimate theater, no burlesque show. . .

The first movie made here was "Her Indian Lover" in 1911. Among its stars was Jack Conway, who last directed "The Hucksters" . . . within three months the climate attracted 15 film companies and in five years the yearly studio payroll was estimated at $20,000,000. . .

There are areas named North, East and West Hollywood, but no South Hollywood. . . Aside from movies and radio programs, Hollywood also manufacturers automotive parts, medicine, stationery, phonograph records, fruit drinks, plumbing . . . Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Illinois, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri and New Mexico also have towns named Hollywood . . . There is only one daily newspaper here, the Citizen-News. . .

The original Indians in Hollywood effected marriage by an exchange of money ,which consisted of shells, and other valuables between two parties. This was a primitive forerunner of what is now done with four lawyers and the community property law.

New York Day By Day
Title Reg U. S Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: This diary entry is a few days late, because of other material that had the right of way before. But I'm going to tell you something about a thrilling experience I had a few days ago, riding the Train of Tomorrow for about a hundred miles.

I hope everybody in America, and particularly every railroad man and railroad bondholder, will get to see this amazing passenger train. It is not in service. It is an experimental laboratory train; an effort by experts to demonstrate what can be done in carrying passengers by rail in comfort and with pleasure for everybody concerned.

You've often heard the wisecrack—I don't know who invented it—that Old Man Pullman built a sleeping car immediately after the War Between the States, and the only improvement made since is a slot in the wall of the men's lounge to receive safety razor blades.

That was true until a few years ago, when some of the streamlined trains broke away from traditional design. Many of these fast trains, however, were built so light that they bounded around on the washboard tracks, giving the alleged sleepers a tough night of it.

About a million Americans saw this Train of Tomorrow before we in New York got a glimpse of it. When it came to town the other day, a party of writers and broadcasters went up to Millerton, a place hitherto unheard of, in the northeast corner of Duchess county.

Thence we rode to Van Cortlandt Park station, just inside the north boundary of New York City, and a brisk walk from my house.

The trip was made mostly over the ancient Putnam division of the New York Central, over some of the roughest winding track in this part of the world. The country on both sides of this outmoded rail stretch is about as beautiful as any area in New York, and that's saying a bookful.

We had gone up to Millerton from Grand Central on a special train of the Central. It was one of the most modern in the service, and indeed quite comfortable and elegant. Even the lunch was delicious. But wait till you see the Train of Tomorrow!

Bright silver and blue, she came moseying down the track to take us on, her diesel locomotive of 2,000 horses turning over gently, almost noiselessly, and her horn sounding handsomely. A regular locomotive bell was ringing, too. When General Motors designed these diesel locomotives it got engineers to invent an electric apparatus that made a noise exactly like a bell. No soap with the enginemen. It was bad luck to go out without a real old brass bell.

The four cars of this train are integrated so that, with the locomotive, they form a unit that looks as though it had no doors until the doors open for receiving passengers.

The distinguishing feature of features on this train consists of an upper story of polarized plexiglass, where 24 passengers can sit and get an unobstructed view of the scenery. One of these rectangular domes atop each car.

The glass is glare-proof and weather-proof. But not sunburn proof, as I discovered when I reached home. Without feeling it, I had picked up a lobster surface. Ultra-violet rays are admitted by the glass.

I'll tell you some more about it.

Pitching Horseshoes
By Billy Rose

One evening a couple of months back, my Aunt Frieda telephoned me. "Your Uncle Charlie is busy with business tonight," she said. "Maybe you'd like to come and eat his portion sauerbrauten so it shouldn't go to waste."

Billy Rose

A fast minute later, I was in a cab headed for the East Side and the best sauerbrauten in the world. "Don't worry about the lights," I told the driver. "Matter of life or death."

As I got to the tenement in which Charlie and Frieda have lived for years, my nose began doing nip-ups. The whole house smelled like a ketchup factory.

"What's cooking?" I asked a kid who was sitting on the stoop.

"Tomatoes," said the youngster. "On every floor, tomatoes."

As I climbed the three flights to Charlie's flat, the odors of roasted, boiled, fried and fricasseed tomatoes filled the halls. Aunt Frieda was waiting for me on the landing. "You'll have to come in through the kitchen," she said. "The parlor is full."

"Full of what?" I asked.

"Tomatoes," said my aunt.

I peeked into the parlor. It was chock-a-block with crates and baskets of tomatoes. "Where' Uncle Charlie?" I asked.

"In the penitentiary," grinned Frieda.

"Begin at the beginning," I said. "The tenement smells like an antipasto plant. The parlor is full of tomatoes. Uncle Charlie is in the hoosegow. What happened?"

"What happened," chuckled my aunt, "could only happen to your Uncle Charlie. Last Saturday we are going on the bus to catch some fresh air on my Cousin Irving's farm."

"You mean the cousin who has a truck farm in New Jersey?"

"The identical," said Frieda. "For eight years, Irving is making a A-number-one living raising vegetables. In twenty minutes, your genius uncle figures out how for eight years what Irving has been doing is wrong. A regular Louie Burbank. He starts with telling him how he should make rain with dry ice, and finishes with an invention to make green tomatoes get ripe right away. I tried to warn Irving that your uncle is a genius—genius spelled backwards, jackass—but Charlie is getting Irving excited with big words from Popular Mechanics.

"Next day Irving is picking off the green tomatoes, like your uncle tells him, and putting them in the cellar. Charlie is going away ' New York and coming back with sun lamps which he is borrowing from our boy Melvin, the druggist-doctor."

"Did the ultra-violet rays ripen the tomatoes?" I asked.

"Red like borsh they got," said my Aunt Frieda. "I am picking one up and sampling same. Not only is it ripe—it is also fried. When Cousin Irving sees he is owning two acres of fried tomatoes, he is calling a lawyer who is a relation on his wife's side. The lawyer is making an opinion Charlie must buy the crop on account there are no wholesale customers for fried tomatoes. Irving and the lawyer is making the price seventy-five dollars and, besides, your uncle must get a truck and move out the fried vegetables.

"Next day while I am visiting with Mrs. Mendel, your uncle behind my back is piling high the parlor with the tomatoes."

"Where did Charlie get the seventy-five?"

Aunt Frieda sighed. "Who has seventy-five dollars? A bank. So your uncle goes to a bank. When they ask what security he has got, he tells them two acres tomatoes.

"In couple days, the tomatoes is making itself known in the house, and the tenants is forming themselves a committee to complain to the landlord your uncle is cooking glue in the flat. Charlie is postponing the complaint by giving each tenant a crate fried tomatoes complimentary. Soon every restaurant for blocks is featuring on the menu Tomato Surprise.

"This morning, is coming an inspector from the Board Health. He says kiddies up to Eighth street is breaking out with red spots. While Charlie is having a glass tea with the Board Health, is coming a man from the bank with a policeman. The man says someone is snitching to the bank your uncle put up fried collateral. And for this, Charlie is now in the Seventh precinct penitentiary."

"Let's go down to the stationhouse and bail the old boy out," I said.

"Let him sit there a little," said my aunt. "How about a plate sauerbrauten?"

"Sauerbrauten with potato pancakes?" I asked hopefully.

"No," smiled Frieda. "With tomato sauce."

DINNER BELL HAS RUNG!

Mrs. John Woods feeds and waters "Frisky," a squirrel that she raised from birth. It is as domesticated as a kitten, goes autoing and even attends the theater at times. When he sees a play, his mistress says, he is better behaved than some children.

AFFECTIONATE SQUIRREL ADOPTS RESIDENCE AS ABODE

'Frisky' Becomes Regular Member Of Family; Goes Autoing, To Shows

Pet, playmate and alarm clock, these are some of the functions performed by "Frisky," whose home is at 300 Plum Street, Monroe, and whose doting sponsors are Mr. and Mrs. John Woods. Many of the neighbors have heard of the characteristics of this little animal and became so well known that in course of time the News-Star—World heard that there was a real story in the life of a little animal down on the south side of the city.

Thus with the photographer and his pharaphernalia, a reporter made the trip and was received by Mr. and Mrs. Woods.

"Yes, 'Frisky' is home," Mrs. Woods answered, at the same time calling out to something under the bed. "Come out here, 'Frisky,' you are having company!"

Out darted from under the bed a lively little gray squirrel. "Yes, this is 'Frisky,'" explained his mistress, as he climbed up her dress and landed in her lap while she stroked him as she would a kitten.

"Frisky," it was explained, was one of four little new-born squirrels who were found in the center of a hollow tree that woodsmen felled in August, 1946, in Wesson, Miss. None of the little brood had their eyes open and three were taken by one man and "Frisky" was at once claimed by James Bland, woodsman who had helped fell the tree and who is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. John Woods. Bland next gave the little fellow to Mrs. Woods, who fed him with a medicine stopper and has raised him to the present time. As he knows of no other mother, he is as tame as a kitten.

Now past his first birthday, he is perfectly at home and feels secure with the Woods.

"He eats everything we do except meat. He is a strict vegetarian," Mrs. Woods declared. As she spoke she gave him a pecan and he jumped onto a nearby bed, sat up in regular squirrel style on his haunches and devoured the nut with a relish.

As a camera was placed near him, he showed almost human curiosity. He sniffed the material of which it was constructed, took a peep into the lens and then darted back on the bed. Now it was decided that he should pose for his picture. The photographer snapped the little fellow, who acted frightened as the flash bulb sent a glaring light onto him. "Thinks it's one of those atomic bombs he has been reading about!" ventured the photographer. Another nut was given him and a picture taken in full action.

After he had leaped up into Mrs. Woods' lap, she took a comb and smoothed out his hair as he, in docile manner, indicated that it was to his liking.

"He'd stay that way all day if I'd comb his hair," his mistress said.

She also explained a bit further about his fondness for eatables. Candy and ice cream were always rare treats for him, she said. He just couldn't get too much of these sweets.

When he desires to drink, Mrs. Woods fills a tumbler with water and tilting it at the correct angle. "Frisky" drinks with his head well inside the container.

One of his performances is to indicate when he desires to leave the room. He will go to the door, rise on haunches and look up at the doorknob. This action is rewarded by the opening of the door by Mrs. Woods.

In a dresser drawer are the rudiments for a night's free lodging for "Frisky" but he sees to it that the bed is re-made nightly by his own handiwork. When morning comes, he is the first in the room to rise. It is always right at 6 a.m., for he is a creature of precision. His first waking act is to jump on the bed and arouse the sleeping Mr. and Mrs. Woods by promenading over their faces. It always wakes them up.

The little fellow enjoys riding in an auto and such rides are frequent. The other day Mrs. Woods attended a picture show in Monroe and took "Frisky" along. She reported later that his conduct was perfect and that he was far better behaved than some of the young children in the playhouse.

"He's the cleanest, most understanding pet I ever had. I wouldn't take anything for 'Frisky'," commented Mrs. Woods, as her visitors took their departure.

DOUGHTY RUNS FOR REPRESENTATIVE

JONESVILLE, La., Oct. 19.—(Special)—J. Eldon Doughty, principal of Block Elementary School, of Jonesville and a navy veteran, has announced his candidacy for state representative from Catahoula parish subject to the voters in the Democratic primary, January 20, 1948.

The 28-year-old son of a Baptist minister is a 1940 honor graduate of Louisiana College, Pineville, and will complete work on his master's degree in education at Louisiana State University next summer.

He is vice-commander of the Fifth congressional district for the American Legion and has served the past two terms as president of the Catahoula Parish Parent-Teachers Association.

In announcing his candidacy, Doughty pointed out that he was reared on a farm and worked his way through college and knew the "hard knocks" of life. He pledged an independent campaign free of promises "which I do not know I can fulfill."

The incumbent is Grover C. Womack whose hometown is Manifest, where Doughty's parents reside, and where he graduated from high school in 1936.

LABOR ACTIVE IN DIRECTING VOTES

Ward Organizational Meeting To Be Held Tuesday Night

Organized labor in the Monroe area—carrying through on its avowed purpose of organizing labor votes for January elections—will swing into action next Tuesday night at the ward organizational meeting to be held in the courtroom of the city hall.

In anouncing the meeting yesterday, Leon Johnson, chairman of the Better Citizens' Council, election committee for labor groups here, said that plans for selection of group and ward leaders would be worked out. These ward captains, Johnson said, would be relied upon by the committee to ascertain that every eligible member of local unions would be registered before the December 20 deadline.

Johnson stated that 53 locals have offices here, 27 of which are directly affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. He estimated the combined voting strength of the groups at 20,000. He added, however, that many who carry cards in Monroe unions live in surrounding parishes.

According to Johnson no candidates have been endorsed as yet. An endorsement committee will be set up following the completion of registration.

HOMECOMING TO BE N. J. C. EVENT

Plans Formulated For Annual Affair Scheduled For Friday

Open house and a dance honoring alumni will complete the night's calendar of events for Homecoming at Northeast Junior College Friday, Oct. 24. This phase of informal entertainment, which is being sponsored by the Student Council, will start at 10:30 o'clock. Alumni, former students and friends of the institution, are invited to join students, faculty and staff in the college gymnasium immediately after the game between the local Indians and the Copiah-Lincoln Wolves on Brown Field. There will be no admission charge.

Mrs. Dorothy Younse and A. L. Tatum, committee chairmen, and Student Council committees are planning colorful decorations that will transform the gym into a background appropriate for the celebration of homecoming. Refreshments will be served throughout the evening.

Pre-game activities are to include the singing of "America" by Mrs. Bryan Pugh III, the former Miss Nellie Breard, N. J. C. alumna of the class of '34, who sang at a homecoming game several years ago when Coach James L. Malone's team played Copiah-Lincoln. Presented also will be Henry P. Florsheim, former N. J. C. football man who played in the first homecoming game here, and other distinguished alumni and friends of the college.

The coronation ceremony bids to be another colorful pre-game feature. Barbara Ellis of Monroe will be crowned by Dr. S. A. Caldwell, dean of the junior division of Louisiana State University and supervisor of junior colleges, L. S. U. The queen's court will include Barbara Finlay, Harrisonburg, maid of honor, and the five following maids: Ruth Martin, Lake Providence; Joyce Toler, Monroe; Joan Warner, Alexandria; Elsie Pipes, West Monroe, and Geraldine Jones, West Monroe.

The half-time program is to include several intricate formations by the Indianettes, who will be wearing their new uniforms of white skirts and sweaters with colorful Indian emblems on the back. Purple and gold beanies with gay purple feathers and white moccasins will complete the costumes. The group will be led by three majorettes, Naomi Harris, Marjorie McWhorter and Faye Glass, all under the direction of Francis H. Burke of the music faculty.

Bland next gave the little fellow to Mrs. Woods, who fed him with a medicine stopper and has raised him to the present time. As he knows of no other mother, he is as tame as a kitten.

Now past his first birthday, he is perfectly at home and feels secure with the Woods.

"He eats everything we do except meat. He is a strict vegetarian," Mrs. Woods declared. As she spoke she gave him a pecan and he jumped onto a nearby bed, sat up in regular squirrel style on his haunches and devoured the nut with a relish.

As a camera was placed near him, he showed almost human curiosity. He sniffed the material of which it was constructed, took a peep into the lens and then darted back on the bed. Now it was decided that he should pose for his picture. The photographer snapped the little fellow, who acted frightened as the flash bulb sent a glaring light onto him. "Thinks it's one of those atomic bombs he has been reading about!" ventured the photographer. Another nut was given him and a picture taken in full action.

After he had leaped up into Mrs. Woods' lap, she took a comb and smoothed out his hair as he, in docile manner, indicated that it was to his liking.

"He'd stay that way all day if I'd comb his hair," his mistress said.

She also explained a bit further about his fondness for eatables. Candy and ice cream were always rare treats for him, she said. He just couldn't get too much of these sweets.

When he desires to drink, Mrs. Woods fills a tumbler with water and tilting it at the correct angle. "Frisky" drinks with his head well inside the container.

One of his performances is to indicate when he desires to leave the room. He will go to the door, rise on haunches and look up at the doorknob. This action is rewarded by the opening of the door by Mrs. Woods.

In a dresser drawer are the rudiments for a night's free lodging for "Frisky" but he sees to it that the bed is re-made nightly by his own handiwork. When morning comes, he is the first in the room to rise. It is always right at 6 a.m., for he is a creature of precision. His first waking act is to jump on the bed and arouse the sleeping Mr. and Mrs. Woods by promenading over their faces. It always wakes them up.

The little fellow enjoys riding in an auto and such rides are frequent. The other day Mrs. Woods attended a picture show in Monroe and took "Frisky" along. She reported later that his conduct was perfect and that he was far better behaved than some of the young children in the playhouse.

"He's the cleanest, most understanding pet I ever had. I wouldn't take anything for 'Frisky'," commented Mrs. Woods, as her visitors took their departure.

DOUGHTY RUNS FOR REPRESENTATIVE

JONESVILLE, La., Oct. 19.—(Special)—J. Eldon Doughty, principal of Block Elementary School, of Jonesville and a navy veteran, has announced his candidacy for state representative from Catahoula parish subject to the voters in the Democratic primary, January 20, 1948.

The 28-year-old son of a Baptist minister is a 1940 honor graduate of Louisiana College, Pineville, and will complete work on his master's degree in education at Louisiana State University next summer.

He is vice-commander of the Fifth congressional district for the American Legion and has served the past two terms as president of the Catahoula Parish Parent-Teachers Association.

In announcing his candidacy, Doughty pointed out that he was reared on a farm and worked his way through college and knew the "hard knocks" of life. He pledged an independent campaign free of promises "which I do not know I can fulfill."

The incumbent is Grover C. Womack whose hometown is Manifest, where Doughty's parents reside, and where he graduated from high school in 1936.

Contributions to the Sisterhood will be used for relief of needy in European countries. They will be accepted at the Temple Annex between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on October 28 and 29.

Where it is impossible for persons to deliver contributions, Mrs. Pickens said, telephone calls to 381 or 3323 would be answered promptly with pickup service.

LABOR ACTIVE IN DIRECTING VOTES

Ward Organizational Meeting To Be Held Tuesday Night

Organized labor in the Monroe area—carrying through on its avowed purpose of organizing labor votes for January elections—will swing into action next Tuesday night at the ward organizational meeting to be held in the courtroom of the city hall.

In anouncing the meeting yesterday, Leon Johnson, chairman of the Better Citizens' Council, election committee for labor groups here, said that plans for selection of group and ward leaders would be worked out. These ward captains, Johnson said, would be relied upon by the committee to ascertain that every eligible member of local unions would be registered before the December 20 deadline.

Johnson stated that 53 locals have offices here, 27 of which are directly affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. He estimated the combined voting strength of the groups at 20,000. He added, however, that many who carry cards in Monroe unions live in surrounding parishes.

According to Johnson no candidates have been endorsed as yet. An endorsement committee will be set up following the completion of registration.

HOMECOMING TO BE N. J. C. EVENT

Plans Formulated For Annual Affair Scheduled For Friday

Open house and a dance honoring alumni will complete the night's calendar of events for Homecoming at Northeast Junior College Friday, Oct. 24. This phase of informal entertainment, which is being sponsored by the Student Council, will start at 10:30 o'clock. Alumni, former students and friends of the institution, are invited to join students, faculty and staff in the college gymnasium immediately after the game between the local Indians and the Copiah-Lincoln Wolves on Brown Field. There will be no admission charge.

Mrs. Dorothy Younse and A. L. Tatum, committee chairmen, and Student Council committees are planning colorful decorations that will transform the gym into a background appropriate for the celebration of homecoming. Refreshments will be served throughout the evening.

Pre-game activities are to include the singing of "America" by Mrs. Bryan Pugh III, the former Miss Nellie Breard, N. J. C. alumna of the class of '34, who sang at a homecoming game several years ago when Coach James L. Malone's team played Copiah-Lincoln. Presented also will be Henry P. Florsheim, former N. J. C. football man who played in the first homecoming game here, and other distinguished alumni and friends of the college.

The coronation ceremony bids to be another colorful pre-game feature. Barbara Ellis of Monroe will be crowned by Dr. S. A. Caldwell, dean of the junior division of Louisiana State University and supervisor of junior colleges, L. S. U. The queen's court will include Barbara Finlay, Harrisonburg, maid of honor, and the five following maids: Ruth Martin, Lake Providence; Joyce Toler, Monroe; Joan Warner, Alexandria; Elsie Pipes, West Monroe, and Geraldine Jones, West Monroe.

The half-time program is to include several intricate formations by the Indianettes, who will be wearing their new uniforms of white skirts and sweaters with colorful Indian emblems on the back. Purple and gold beanies with gay purple feathers and white moccasins will complete the costumes. The group will be led by three majorettes, Naomi Harris, Marjorie McWhorter and Faye Glass, all under the direction of Francis H. Burke of the music faculty.

MRS. SIMMS TO GIVE ADDRESS

Noted Traveler, Student, Lecturer, Will Discuss 'Europe Today'

Mrs. David S. Simms will address the Monroe Town Hall Club at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium, Monday at 8 p.m., on the subject, "Europe Today," it is announced by Mrs. J. B. Kugler, program chairman of the club.

Every now and then—usually once a year, the clubs like to be addressed by a woman speaker, provided, of course, said speaker knows her stuff, knows the manner in which to address a crowd, and is a real honest to goodness woman.

Mrs. Simms fills all of these qualifications to a T. Charmingly feminine, she is at the same time of the outstanding intellectual leaders among American women. She has studied at the University of Nebraska, at Heidelberg, Oxford, and the International Relations School at Geneva, and the University of Chile. These educational pursuits have given her an advantage which few women enjoy.

She has been in Europe and the Mediterranean Basin a score of times, in South America many times and is at home all over the United States. All this travel has served to give her a practical first-hand knowledge of the places she discusses and the problem she brings to the platform.

A former national chairman of the International Relations Committee of Business and Professional Women—a position which she has held for eight years. Mrs. Simms has come to much closer grips with current problems than has been the most of her sex.

AMERICAN BORN GIRL ESCAPES FROM SOVIET

FUERTH, Germany, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Irma Mohaupt, 22-year-old American-born girl, told a story today of escape after three years in a Russian work camp, how she walked until her feet were swollen, and eventually reached freedom in the American zone in Germany.

How chubby and healthy, the girl's story began in Yugoslavia where she said her German-born father was killed before her eyes by partisans, and where she said she saw Soviet troops shoot six German soldiers on a dance floor--then hold a dance on it.

The five-year story was ended by her own efforts, she said, after the U. S. State department was unable to accomplish her repatriation.

The young woman is waiting to sail from Bremerhaven Oct. 29 for New York. Her passage was arranged by U. S. consular offiicals acting on behalf of her uncle, Kari Mohaupt, of her native Cincinnati.

Describing her experiences in the work camp in the Russian Ukraine, she said she carried rocks up five flights of steps so they could repair a building," and did other hard work such as loading trucks with stone and material.

"We walked six kilometers (3 1/2 miles) to work and six back and there was no time off at all during the day," she said, adding that she saw other men and women waste away and die.

She finally escaped, she said, by bribing the prison commandant and the doctor with 500 rubles which she had earned by sewing at night.

SEEK TO PROVE DOCTOR INSANE

Medical Experts Build Up Insanity Defense For Slayer Of Family

LA GRANGE, Tex., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Medical experts built up a defense of insanity and betrayal of friendship today for Dr. Lloyd I. Ross in the San Antonio surgeon's murder trial growing out of the shooting of four persons on a remote Comal county road last May 25.

Dr. Roy W. Scott of Cleveland, O., a former associate of Ross, said the defendant is a sufferer from a dangerous rheumatic fever of the brain which may cause victims to commit all sorts of unforseen acts.

York, San Antonio investment broker, his wife, son and mother were ambushed and shot to death as they drove from their Comal county ranch to church in San Antonio. York had been Ross' friend and financial advisor.

Dr. Scott, chief of medical service at the Cleveland City Hospital, said that rheumatic fever can affect many organs and may do damage permanently to small blood vessels in the brain, leading to all sorts of strange behavior.

Scott said Dr. Ross was in 1932 a resident surgeon at the Cleveland City Hospital and that he examined him the following year and found that his "heart was in worse condition" than he had ever seen.

He said he advised him to leave the north and go south where he said rheumatic fever was less prevalent.

Ann York, 13-year-old daughter of the Willard Yorks, was wounded, but managed to escape along the rural lane.

While on the stand as a witness she pointed out Dr. Ross, the Yorks' family physician, as the man who fired the shots.

Dr. Scott said he had examined Dr. Ross in August, 1945, and that Ross was still suffering with the disease. He said when he read of the May 25 tragedy he was convinced that the Ohio-born surgeon was "not in his right mind."

The defense called to the stand several patients who said they had noticed Ross change from a friendly man to an abrupt person who was "not the same man" they had known.

Dr. Scott said that "loss of memory" was one of the symptoms of the disease and that "an emotional strain" could "act as an added insult" to the sufferer.

The case, ending its sixth day here tonight, was transferred to La Grange from New Braunfels, county seat of Comal county, after Judge J. R. Fuchs ruled that he did not think a fair and impartial trial could be obtained there.

POLICE SEEK FORMER WIFE OF SLAIN MAN

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A woman who claimed to be a former wife of Frank Grana was being sought for questioning today in the slaying late Thursday of the 42-year-old used car salesman.

Sheriff Leon Vial of St. Charles parish said also that six shots, instead of three, had been fired into Grana's head as he sat at the wheel of his automobile 20 miles north of here.

"The woman we're looking for isn't a suspect," Sheriff Vial said, "but we'd like very much to talk to her."

Detective Chief Joseph Scheuering of the New Orleans police department said Grana's 21-year-old wife, Elizabeth, told him of a phone call made to Grana's home three weeks ago by the woman.

She told Mrs. Grana, according to Scheuering, that she and Grana were married and had never been divorced.

Scheuering said a check of courthouse records failed to list either the marriage or divorce.

Grana was slain about 9 p. m. Thursday night as his wife sat in a New Orleans theater waiting for him.

CENTENARY WILL START SEASON

College Choir To Give First Corncert Of Year In Winnsboro

WINNSBORO, La., Oct. 18.—(Special)—The Centenary College choir will give its first concert of the season at the Methodist Youth Rally of the Monroe district to be held in Winnsboro, Monday, October 20.

This group of fifty voices represented the state of Louisiana at the Lions International Convention in San Francisco in July. Going by special Pullman on the Lions' special train to California, they took the leading part on the convention program.

The Necrology service, high point on the program, was conceived, written and staged by Mr. A. C. Voran, director of the choir, using all the members in the group.

While on the west coast, the choir broadcast from both San Francisco and Los Angeles radio stations on national networks.

Last year the choir traveled 3,500 miles over Louisiana, giving concerts for youth rallies, churches and clubs. They also gave a weekly program over a Shreveport radio station.

When they sing in Winnsboro, they will appear in the ante-bellum costumes specially designed for them to symbolize the Centenary gentleman and the Centenary lady.

Their program will consist of sacred music, Negro spirituals, and some of the numbers they sang in San Francisco. Also included on the program will be soloists who took part in the California appearances.

The choir will make the trip in their traditional way, by bus, and will carry their traditional traveling rations, a crate of Delicious and Winesap apples. This custom, said to be easy on their voices while sustaining them, has earned for the young people the name of the "Apple Eaters."

The choir will return to Shreveport, Monday night, at the conclusion of the concert.

MRS. SIMMS TO GIVE ADDRESS

Noted Traveler, Student, Lecturer, Will Discuss 'Europe Today'

Mrs. David S. Simms will address the Monroe Town Hall Club at the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium, Monday at 8 p.m., on the subject, "Europe Today," it is announced by Mrs. J. B. Kugler, program chairman of the club.

Every now and then—usually once a year, the clubs like to be addressed by a woman speaker, provided, of course, said speaker knows her stuff, knows the manner in which to address a crowd, and is a real honest to goodness woman.

Mrs. Simms fills all of these qualifications to a T. Charmingly feminine, she is at the same time of the outstanding intellectual leaders among American women. She has studied at the University of Nebraska, at Heidelberg, Oxford, and the International Relations School at Geneva, and the University of Chile. These educational pursuits have given her an advantage which few women enjoy.

She has been in Europe and the Mediterranean Basin a score of times, in South America many times and is at home all over the United States. All this travel has served to give her a practical first-hand knowledge of the places she discusses and the problem she brings to the platform.

A former national chairman of the International Relations Committee of Business and Professional Women—a position which she has held for eight years. Mrs. Simms has come to much closer grips with current problems than has been the most of her sex.

AMERICAN BORN GIRL ESCAPES FROM SOVIET

FUERTH, Germany, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Irma Mohaupt, 22-year-old American-born girl, told a story today of escape after three years in a Russian work camp, how she walked until her feet were swollen, and eventually reached freedom in the American zone in Germany.

How chubby and healthy, the girl's story began in Yugoslavia where she said her German-born father was killed before her eyes by partisans, and where she said she saw Soviet troops shoot six German soldiers on a dance floor--then hold a dance on it.

The five-year story was ended by her own efforts, she said, after the U. S. State department was unable to accomplish her repatriation.

The young woman is waiting to sail from Bremerhaven Oct. 29 for New York. Her passage was arranged by U. S. consular offiicals acting on behalf of her uncle, Kari Mohaupt, of her native Cincinnati.

Describing her experiences in the work camp in the Russian Ukraine, she said she carried rocks up five flights of steps so they could repair a building," and did other hard work such as loading trucks with stone and material.

"We walked six kilometers (3 1/2 miles) to work and six back and there was no time off at all during the day," she said, adding that she saw other men and women waste away and die.

She finally escaped, she said, by bribing the prison commandant and the doctor with 500 rubles which she had earned by sewing at night.

Compared with other parts of the United States, city families in the south consume little meat.

The newspaper said Lt. Gen. Constantine Ventiris would be replaced as chief of staff by Maj. Gen. Kallegeropoulos, commander of the Second army corps. Lt. Gen. Spiliotopoulos, inspector general, was being retired, the paper reported, and several other changes made.

Gen. Rawlings, chief of the British military mission, was reliably reported to have opposed the changes. Maj. Gen. W. G. Livesay, chief of the U. S. military mission, was reported to have told Sophoulis that Ventiris was "the best man in the army," although he did not actually oppose the changes.

SEEK TO PROVE DOCTOR INSANE

Medical Experts Build Up Insanity Defense For Slayer Of Family

LA GRANGE, Tex., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Medical experts built up a defense of insanity and betrayal of friendship today for Dr. Lloyd I. Ross in the San Antonio surgeon's murder trial growing out of the shooting of four persons on a remote Comal county road last May 25.

Dr. Roy W. Scott of Cleveland, O., a former associate of Ross, said the defendant is a sufferer from a dangerous rheumatic fever of the brain which may cause victims to commit all sorts of unforseen acts.

York, San Antonio investment broker, his wife, son and mother were ambushed and shot to death as they drove from their Comal county ranch to church in San Antonio. York had been Ross' friend and financial advisor.

Dr. Scott, chief of medical service at the Cleveland City Hospital, said that rheumatic fever can affect many organs and may do damage permanently to small blood vessels in the brain, leading to all sorts of strange behavior.

Scott said Dr. Ross was in 1932 a resident surgeon at the Cleveland City Hospital and that he examined him the following year and found that his "heart was in worse condition" than he had ever seen.

He said he advised him to leave the north and go south where he said rheumatic fever was less prevalent.

Ann York, 13-year-old daughter of the Willard Yorks, was wounded, but managed to escape along the rural lane.

While on the stand as a witness she pointed out Dr. Ross, the Yorks' family physician, as the man who fired the shots.

Dr. Scott said he had examined Dr. Ross in August, 1945, and that Ross was still suffering with the disease. He said when he read of the May 25 tragedy he was convinced that the Ohio-born surgeon was "not in his right mind."

The defense called to the stand several patients who said they had noticed Ross change from a friendly man to an abrupt person who was "not the same man" they had known.

Dr. Scott said that "loss of memory" was one of the symptoms of the disease and that "an emotional strain" could "act as an added insult" to the sufferer.

The case, ending its sixth day here tonight, was transferred to La Grange from New Braunfels, county seat of Comal county, after Judge J. R. Fuchs ruled that he did not think a fair and impartial trial could be obtained there.

POLICE SEEK FORMER WIFE OF SLAIN MAN

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A woman who claimed to be a former wife of Frank Grana was being sought for questioning today in the slaying late Thursday of the 42-year-old used car salesman.

Sheriff Leon Vial of St. Charles parish said also that six shots, instead of three, had been fired into Grana's head as he sat at the wheel of his automobile 20 miles north of here.

"The woman we're looking for isn't a suspect," Sheriff Vial said, "but we'd like very much to talk to her."

Detective Chief Joseph Scheuering of the New Orleans police department said Grana's 21-year-old wife, Elizabeth, told him of a phone call made to Grana's home three weeks ago by the woman.

She told Mrs. Grana, according to Scheuering, that she and Grana were married and had never been divorced.

Scheuering said a check of courthouse records failed to list either the marriage or divorce.

Grana was slain about 9 p. m. Thursday night as his wife sat in a New Orleans theater waiting for him.

College Choir To Give First Corncert Of Year In Winnsboro

WINNSBORO, La., Oct. 18.—(Special)—The Centenary College choir will give its first concert of the season at the Methodist Youth Rally of the Monroe district to be held in Winnsboro, Monday, October 20.

This group of fifty voices represented the state of Louisiana at the Lions International Convention in San Francisco in July. Going by special Pullman on the Lions' special train to California, they took the leading part on the convention program.

The Necrology service, high point on the program, was conceived, written and staged by Mr. A. C. Voran, director of the choir, using all the members in the group.

While on the west coast, the choir broadcast from both San Francisco and Los Angeles radio stations on national networks.

Last year the choir traveled 3,500 miles over Louisiana, giving concerts for youth rallies, churches and clubs. They also gave a weekly program over a Shreveport radio station.

When they sing in Winnsboro, they will appear in the ante-bellum costumes specially designed for them to symbolize the Centenary gentleman and the Centenary lady.

Their program will consist of sacred music, Negro spirituals, and some of the numbers they sang in San Francisco. Also included on the program will be soloists who took part in the California appearances.

The choir will make the trip in their traditional way, by bus, and will carry their traditional traveling rations, a crate of Delicious and Winesap apples. This custom, said to be easy on their voices while sustaining them, has earned for the young people the name of the "Apple Eaters."

The choir will return to Shreveport, Monday night, at the conclusion of the concert.

'COOTIE TENT' IS ORGANIZED HERE

New Orleans And Shreveport Delegations Attend Installation

Hudson-Leahy Post No. 3993 of the V. F. W. of West Monroe was host to 20 fellow Cooties of Pup Tent 5 of New Orleans and 10 members of Pup Tent 7 of Shreveport who were present for the obligation and initiation of selected members of V. F. W. Post 3993 who formed "Wemola" Pup Tent 9 of this district. Visitors who included members of the staff of the V. F. W. Voice, state newspaper, and members of the New Orleans press were entertained with luncheon at The Rendezvous. Following luncheon the delegates proceeded to the V. F. W. post home in West Monroe where the initiation was performed and the following officers of the local pup tent were installed: Homer L. Ross, commander; Elbert L. Via, senior vice commander; William L. Sullivan, junior vice commander; Eddie L. Gorum, adjutant; Marshall Johnston, quartermaster; Bailey Grant, judge advocate; Shady Wall, chaplain; trustee, Clarence T. Cash, Osie Leahy, H. C. Sally; Edward W. Scott, surgeon.

The military order of Cooties is an honor degree of the V. F. W., being exclusively for those who have shown outstanding work in the V. F. W. and to promote social and reunion features among its members.

Much attention was attracted by the uniforms worn by the Cooties which consisted of white shirts and pants with huge red Cootie emblems embroidered on the shirt, red caps highly ornamented, red sash with long tassles.

The local pup tent will meet the first and third Sundays of each month at 2 p. m.

Highlights of the recent activities of the Hudson-Leahy Post and its ladies' auxiliary of 3993 of West Monroe include a barbecue given for the purpose of increasing membership during this well progressing membership drive.

The post has leased a plot of ground on the new Cheniere project for the purpose of erecting a summer camp where meetings can be held along with recreational facilities such as fishing, hunting, boating, etc.

Highlights of the coming meeting, October 24, will be a chili supper to be served at the post along with movies of combat films shown by the local recruiting office.

TAX CUT

of the late President Roosevelt are helping to insure a Republican victory next year.

"If members of Roosevelt's official family, such as Morgenthau (ex-secretary of the treasury) and Byrnes (who headed the state department), continue with their revelations, the Republican party need not make a campaign next year," Knutson said.

"For campaign purposes we couldn't hope to improve on these diaries and on the confessions of Mrs. Roosevelt and the children. If it were not so tragic for the country and the world it might be possible to enjoy the denouements as they come tumbling on one another.

"Wherever I have been the people can not understand why Mr. Truman has failed to take a firm and definite position on foreign and domestic problems. To them the so called Marshall plan is a wraith-like phenomenon which could easily engulf us, if Congress were to go along blindly in setting up a world wide WPA.

"I found a very considerable dissatisfaction over our vacillating and supine dealings with Russia, and more than once heard the wish expressed that we had another Theodore Roosevelt in the White House.

"There is a definite feeling that the White House and the state department could speedily reconcile their differences and present a united front to Russia and her satellites. The feeling is well nigh universal that President Truman's foreign policy, or perhaps it would be more correct to say lack of such policy is taking us into War No. III.

"The most encouraging angle to the picture is the large number of senators and representatives who spent their vacation abroad and who will have ready for Congress reports on conditions in Europe that will be much more dependable than any we have heretofore had from the state department.

WARNER

the Communists have made in Hollywood. Just because somebody is on the witness list, he says, does not mean he has Communist connections.

Some witnesses will be hostile, Thomas said in a statement, but others are friendly and cooperative.

To follow Warner on the first day, the committee has picked Sam Wood, independent producer and director, and Louis B. Mayer, production chief of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which starred Robert Taylor in "Song of Russia."

"Mission to Moscow" and "Song of Russia" figured in testimony taken secretly in Hollywood last spring by a subcommittee headed by Thomas. While on the coast, Thomas said Lowell Mellett, former administrative assistant to President Truman, was responsible on orders from his superiors for Taylor's playing in "Song of Russia" when the star wanted to join the Navy instead.

Upon returning to Washington, Thomas attributed some Communist propaganda in films to White House pressure. He also said that Warner and Taylor had been "cooperative" witnesses.

Warner Brothers' "Mission to Moscow" was based on a book by Joseph E. Davies, who visited Russia on an assignment from President Roosevelt. Davies is on the list of prospective witnesses for the hearings getting under way next week.

Mellett, now a Washington Star columnist, denied at the time--and again today-- that he was responsible for Taylor's role in "Song of Russia." He asked for an immediate hearing to tell his side of the story, but didn't get one.

The committee said two weeks ago that Mellett was one of those for whom it had issued subpoenas. The columnist said today he had not been subpoenaed and released a statement he had planned to make to the committee.

Mellett said he did not ask Taylor to appear in the picture "or suggest in any way that he should."

But he did say that while he was head of the motion picture branch of the Office of War Information in 1943, M-G-M Director Gregory Ratoff came to him and wanted to know whether it would be possible for Taylor, who was getting a navy commission, to work on the picture until time to begin training.

Mellett said he called the navy to ask, was informed this might be possible and "was asked" to send the navy a note explaining the movie company's request.

So, Mellett said, he got off this letter to Capt. Leland P. Lovette, Director of Navy Public Relations:

"Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have asked for a delay in the induction of Robert Taylor as a naval aviation cadet to permit the completion of a picture now under production with Taylor as a star. Much of the picture already has been shot, but there remains several weeks further shooting.

"This picture has Russia for its scene and the Office of War Information believes that, based on the script, which we have read, it will serve a useful purpose in the war effort. It has no political implications, being designed primarily to acquaint the American people with the people of one of our Allied nations."

The National Lawyers Guild is getting ready to run a little competition with the House hearings, using some of the committee witnesses.

The Guild said today in an invitation to the public to attend an "open meeting" in the National Press building auditorium Monday night:

"The Un-American Activities committee * * * has sought to prescribe what is orthodox in matters of politics, patriotism, social organization, opinion, art, education and science. It has branded all those who depart from its prescribed orthodoxy as 'un-American' without fair hearing to its victims.

"By this process it has created a condition of hysteria and intimidation in which freedom of speech is stifled and liberty of all Americans is imperiled."

Committee witnesses the Guild said it has lined up for speakers include: Larry Parks, who had the lead in "The Jolson Story;" Ring Lardner, Jr., author and screen writer; Producer-Director Lewis Milestone; Director Edward Dmytryk; and Producer Adrian Scott.

DEATHS

E. V. FLEMING

E. V. Fleming, 50, of Marksville, La., died there early Friday afternoon. The funeral will be held there Sunday afternoon with interment in a Marksville cemetery.

He was a state highway employe and is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Jane Purvis of Monroe.

OLIVER STRICKLAND, JR.

ENTERPRISE, La., Oct. 19.—(Special)—Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon for Oliver Strickland, Jr., 18, son of Mrs. Josie Strickland of Enterprise, who was instantly killed early Sunday morning when struck on the highway between Sicily Island and Harrisonburg by an automobile.

Robert L. Dunn of Columbia, driver of the car, was released without charges after a coroner's investigation which showed the death was unavoidable. Dr. N. G. Nasif, Catahoula parish coroner, rendered a verdict of "unavoidable accident."

Strickland was struck about 12:30 a. m. Sunday after he and a companion, Charles Townsend, 18, also of Enterprise, apparently fell asleep along the highway. Dunn and Homer S. Tarver of Grayson were returning home from Ferriday. Townsend was dismissed from a Wisner clinic with minor chest injuries. The accident occurred about seven miles from Harrisonburg on Highway 15.

Sheriff Fred Fairbanks and Dr. Nasif investigated the death. Strickland suffered a crushed skull.

Services were conducted at the Rosefield Baptist Church by the Rev. Buddy Anders of Antioch. Interment was in the Rosefield Cemetery.

Strickland was an army veteran and was participating in the Catahoula parish "on-the-farm" training program.

MRS. NANCY M. FLYNN

Funeral services for Mrs. Nancy M. Flynn, 85, who died Friday morning at her residence at 103 Linderman street, West Monroe, were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the chapel of the Hall Funeral Home, with the Rev. L. A. Waldon officiating. Interment followed in the Hasley cemetery under the direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

She is survived by two sons, Henry Flynn of West Monroe and Thomas Flynn of Rayville; one daughter, Mrs. W. D. McGee, Sterlington, 16 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers were E. L. Haskins, Jack Neal, Grady Dean, Bernard Herron, Paul Thompson and V. W. Sehon.

BRAZIL

Latin American relations with Russia and Communism and a reaffirmation of Brazil's traditional solidarity with the United States.

Brazil is expected to charge Russia with failure to give a satisfactory response to a Brazilian note asking for an explanation of Soviet press attacks on President Dutra, the Brazilian army and the government. The nature of the Soviet reply has not been made public, but it is understood in well-informed circles here that Russia refused to acknowledge Brazil's protest.

Brazil protested attacks published in Izvestia, official organ of the Soviet government. These attacks referred to President Dutra as a Fascist and recalled the fact he had received a decoration from Hitler before the war. The paper also said Dutra was surrounded by Fascist advisers and that Brazilian army generals were trained only on the coffee plantations of Sao Paulo.

An informed political source commenting on these attacks stressed that if the same articles had been published in a country with a free press, then Brazil, which has a free press itself, would never have taken official offense. However, this source added, these attacks were published in a press which is controlled by the government and must be considered the official opinion of the Soviet government, which must be held responsible.

Referring to Dutra's receiving a German decoration in 1940, the informant smiled and added: "Russia is in no position to criticize other people's relations with Germany before the war." He then recalled Brazil's participation in the war with troops which fought in Italy as part of the United States Fifth army.

Other observers said Brazil's anticipated action and Chile's recent expulsion of two Yugoslav diplomats on charges of bringing foreign Communist influences into labor relations in that country may foreshadow a position to be taken by several countries at the Inter-American conference in Bogota, Colombia, in January.

Brazil, covering nearly half South America and with 45,000,000 inhabitants having about half the continent's population, already has outlawed the Communist party. The party in Brazil was the largest in the Western hemisphere, with 200,000 members and control over the votes of an additional 400,000.

CHEST DRIVE

Mr. Cage assures that it will all stay right in the home community and be expended for the financing of local agencies.

Other cities and towns have a far greater goal than has Monroe and reports from other places are to the effect that they are all digging down and completing successful solicitations. Monroe and West Monroe have ever given unqualified support to their local institutions and this is no time to start doing otherwise.

Most places of business have been provided with blanks to be filled out and to be returned to headquarters of the Red Feather, as the chest's insignia is designated. Many thousands of dollars will be received when these pledge cards are returned. One does not have to donate all the cash at this time. The pledge card is for the ensuing year and a donor can indicate the dates when he or she will make the payments suited to convenience. It can not be urged too strongly that heads of firms see that their employes are given opportunity to contribute and that the report of the business is in the hands of the headquarters or solicitors.

The present high cost of living is hard on many, it is admitted, but at the same time it must be recognized that it takes more dollars to make the rounds of the agencies and place them in a financial position that their important work can proceed uninterruptedly. Monroe and West Monroe have never failed yet and this prosperous year of 1947 is no time to mar a brilliant past record. The goal must be reached and inside of the coming week. All shoulders must be put to the wheel and then success will be achieved.

were the other countries assigned the task of correlating the original Marshall proposal with a series of amendments. Sessions of the sub-committee will begin some time next week.

The voting temporarily cleared the "Little Assembly" proposal from the political committee's crowded agenda and opened the way for debate on Russia's "war-monger" and "war propaganda" charges, levelled chiefly against individuals in the United States. That discussion will open next week, probably Thursday. Meanwhile the full assembly will go back into plenary session next Monday at Flushing Meadow to take final action in the Greek case.

The Greek and Little Assembly boycotts would be the third utilized by the Soviet Union in the short history of the U. N. Russia has refused to attend meetings of the trusteeship council from the start on the grounds that it was illegally constituted. Work has gone ahead there regardless.

Delegates generally were inclined to take a far more serious view of the latest boycott threat. The two previous ones involved smaller bodies, but delegates said the seriousness of the absence of Russia and five other eastern European countries from a 57-nation group could not be minimized.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and Soviet Ukrainian Foreign Minister Dmitri Manuilsky delivered the final prevote attacks on the American plan and Gromyko said his delegation would spare no efforts in attempts to "undermine" the Marshall program.

Lengthy arguments extended the meeting for four hours and forced a one-hour delay in the afternoon's session of the Palestine committee.

The Marshall proposal calls for the assembly to approve a year-round sitting of representatives of the 57 nations. Only the Soviet group has spoken against it.

John Foster Dulles, U. S. delegate, made the final appeal in the assembly's 57-nation political committee. Dulles, labelled a "war-monger" by the Russians, challenged Soviet assertions that the new body would compete with the veto-conscious security council. He added that if Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet deputy foreign minister, had read "my address (before the political committee) as closely as he seems to have read some of my other addresses" he would have seen that this was not true.

Taking up Vishinsky's charges that the Marshall proposal had not been thought out before being offered to the U. N., Dulles repeated that the U. S. welcomed suggestions for changes. Here he added:

"We do not believe that any small group of men whether they sit in the White House or the Kremlin have a monopoly on Wisdom."

In the midst of his attack on the plan, Manuilsky brought up James F. Byrnes and charged that the former secretary of state "asks for war with the Soviet Union." It was the first Soviet reaction here to Byrnes' book "Speaking Frankly" in which he proposed that all possible efforts be made to agree with the Soviet Union on a peace treaty for Germany. Byrnes envisioned the ultimate possibility of finally asking, if the Russians did not agree on a treaty, the U. N. to order the Soviet to leave eastern Germany.

Manuilsky said Byrnes' "threats do not scare anybody." He said in closing the brief reference that it was not a commentator or a journalist talking in the book, but a former high American official "right here in the United States."

Manuilsky devoted a good share of his talk to Russian "war-monger" charges, which is the next item on the committee agenda. He contended that an "artificial war psychosis" had been created in the U. S. and called on the U. N. "to take a stand against the barbarious war propaganda which is just as much of a crime as the German Fascist propaganda on the eve of the war."

At the start of the meeting Canada's L. B. Pearson challenged Russia's refusal to compromise on the program. He said there was no longer unanimity among the five major powers and "we are in a situation where the unanimity rule has become, in effect, both a rule of dissent, and a guarantee of inaction."

In pleading for a revision of U. N. machinery Cuba's Guillermo Belt said the U. N. charter has become "an obsolete document" since the advent of atomic energy.

this week near Jonesville. The little fellow was snow white and possessed of pink eyes. It is being kept in cold storage in a Jonesville ice plant awaiting the discovery of a taxidermist.

Little Sue Campbell, age about four years a newcomer to Monroe from Natchez, stole the show at the football game Friday night between N. J. C. and Arkansas College. Attired in regular drum majorette attire, with a baton, she stepped it off and flaunted her stick in such clever and roguish manner that she received more applause than did the band. But a second young girl also came in for applause as she "did her stuff" like a regular trooper.

"Which way, suh, is de jailhouse?" was asked by a Negro man of W. J. (Bill) Riley as he paused in front of Hotel Frances Saturday morning. He gave the desired information. Then turning to a bystander he said: "Isn't often that a Negro wants to find the town bastile; he usually wants to find out where it isn't!"

One of our friends, we wont embarass him by calling his name so we'll identify him as John Doe. He went to the West Monroe postoffice and mailed a letter neatly addressed on a typewriter, John Doe, --- Jackson Street, Monroe, La., and then he saw that there was a return address in the upper left hand corner: Return in 10 days to John Doe, --- Jackson Street, Monroe. Still further to make sure of things he registered the letter and asked for a return receipt, at a total cost of 27 cents. Barely had he left the postoffice than a clerk working therein, rushed after him. "You made a mistake, you addressed the letter to yourself!" he cried out. "But that is just what I wanted to do," the man replied. Hasn't yet been disclosed the why and wherefore of this eccentric conduct.

Although straw hats have officially disappeared, there are still several men who are wearing them up and down DeSiard street. We suggested to one man that he was a bit late in the season. Next day he appeared with the same straw hat but with his arm in a sling. Someone unkindly ventured that he had been in combat but he asserts that he received his injury in the family bath tub.

"Dear Jes' Ramblin': Would you please help us in getting more acquainted with some twins we met at a movie at the Delta theater Thursday night? We talked to them quite a bit but incidentally we did not ask their name or address. Since we are twins we thought it would be quite interesting to get to meet and talk to them again. So I would like for them to write in to you and send their names and address. Please don't use our names and address in the paper.

The committee now will tackle specific proposals presented by various delegates on the Palestine question. This will be after the assembly comes back to Lake Success from the full meeting of the 57-nations set for Monday at Flushing Meadows.

Husseini, who is a nephew of the exiled mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin El Husseini, reiterated Arab opposition to partition by announcing that "the Arabs of Palestine will never give way under any pressure to part with any portion of their country."

Husseini said "We are determined to live free and independent under a unitary, Democratic state in the whole of Palestine."

"We know," he continued, "that the sword that the United States placed the other day in the scales with their claim that their support of partition was based on the (U. N.) charter in order to give it the lacking legal or logical weight, can easily chop off the last Arab head in Palestine."

Husseini added the Arabs have confidence in the sincerity and intelligence of the American people "who, when and if matters come to a climax, will see that it is neither to their interests nor consistent with their traditions to play the role of enforcing the decision of their government in favor of the partition of Palestine."

Dr. Weizmann said the Jews of Palestine could accept nothing but statehood. He added that the Jews could not be a minority in an Arab state.

Dr. Weizmann said the plan for dividing Palestine into two distinct nations "is the only solution which promises finality—a clear definition of the limits within which Jews and Arabs are free to develop their national wills."

He expressed confidence that Arabs and Jews could live peaceably side by side, declaring "I retain my belief in the prospect of Arab-Jewish cooperation once a solution based on finality and equality has received the sanction of international consent."

(Commenting on Arab statements that they would resort to force if necessary to prevent partition of the Holy Land, Dr. Weizmann said, "We find it hard to believe that any states represented here take their international obligations so lightly as to challenge the assembly's recommendations by the threat or use of force.") cities might follow suit "in view of wheat at $3.08 a bushel."

Second, Senator Barkley of Kentucky, Senate Democratic leader, said he does not think President Truman would hesitate to call a special session of congress on European aid if necessary.

Third, a decision on whether to abandon eggless and poultryless Thursdays from the citizens food committee grain-saving drive is expected Monday, when Chairman Charles Luckman meets here with poultry producers and feed industry spokesmen. Poultrymen and a number of congress members have branded the diet-day a mistake, contending that unkilled chickens simply go on eating grain.

Fourth, the citizens food committee announced the launching of what it called "the greatest consumer service ever attempted" to help consumers "cope with the problem of high food prices" while contributing to the food-saving drive.

Announcing a nation-wide program of daily recipes, marketing advice and information on cooking methods designed to save money and food, the committee said in a statement:

"The conservation campaign would defeat its own end if it simply resulted in a rise in retail prices and inadequate diets for our own people."

pressly for radio broadcast and are not for sale to the public.

Petrillo said in discussing the ban on "canned" shows:

"Unless a program has live music to offer, there won't be any music."

"I don't know who's going out of business, but I know we're going out of business if we continue making records."

The ban, Petrillo said, will become effective when present recording contracts expire after December 31. Presumably, the recording companies could keep turning out old records made by A. F. L. musicians.

The action was the second of its kind taken by the powerful musicians union. Petrillo forbade the union's members to make records or electrical transcriptions on Aug. 1, 1942. Twenty-seven months later the dispute ended in a complete victory for the union when the recording companies accepted union terms to pay the union fees ranging from one to two cents a record.

Asked today whether he believed the banning of future recordings—estimated to net the union $4,000,000 a year—was more advantageous to the musicians than the royalty income, Petrillo said:

"We don't care about the royalties."

Discussing his union's stand, Petrillo said: "We don't know of any other business that would make an instrument that would destroy themselves and we're going to stop making the instruments that have been destroying us. They would eventually put us out of business if we continued making them."

The union leader said the ban would end "canned" shows being turned out by the networks.

"Unless a program has live music to offer, there won't be any music," he added.

Petrillo said the federation had considered making its own records and transcriptions, but that its lawyers had advised the A. F. M. might be liable to prosecution under the anti-trust laws.

AIR CRASH

Cartagena said Spanish naval authorities also had ordered a submarine and a tug to join the search.

The French agency report said seven bodies had been recovered, but this was without confirmation.

The two survivors and the bodies were said to have been picked up by the French navy's escort ship Sabre. The rescued pilot was identified by only his last name, Remy, and was described by the company as having had 3,000 flying hours' experience. The other crew member reported saved was identified as a mechanic named Huyghe.

The plane, described by the company as a two-engined converted Bristol cargo craft with 34 seats, took off from Paris yesterday and made a stop at Marignane airfield near Marseille. It reported engine trouble off Cape Palos, Spain, and made no further report. The weather had been "excellent," with good visibility and a light, steady wind, the company said.

Airline officials said the number of passengers was "normal," since it was customary to carry children in addition to the seated adults.

Military craft which took off from Rehaia Airfield, near Algiers, after the transport had reported its trouble reached the scene in 40 minutes and discovered remains of the craft.

While the search for possible survivors continued, the French government ordered an investigation of the crash. Maurice Bellonte, pioneer transatlantic flier and inspector general of civil aviation, heads the inquiry group.

ABDICATION

knowing and active, if weak and timid, participant in Japan's military adventures."

Actually, the Japanese had been told by their newspapers earlier in the week that Kido's testimony had cleared the emperor of war guilt.

Kido, wartime lord keeper of the privy seal, intimated that the emperor could have halted the war much earlier by strong use of his powers.

The Japanese press, however, played an exactly opposite angle, spreading headlines on Hirohito's "anxiety" over international relations and his "displeasure" with Japan's withdrawal from the League of Nations.

Tokyo Shimbun, a leading afternoon paper, said Kido's deposition "described how the emperor—who was faithful from first to last in his efforts to keep peace—worried bitterly over the critical situation."

The Japanese press always has been strongly monarchist. Occupation censorship has cleared stories about court discussions of abdication, but only one paper ever printed any of them.

Two such plans have been confirmed by authoritative Japanese. One was for abdication before the occupation forces arrived, the other—advanced by an imperial prince—was for the emperor to retire early in the occupation, thus assuming at least some of the war responsibility. The emperor is said to have considered both, but to have rejected them on advice of court attaches.

Rumors of abdication periodically sweep Tokyo, usually being timed to impending events, such as last spring's adoption of the new constitution.

The most recent rumor was that Hirohito would retire when the final peace treaty was signed. There never has been any supporting evidence for these tales.

It is no secret that many American officials want to keep Hirohito on the throne. They express belief that he has aided democratization of the country and they consider him an important symbol for future national unity and a bulwark against internal disorder and communism. Americans of this persuasion say that to punish Hirohito for war responsibility would result merely in destructive alienation of the Japanese people.

Their opponents, including numerous British, have contended that the purpose of the current war trial is largely defeated by the absolution of the emperor, whom they consider equally guilty with the militarists.

Communists in both Tokyo and Moscow once bitterly attacked the emperor for war guilt, but this line was abandoned when it stirred obvious resentment among Japanese whom the communists were trying to reach.

ticularly the upper part of the town, was a scene of confusion as chickens, hogs and cattle driven by high waters, wandered about.

The water receded rapidly shortly after midnight and by mid-morning it dropped back down into its banks.

Fire Chief Roy Manning said it became apparent that the water in Chestnut creek was rising rapidly about 6 o'clock Friday night and a rescue squad began to warn everyone in the danger zone.

He said 7:30 p. m., fire trucks were taken into the flooded area where "hundreds of people" were rescued. When the water got too deep for the trucks, he said, boats were brought in and used to bring the last of the people to safety.

Hardest hit of the Galax factories was the Carnation Milk company where water reached the boiler room and the machine shop. A plant official said it would be three days before the plant was back in operation and that a "great quantity" of milk now on hand probably would spoil before it could be canned.

New Orleans And Shreveport Delegations Attend Installation

Hudson-Leahy Post No. 3993 of the V. F. W. of West Monroe was host to 20 fellow Cooties of Pup Tent 5 of New Orleans and 10 members of Pup Tent 7 of Shreveport who were present for the obligation and initiation of selected members of V. F. W. Post 3993 who formed "Wemola" Pup Tent 9 of this district. Visitors who included members of the staff of the V. F. W. Voice, state newspaper, and members of the New Orleans press were entertained with luncheon at The Rendezvous. Following luncheon the delegates proceeded to the V. F. W. post home in West Monroe where the initiation was performed and the following officers of the local pup tent were installed: Homer L. Ross, commander; Elbert L. Via, senior vice commander; William L. Sullivan, junior vice commander; Eddie L. Gorum, adjutant; Marshall Johnston, quartermaster; Bailey Grant, judge advocate; Shady Wall, chaplain; trustee, Clarence T. Cash, Osie Leahy, H. C. Sally; Edward W. Scott, surgeon.

The military order of Cooties is an honor degree of the V. F. W., being exclusively for those who have shown outstanding work in the V. F. W. and to promote social and reunion features among its members.

Much attention was attracted by the uniforms worn by the Cooties which consisted of white shirts and pants with huge red Cootie emblems embroidered on the shirt, red caps highly ornamented, red sash with long tassles.

The local pup tent will meet the first and third Sundays of each month at 2 p. m.

Highlights of the recent activities of the Hudson-Leahy Post and its ladies' auxiliary of 3993 of West Monroe include a barbecue given for the purpose of increasing membership during this well progressing membership drive.

The post has leased a plot of ground on the new Cheniere project for the purpose of erecting a summer camp where meetings can be held along with recreational facilities such as fishing, hunting, boating, etc.

Highlights of the coming meeting, October 24, will be a chili supper to be served at the post along with movies of combat films shown by the local recruiting office.

of the late President Roosevelt are helping to insure a Republican victory next year.

"If members of Roosevelt's official family, such as Morgenthau (ex-secretary of the treasury) and Byrnes (who headed the state department), continue with their revelations, the Republican party need not make a campaign next year," Knutson said.

"For campaign purposes we couldn't hope to improve on these diaries and on the confessions of Mrs. Roosevelt and the children. If it were not so tragic for the country and the world it might be possible to enjoy the denouements as they come tumbling on one another.

"Wherever I have been the people can not understand why Mr. Truman has failed to take a firm and definite position on foreign and domestic problems. To them the so called Marshall plan is a wraith-like phenomenon which could easily engulf us, if Congress were to go along blindly in setting up a world wide WPA.

"I found a very considerable dissatisfaction over our vacillating and supine dealings with Russia, and more than once heard the wish expressed that we had another Theodore Roosevelt in the White House.

"There is a definite feeling that the White House and the state department could speedily reconcile their differences and present a united front to Russia and her satellites. The feeling is well nigh universal that President Truman's foreign policy, or perhaps it would be more correct to say lack of such policy is taking us into War No. III.

"The most encouraging angle to the picture is the large number of senators and representatives who spent their vacation abroad and who will have ready for Congress reports on conditions in Europe that will be much more dependable than any we have heretofore had from the state department.

the Communists have made in Hollywood. Just because somebody is on the witness list, he says, does not mean he has Communist connections.

Some witnesses will be hostile, Thomas said in a statement, but others are friendly and cooperative.

To follow Warner on the first day, the committee has picked Sam Wood, independent producer and director, and Louis B. Mayer, production chief of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which starred Robert Taylor in "Song of Russia."

"Mission to Moscow" and "Song of Russia" figured in testimony taken secretly in Hollywood last spring by a subcommittee headed by Thomas. While on the coast, Thomas said Lowell Mellett, former administrative assistant to President Truman, was responsible on orders from his superiors for Taylor's playing in "Song of Russia" when the star wanted to join the Navy instead.

Upon returning to Washington, Thomas attributed some Communist propaganda in films to White House pressure. He also said that Warner and Taylor had been "cooperative" witnesses.

Warner Brothers' "Mission to Moscow" was based on a book by Joseph E. Davies, who visited Russia on an assignment from President Roosevelt. Davies is on the list of prospective witnesses for the hearings getting under way next week.

Mellett, now a Washington Star columnist, denied at the time--and again today-- that he was responsible for Taylor's role in "Song of Russia." He asked for an immediate hearing to tell his side of the story, but didn't get one.

The committee said two weeks ago that Mellett was one of those for whom it had issued subpoenas. The columnist said today he had not been subpoenaed and released a statement he had planned to make to the committee.

Mellett said he did not ask Taylor to appear in the picture "or suggest in any way that he should."

But he did say that while he was head of the motion picture branch of the Office of War Information in 1943, M-G-M Director Gregory Ratoff came to him and wanted to know whether it would be possible for Taylor, who was getting a navy commission, to work on the picture until time to begin training.

Mellett said he called the navy to ask, was informed this might be possible and "was asked" to send the navy a note explaining the movie company's request.

So, Mellett said, he got off this letter to Capt. Leland P. Lovette, Director of Navy Public Relations:

"Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have asked for a delay in the induction of Robert Taylor as a naval aviation cadet to permit the completion of a picture now under production with Taylor as a star. Much of the picture already has been shot, but there remains several weeks further shooting.

"This picture has Russia for its scene and the Office of War Information believes that, based on the script, which we have read, it will serve a useful purpose in the war effort. It has no political implications, being designed primarily to acquaint the American people with the people of one of our Allied nations."

The National Lawyers Guild is getting ready to run a little competition with the House hearings, using some of the committee witnesses.

The Guild said today in an invitation to the public to attend an "open meeting" in the National Press building auditorium Monday night:

"The Un-American Activities committee * * * has sought to prescribe what is orthodox in matters of politics, patriotism, social organization, opinion, art, education and science. It has branded all those who depart from its prescribed orthodoxy as 'un-American' without fair hearing to its victims.

"By this process it has created a condition of hysteria and intimidation in which freedom of speech is stifled and liberty of all Americans is imperiled."

Committee witnesses the Guild said it has lined up for speakers include: Larry Parks, who had the lead in "The Jolson Story;" Ring Lardner, Jr., author and screen writer; Producer-Director Lewis Milestone; Director Edward Dmytryk; and Producer Adrian Scott.

DEATHS

E. V. FLEMING

E. V. Fleming, 50, of Marksville, La., died there early Friday afternoon. The funeral will be held there Sunday afternoon with interment in a Marksville cemetery.

He was a state highway employe and is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Jane Purvis of Monroe.

OLIVER STRICKLAND, JR.

ENTERPRISE, La., Oct. 19.—(Special)—Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon for Oliver Strickland, Jr., 18, son of Mrs. Josie Strickland of Enterprise, who was instantly killed early Sunday morning when struck on the highway between Sicily Island and Harrisonburg by an automobile.

Robert L. Dunn of Columbia, driver of the car, was released without charges after a coroner's investigation which showed the death was unavoidable. Dr. N. G. Nasif, Catahoula parish coroner, rendered a verdict of "unavoidable accident."

Strickland was struck about 12:30 a. m. Sunday after he and a companion, Charles Townsend, 18, also of Enterprise, apparently fell asleep along the highway. Dunn and Homer S. Tarver of Grayson were returning home from Ferriday. Townsend was dismissed from a Wisner clinic with minor chest injuries. The accident occurred about seven miles from Harrisonburg on Highway 15.

Sheriff Fred Fairbanks and Dr. Nasif investigated the death. Strickland suffered a crushed skull.

Services were conducted at the Rosefield Baptist Church by the Rev. Buddy Anders of Antioch. Interment was in the Rosefield Cemetery.

Strickland was an army veteran and was participting in the Catahoula parish "on-the-farm" training program.

Latin American relations with Russia and Communism and a reaffirmation of Brazil's traditional solidarity with the United States.

Brazil is expected to charge Russia with failure to give a satisfactory response to a Brazilian note asking for an explanation of Soviet press attacks on President Dutra. the Brazilian army and the government. The nature of the Soviet reply has not been made public, but it is understood in well-informed circles here that Russia refused to acknowledge Brazil's protest.

Brazil protested attacks published in Izvestia, official organ of the Soviet government. These attacks referred to President Dutra as a Fascist and recalled the fact he had received a decoration from Hitler before the war. The paper also said Dutra was surrounded by Fascist advisers and that Brazilian army generals were trained only on the coffee plantations of Sao Paulo.

An informed political source commenting on these attacks stressed that if the same articles had been published in a country with a free press, then Brazil, which has a free press itself, would never have taken official offense. However, this source added, these attacks were published in a press which is controlled by the government and must be considered the official opinion of the Soviet government, which must be held responsible.

Referring to Dutra's receiving a German decoration in 1940, the informant smiled and added: "Russia is in no position to criticize other people's relations with Germany before the war." He then recalled Brazil's participation in the war with troops which fought in Italy as part of the United States Fifth army.

Other observers said Brazil's anticipated action and Chile's recent expulsion of two Yugoslav diplomats on charges of bringing foreign Communist influences into labor relations in that country may foreshadow a position to be taken by several countries at the Inter-American conference in Bogota, Colombia, in January.

Brazil, covering nearly half South America and with 45,000,000 inhabitants having about half the continent's population, already has outlawed the Communist party. The party in Brazil was the largest in the Western hemisphere, with 200,000 members and control over the votes of an additional 400,000.

Mr. Cage assures that it will all stay right in the home community and be expended for the financing of local agencies.

Other cities and towns have a far greater goal than has Monroe and reports from other places are, to the effect that they are all digging down and completing successful solicitations. Monroe and West Monroe have ever given unqualified support to their local institutions and this is no time to start doing otherwise.

Most places of business have been provided with blanks to be filled out and to be returned to headquarters of the Red Feather, as the chest's insignia is designated. Many thousands of dollars will be received when these pledge cards are returned. One does not have to donate all the cash at this time. The pledge card is for the ensuing year and a donor can indicate the dates when he or she will make the payments suited to convenience. It can not be urged too strongly that heads of firms see that their employes are given opportunity to contribute and that the report of the business is in the hands of the headquarters or solicitors.

The present high cost of living is hard on many, it is admitted, but at the same time it must be recognized that it takes more dollars to make the rounds of the agencies and place them in a financial position that their important work can proceed uninterruptedly. Monroe and West Monroe have never failed yet and this prosperous year of 1947 is no time to mar a brilliant past record. The goal must be reached and inside of the coming week. All shoulders must be put to the wheel and then success will be achieved.

were the other countries assigned the task of correlating the original Marshall proposal with a series of amendments. Sessions of the sub-committee will begin some time next week.

The voting temporarily cleared the "Little Assembly" proposal from the political committee's crowded agenda and opened the way for debate on Russia's "war-monger" and "war propaganda" charges, levelled chiefly against individuals in the United States. That discussion will open next week, probably Thursday. Meanwhile the full assembly will go back into plenary session next Monday at Flushing Meadow to take final action in the Greek case.

The Greek and Little Assembly boycotts would be the third utilized by the Soviet Union in the short history of the U. N. Russia has refused to attend meetings of the trusteeship council from the start on the grounds that it was illegally constituted. Work has gone ahead there regardless.

Delegates generally were inclined to take a far more serious view of the latest boycott threat. The two previous ones involved smaller bodies, but delegates said the seriousness of the absence of Russia and five other eastern European countries from a 57-nation group could not be minimized.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and Soviet Ukrainian Foreign Minister Dmitri Manuilsky delivered the final prevote attacks on the American plan and Gromyko said his delegation would spare no efforts in attempts to "undermine" the Marshall program.

Lengthy arguments extended the meeting for four hours and forced a one-hour delay in the afternoon's session of the Palestine committee.

The Marshall proposal calls for the assembly to approve a year-round sitting of representatives of the 57 nations. Only the Soviet group has spoken against it.

John Foster Dulles, U. S. delegate, made the final appeal in the assembly's 57-nation political committee. Dulles, labelled a "war-monger" by the Russians, challenged Soviet assertions that the new body would compete with the veto-conscious security council. He added that if Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet deputy foreign minister, had read "my address (before the political committee) as closely as he seems to have read some of my other addresses" he would have seen that this was not true.

Taking up Vishinsky's charges that the Marshall proposal had not been thought out before being offered to the U. N., Dulles repeated that the U. S. welcomed suggestions for changes. Here he added:

"We do not believe that any small group of men whether they sit in the White House or the Kremlin have a monopoly on Wisdom."

In the midst of his attack on the plan, Manuilsky brought up James F. Byrnes and charged that the former secretary of state "asks for war with the Soviet Union." It was the first Soviet reaction here to Byrnes' book "Speaking Frankly" in which he proposed that all possible efforts be made to agree with the Soviet Union on a peace treaty for Germany. Byrnes envisioned the ultimate possibility of finally asking, if the Russians did not agree on a treaty, the U. N. to order the Soviet to leave eastern Germany.

Manuilsky said Byrnes' "threats do not scare anybody." He said in closing the brief reference that it was not a commentator or a journalist talking in the book, but a former high American official "right here in the United States."

Manuilsky devoted a good share of his talk to Russian "war-monger" charges, which is the next item on the committee agenda. He contended that an "artificial war psychosis" had been created in the U. S. and called on the U. N. "to take a stand against the barbarious war propaganda which is just as much of a crime as the German Fascist propaganda on the eve of the war."

At the start of the meeting Canada's L. B. Pearson challenged Russia's refusal to compromise on the program. He said there was no longer unanimity among the five major powers and "we are in a situation where the unanimity rule has become, in effect, both a rule of dissent, and a guarantee of inaction."

In pleading for a revision of U. N. machinery Cuba's Guillermo Belt said the U. N. charter has become "an obsolete document" since the advent of atomic energy.

Little Sue Campbell, age about four years a newcomer to Monroe from Natchez, stole the show at the football game Friday night between N. J. C. and Arkansas College. Attired in regular drum majorette attire, with a baton, she stepped it off and flaunted her stick in such clever and roguish manner that she received more applause than did the band. But a second young girl also came in for applause as she "did her stuff" like a regular trooper.

"Which way, suh, is de jailhouse?" was asked by a Negro man of W. J. (Bill) Riley as he paused in front of Hotel Frances Saturday morning. He gave the desired information. Then turning to a bystander he said: "Isn't often that a Negro wants to find the town bastile; he usually wants to find out where it isn't!"

One of our friends, we wont embarass him by calling his name so we'll identify him as John Doe. He went to the West Monroe postoffice and mailed a letter neatly addressed on a typewriter, John Doe, --- Jackson Street, Monroe, La., and then he saw that there was a return address in the upper left hand corner: Return in 10 days to John Doe, --- Jackson Street, Monroe. Still further to make sure of things he registered the letter and asked for a return receipt, at a total cost of 27 cents. Barely had he left the postoffice than a clerk working therein, rushed after him. "You made a mistake, you addressed the letter to yourself!" he cried out. "But that is just what I wanted to do," the man replied. Hasn't yet been disclosed the why and wherefore of this eccentric conduct.

Next day he appeared with the same straw hat but with his arm in a sling. Someone unkindly ventured that he had been in combat but he asserts that he received his injury in the family bath tub.

So I would like for them to write in to you and send their names and address. Please don't use our names and address in the paper.

The committee now will tackle specific proposals presented by various delegates on the Palestine question. This will be after the assembly comes back to Lake Success from the full meeting of the 57-nations set for Monday at Flushing Meadows.

Husseini, who is a nephew of the exiled mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin El Husseini, reiterated Arab opposition to partition by announcing that "the Arabs of Palestine will never give way under any pressure to part with any portion of their country."

Husseini said "We are determined to live free and independent under a unitary, Democratic state in the whole of Palestine."

"We know," he continued, "that the sword that the United States placed the other day in the scales with their claim that their support of partition was based on the (U. N.) charter in order to give it the lacking legal or logical weight, can easily chop off the last Arab head in Palestine."

Husseini added the Arabs have confidence in the sincerity and intelligence of the American people "who, when and if matters come to a climax, will see that it is neither to their interests nor consistent with their traditions to play the role of enforcing the decision of their government in favor of the partition of Palestine."

Dr. Weizmann said the Jews of Palestine could accept nothing but statehood. He added that the Jews could not be a minority in an Arab state.

Dr. Weizmann said the plan for dividing Palestine into two distinct nations "is the only solution which promises finality--a clear definition of the limits within which Jews and Arabs are free to develop their national wills."

He expressed confidence that Arabs and Jews could live peaceably side by side, declaring "I retain my belief in the prospect of Arab-Jewish cooperation once a solution based on finality and equality has received the sanction of international consent."

(Commenting on Arab statements that they would resort to force if necessary to prevent partition of the Holy Land, Dr. Weizmann said, "We find it hard to believe that any states represented here take their international obligations so lightly as to challenge the assembly's recommendations by the threat or use of force.")

Poultrymen and a number of congress members have branded the diet-day a mistake, contending that unkilled chickens simply go on eating grain.

Fourth, the citizens food committee announced the launching of what it called "the greatest consumer service ever attempted" to help consumers "cope with the problem of high food prices" while contributing to the food-saving drive.

Announcing a nation-wide program of daily recipes, marketing advice and information on cooking methods designed to save money and food, the committee said in a statement:

"The conservation campaign would defeat its own end if it simply resulted in a rise in retail prices and inadequate diets for our own people."

pressly for radio broadcast and are not for sale to the public.

Petrillo said in discussing the ban on "canned" shows:

"Unless a program has live music to offer, there won't be any music."

"I don't know who's going out of business, but I know we're going out of business if we continue making records."

The ban, Petrillo said, will become effective when present recording contracts expire after December 31. Presumably, the recording companies could keep turning out old records made by A. F. L. musicians.

The action was the second of its kind taken by the powerful musicians union. Petrillo forbade the union's members to make records or electrical transcriptions on Aug. 1, 1942. Twenty-seven months later the dispute ended in a complete victory for the union when the recording companies accepted union terms to pay the union fees ranging from one to two cents a record.

Asked today whether he believed the banning of future recordings—estimated to net the union $4,000,000 a year—was more advantageous to the musicians than the royalty income, Petrillo said:

"We don't care about the royalties."

Discussing his union's stand, Petrillo said: "We don't know of any other business that would make an instrument that would destroy themselves and we're going to stop making the instruments that have been destroying us. They would eventually put us out of business if we continued making them."

The union leader said the ban would end "canned" shows being turned out by the networks.

"Unless a program has live music to offer, there won't be any music," he added.

Petrillo said the federation had considered making its own records and transcriptions, but that its lawyers had advised the A. F. M. might be liable to prosecution under the anti-trust laws.

AIR CRASH

Cartagena said Spanish naval authorities also had ordered a submarine and a tug to join the search.

The French agency report said seven bodies had been recovered, but this was without confirmation.

The two survivors and the bodies were said to have been picked up by the French navy's escort ship Sabre. The rescued pilot was identified by only his last name, Remy, and was described by the company as having had 3,000 flying hours' experience. The other crew member reported saved was identified as a mechanic named Huyghe.

The plane, described by the company as a two-engined converted Bristol cargo craft with 34 seats, took off from Paris yesterday and made a stop at Marignane airfield near Marseille. It reported engine trouble off Cape Palos, Spain, and made no further report. The weather had been "excellent," with good visibility and a light, steady wind, the company said.

Airline officials said the number of passengers was "normal," since it was customary to carry children in addition to the seated adults.

Military craft which took off from Rehaia Airfield, near Algiers, after the transport had reported its trouble reached the scene in 40 minutes and discovered remains of the craft.

While the search for possible survivors continued, the French government ordered an investigation of the crash. Maurice Bellonte, pioneer transatlantic flier and inspector general of civil aviation, heads the inquiry group.

knowing and active, if weak and timid, participant in Japan's military adventures."

Actually, the Japanese had been told by their newspapers earlier in the week that Kido's testimony had cleared the emperor of war guilt.

Kido, wartime lord keeper of the privy seal, intimated that the emperor could have halted the war much earlier by strong use of his powers.

The Japanese press, however, played an exactly opposite angle, spreading headlines on Hirohito's "anxiety" over international relations and his "displeasure" with Japan's withdrawal from the League of Nations.

Tokyo Shimbun, a leading afternoon paper, said Kido's deposition "described how the emperor—who was faithful from first to last in his efforts to keep peace—worried bitterly over the critical situation."

The Japanese press always has been strongly monarchist. Occupation censorship has cleared stories about court discussions of abdication, but only one paper ever printed any of them.

Two such plans have been confirmed by authoritative Japanese. One was for abdication before the occupation forces arrived, the other—advanced by an imperial prince—was for the emperor to retire early in the occupation, thus assuming at least some of the war responsibility. The emperor is said to have considered both, but to have rejected them on advice of court attaches.

Rumors of abdication periodically sweep Tokyo, usually being timed to impending events, such as last spring's adoption of the new constitution.

The most recent rumor was that Hirohito would retire when the final peace treaty was signed. There never has been any supporting evidence for these tales.

It is no secret that many American officials want to keep Hirohito on the throne. They express belief that he has aided democratization of the country and they consider him an important symbol for future national unity and a bulwark against internal disorder and communism. Americans of this persuasion say that to punish Hirohito for war responsibility would result merely in destructive alienation of the Japanese people.

Their opponents, including numerous British, have contended that the purpose of the current war trial is largely defeated by the absolution of the emperor, whom they consider equally guilty with the militarists.

Communists in both Tokyo and Moscow once bitterly attacked the emperor for war guilt, but this line was abandoned when it stirred obvious resentment among Japanese whom the communists were trying to reach.

The water receded rapidly shortly after midnight and by mid-morning it dropped back down into its banks.

Fire Chief Roy Manning said it became apparent that the water in Chestnut creek was rising rapidly about 6 o'clock Friday night and a rescue squad began to warn everyone in the danger zone.

He said 7:30 p. m., fire trucks were taken into the flooded area where "hundreds of people" were rescued. When the water got too deep for the trucks, he said, boats were brought in and used to bring the last of the people to safety.

A plant official said it would be three days before the plant was back in operation and that a "great quantity" of milk now on hand probably would spoil before it could be canned.

Mackenzie's Column

By DeWitt Mackenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

What with the roar of battle between the democracies and the Red bloc in Europe, and the constant effervescence of Russia's chief U. N. representative, Andrei Y. Vishnisky, it's small wonder that the western world's attention is diverted from affairs in Asia.

However, that's a dangerous situation for the Occident to be in. For while we are engrossed in the defense of democracy in the west, a terrible menace is developing in the Far East—the threat of a Communist dominated Asiatic bloc comprising more than half the population of the whole world.

The crux of this Oriental crisis is mighty China—torn by civil war between the Chinese Communists and the nationalist government, and in the grip of a protracted economic upheaval which has even taken the lives of millions by starvation. China has reached that state of chaos which renders her prime for communistic conquest.

In token of this listen to Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, who recently made a special investigation of the Chinese situation as special emissary of President Truman. The general says that "unless drastic reforms, particularly in the economic field, are implemented soon, China will be drawn into the Soviet orbit in spite of the assistance that we Amercans must extend."

This statement was contained in a letter to Mrs. John Gardner Coolidge, of the Boston Committee for United Service to China. Incidentally this was the first indication of the nature of the general's report to the president. Wedemeyer stated in his letter that China is passing through conditions of "evolution and revolution" and that the Soviet Union is capitalizing on "disorganization and chaos in the area exactly as she has done in Europe."

And just what does this signify in terms of the Communist world revolution? Well, it means plenty. For one thing Russia lies up against the northern frontier of China and has great military forces stationed there. For another, the Chinese civil war is rendering the country vulnerable to Bolshevism.

Whether the Chinese Communists are working in sympathy with the Russians is a matter of debate. The Chinese Reds say they are not, but the Chinese government says they are, and many impartial observers agree with the government. Anyway, the dragon's teeth which the Chinese Communists are sowing will grow crops which will be grist for Moscow's mill.

China is the main base of western democracy in the Orient. Supposing that vast country with its 500,000,000 population should fall under Russian domination, and to this should be added most of the rest of the Oriental peoples. If you join Russia's 200,000,000 to that bloc you have considerably more than a billion people—over half the world's population.

There's nothing outlandish about that thought, for the idea of an Asiatic bloc long has been running strong among the Far Eastern countries. The great Nehru, head of the new dominion government of India, is an exponent of an Asiatic confederation, and also is a Socialist with sympathy for some Russian ideas, though he is thumbs down on dictatorship.

Quite apart from that, Moscow has been trying ever since Bolshevism came to power to thrust its influence into India through Afghanistan which lies on the former's northwest frontier. Maybe the Russians think there's an omen in the fact that the Khyber pass between Afghanistan and India provided the route of invasion into Hindustan for Alexander and other conquerors.

This is a crucial moment in the fight between democracy and aggressive totalitarian Communism. It is truly a world war, with two great fronts to be held—one in Europe and the other in the Orient. Neither can be neglected.

BASTROP PLANS ON NEW CHURCH

Baptists Propose New Plant To Cost Completed $270,000

BASTROP, La., Oct. 18.—(Special)—A $270,000 building program to include a three-story educational building and an enlarged auditorium capable of seating 700 has been approved by the First Baptist Church membership here.

The first project will be the construction of the first floor of the 50 by 110-foot educational building with temporary roof. As soon as additional funds are raised, the second and third floors will be added and the auditorium enlarged.

A planning committee has had several proposals under consideration and has engaged Smith, Padgett and Stubbs of Monroe to develop final plans which were adopted by the church last Sunday.

The pastor, the Rev. Earl C. Whitsitt, stated that there would be approximately $40,000 in cash and bonds for the building fund by December and the congregation hopes to raise approximately $15,000 during the next year for the building. This amount will be in addition to the regular budget of $36,500 for local expenses and missionary contributions.

A building committee will be named to receive bids from contractors.

The church Sunday School now has enrolled 740 with an anticipated enrollment to total 1,400.

Mrs. Jewell Milstead, school dietician, gave an interesting talk on the types of meals planned to serve in the school cafeteria—only the type "A" lunch will be served. Mrs. Laningham gave a vivid description of "How The School Lunch Will Help Our Children." Mrs. Laningham stated that it would help the children mentally, physically and socially. It will also be very economical. Principal O. K. Baily told of the equipment furnished by the parish school board and the local P.-T. A.

The "Kitchen Towel" contest closed with the first grade winning the prize; a total of 324 towels were donated to the cafeteria by school children. The first grade also won the prize for having the most parents present.

Delicious refreshments were served during the social hour with mothers of the first-grade children serving as hostesses.

Will Be Heard At Neville High School Auditorium October 29

The United States army ground force band, sponsored by the Jaycees, Northeast Louisiana Junior College and the local United States army and air force recruiting station, will give a free concert at Neville High School auditorium at 8 p.m. Wednesday, October 29.

The band is composed of 85 musicians and has given concerts in 75 different cities before 2,500,000 people.

The band plays popular, semi-classical, classical and novelty pieces.

Monroe was not on the original itinerary for a concert but, Captain Whiting and members of the band were so impressed with the city, on an overnight stop, they expressed a desire to play a concert here.

Captain Whiting said in all of his trips around the United States he had never met friendlier or nicer people than the citizens of Monroe, and he would like very much to play for them. A few telegrams and phone calls by the co-sponsors and the concert was arranged.

The city is indeed fortunate to have such a splendid group of musicians here.

The band has been praised enthusiastically by the press in all the cities it has appeared. Quotes the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer: "The band possesses a great deal of originality and a real feeling for music."

BERT COVERDALE

COVERDALE TO ASK REELECTION

Well Known Official To Run Again For Parish Assessor

Bert Coverdale, assessor of Ouachita parish, is announcing formally as candidate for reelection at the primary to be held January 20, 1948.

Mr. Coverdale has had many years of experience in his present office, as he was deputy assessor for a long period of time before he was elected assessor.

His long period of connection with the office of assessor qualifies him, it is generally conceded, for the office which he holds and which he seeks to retain.

In his years of experience, Mr. Coverdale has had the widest possible acquaintance with the public and he not only remembers faces and names but also he is familiar with properties, their location, their values and potentialities.

In many critical times, and times when information is desired by landowners anywhere in the parish, they are quite apt to go to Mr. Coverdale for they know he has the answer to their troublesome questions. In his all-round courtesy and sincere interest in everyone who comes in contact with him, Mr. Coverdale has accumulated the widest possible circle of friends who are ever boosters for this official.

He promises if reelected to devote the same courtesies to the public that have been characteristic of the past and he will of course devote all his time to the duties of the office of assessor.

TIME IS WASTED ON EDUCATION

So Declares Prin. Block In Rotary Talk; Urges New Curricula

JONESVILLE, La., Oct. 18.—(Special)—Favoring a revamping of the curricula of Louisiana high schools, J. Eldon Doughty, principal of Block Elementary School, told Jonesville Rotarians this week 60 per cent of the present high school students are "wasting their time."

Doughty pointed out that only 20 per cent of the graduates went to college and only 20 per cent of the students were offered vocational training in Catahoula parish.

He said the cause of so many students resigning from school before graduation was "they can see no benefits from pursuit of the present curriculum." In 1945-46, he pointed out that 2,781 students were registered in Catahoula elementary schools and only 366 in high school.

Doughty urged the setting up of a course designed to help those who plan to attend college, and a separate one geared to fit the needs of those who plan to go to work immediately upon leaving high school.

Mackenzie's Column

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

What with the roar of battle between the democracies and the Red bloc in Europe, and the constant effervescence of Russia's chief U. N. representative, Andrei Y. Vishnisky, it's small wonder that the western world's attention is diverted from affairs in Asia.

However, that's a dangerous situation for the Occident to be in. For while we are engrossed in the defense of democracy in the west, a terrible menace is developing in the Far East—the threat of a Communist dominated Asiatic bloc comprising more than half the population of the whole world.

The crux of this Oriental crisis is mighty China—torn by civil war between the Chinese Communists and the nationalist government, and in the grip of a protracted economic upheaval which has even taken the lives of millions by starvation. China has reached that state of chaos which renders her prime for communistic conquest.

In token of this listen to Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, who recently made a special investigation of the Chinese situation as special emissary of President Truman. The general says that "unless drastic reforms, particularly in the economic field, are implemented soon, China will be drawn into the Soviet orbit in spite of the assistance that we Amercans must extend."

This statement was contained in a letter to Mrs. John Gardner Coolidge, of the Boston Committee for United Service to China. Incidentally this was the first indication of the nature of the general's report to the president. Wedemeyer stated in his letter that China is passing through conditions of "evolution and revolution" and that the Soviet Union is capitalizing on "disorganization and chaos in the area exactly as she has done in Europe."

And just what does this signify in terms of the Communist world revolution? Well, it means plenty. For one thing Russia lies up against the northern frontier of China and has great military forces stationed there. For another, the Chinese civil war is rendering the country vulnerable to Bolshevism.

Whether the Chinese Communists are working in sympathy with the Russians is a matter of debate. The Chinese Reds say they are not, but the Chinese government says they are, and many impartial observers agree with the government. Anyway, the dragon's teeth which the Chinese Communists are sowing will grow crops which will be grist for Moscow's mill.

China is the main base of western democracy in the Orient. Supposing that vast country with its 500,000,000 population should fall under Russian domination, and to this should be added most of the rest of the Oriental peoples. If you join Russia's 200,000,000 to that bloc you have considerably more than a billion people—over half the world's population.

There's nothing outlandish about that thought, for the idea of an Asiatic bloc long has been running strong among the Far Eastern countries. The great Nehru, head of the new dominion government of India, is an exponent of an Asiatic confederation, and also is a Socialist with sympathy for some Russian ideas, though he is thumbs down on dictatorship.

Quite apart from that, Moscow has been trying ever since Bolshevism came to power to thrust its influence into India through Afghanistan which lies on the former's northwest frontier. Maybe the Russians think there's an omen in the fact that the Khyber pass between Afghanistan and India provided the route of invasion into Hindustan for Alexander and other conquerors.

This is a crucial moment in the fight between democracy and aggressive totalitarian Communism. It is truly a world war, with two great fronts to be held—one in Europe and the other in the Orient. Neither can be neglected.

Baptists Propose New Plant To Cost Completed $270,000

BASTROP, La., Oct. 18.—(Special)—A $270,000 building program to include a three-story educational building and an enlarged auditorium capable of seating 700 has been approved by the First Baptist Church membership here.

The first project will be the construction of the first floor of the 50 by 110-foot educational building with temporary roof. As soon as additional funds are raised, the second and third floors will be added and the auditorium enlarged.

A planning committee has had several proposals under consideration and has engaged Smith, Padgett and Stubbs of Monroe to develop final plans which were adopted by the church last Sunday.

The pastor, the Rev. Earl C. Whitsitt, stated that there would be approximately $40,000 in cash and bonds for the building fund by December and the congregation hopes to raise approximately $15,000 during the next year for the building. This amount will be in addition to the regular budget of $36,500 for local expenses and missionary contributions.

A building committee will be named to receive bids from contractors.

The church Sunday School now has enrolled 740 with an anticipated enrollment to total 1,400.

STERLINGTON HAS P.-T. A. MEETING

The Sterlington P.-T. A. met at the A. L. Smith School with Mrs. Charlie English, president, presiding. The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Pauline Trezvant, and a treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Velma Hall.

Miss Helen Stall led the group singing, followed by a prayer by Mr. Peters.

Letters on "Why I will enjoy eating in the cafeteria," were read by the following eighth-grade students: Faye Humphrys, Carrie Nelle Spence, Mattie Lightsey, Max Burson, Gary Cook and Bobby Kerry.

Mrs. Jewell Milstead, school dietician, gave an interesting talk on the types of meals planned to serve in the school cafeteria—only the type "A" lunch will be served. Mrs. Laningham gave a vivid description of "How The School Lunch Will Help Our Children." Mrs. Laningham stated that it would help the children mentally, physically and socially. It will also be very economical. Principal O. K. Baily told of the equipment furnished by the parish school board and the local P.-T. A.

The "Kitchen Towel" contest closed with the first grade winning the prize; a total of 324 towels were donated to the cafeteria by school children. The first grade also won the prize for having the most parents present.

Delicious refreshments were served during the social hour with mothers of the first-grade children serving as hostesses.

Will Be Heard At Neville High School Auditorium October 29

The United States army ground force band, sponsored by the Jaycees, Northeast Louisiana Junior College and the local United States army and air force recruiting station, will give a free concert at Neville High School auditorium at 8 p.m. Wednesday, October 29.

The band is composed of 85 musicians and has given concerts in 75 different cities before 2,500,000 people.

The band plays popular, semi-classical, classical and novelty pieces.

Monroe was not on the original itinerary for a concert but, Captain Whiting and members of the band were so impressed with the city, on an overnight stop, they expressed a desire to play a concert here.

Captain Whiting said in all of his trips around the United States he had never met friendlier or nicer people than the citizens of Monroe, and he would like very much to play for them. A few telegrams and phone calls by the co-sponsors and the concert was arranged.

The city is indeed fortunate to have such a splendid group of musicians here.

The band has been praised enthusiastically by the press in all the cities it has appeared. Quotes the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer: "The band possesses a great deal of originality and a real feeling for music."

ENTERS RACE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

JONESVILLE, La., Oct. 19.—(Special)—Russell J. McMillin, Jonesville hotel and restaurant owner, this week announced his candidacy for the office of state representative from Catahoula parish.

McMillin, who supported Incumbent Grover C. Womack in 1944, stated he was acting upon the urging of friends throughout the parish who wanted good government returned to the people.

Promising a clean campaign, the 47-year-old candidate said he would make no false promises and would conduct an active campaign to all corners of the parish to inform the people of his aims.

'CAR THIEF' UNKNOWN TO RODEO PERFORMERS

Performers in the West Monroe rodeo yesterday disclaimed all knowledge of Calvin Lee Freeman, 24-year-old Oklahoma car thief now being held in the Tensas parish prison to await arraignment on federal Dyer act charges.

When arrested, Freeman said he had participated in the Tallulah rodeo and was on his way to Monroe to enter the show here. A check with national headquarters of the Rodeo Cowboys' Association at Fort Worth, Texas, however, disclosed that the youth was not a member of the organization, W. H. "Smitty" Smith, vice-president and arena director of the West Monroe Rodeo Association reported yesterday.

BERT COVERDALE

Well Known Official To Run Again For Parish Assessor

Bert Coverdale, assessor of Ouachita parish, is announcing formally as candidate for reelection at the primary to be held January 20, 1948.

Mr. Coverdale has had many years of experience in his present office, as he was deputy assessor for a long period of time before he was elected assessor.

His long period of connection with the office of assessor qualifies him, it is generally conceded, for the office which he holds and which he seeks to retain.

In his years of experience, Mr. Coverdale has had the widest possible acquaintance with the public and he not only remembers faces and names but also he is familiar with properties, their location, their values and potentialities.

In many critical times, and times when information is desired by landowners anywhere in the parish, they are quite apt to go to Mr. Coverdale for they know he has the answer to their troublesome questions. In his all-round courtesy and sincere interest in everyone who comes in contact with him, Mr. Coverdale has accumulated the widest possible circle of friends who are ever boosters for this official.

He promises if reelected to devote the same courtesies to the public that have been characteristic of the past and he will of course devote all his time to the duties of the office of assessor.

TIME IS WASTED ON EDUCATION

So Declares Prin. Block In Rotary Talk; Urges New Curricula

JONESVILLE, La., Oct. 18.—(Special)—Favoring a revamping of the curricula of Louisiana high schools, J. Eldon Doughty, principal of Block Elementary School, told Jonesville Rotarians this week 60 per cent of the present high school students are "wasting their time."

Doughty pointed out that only 20 per cent of the graduates went to college and only 20 per cent of the students were offered vocational training in Catahoula parish.

He said the cause of so many students resigning from school before graduation was "they can see no benefits from pursuit of the present curriculum." In 1945-46, he pointed out that 2,781 students were registered in Catahoula elementary schools and only 366 in high school.

Doughty urged the setting up of a course designed to help those who plan to attend college, and a separate one geared to fit the needs of those who plan to go to work immediately upon leaving high school.

N. J. C. TO FACE CO-LIN IN HOMECOMING FRAY

Redskins Seek Revenge For Last Year's Loss Here Friday Night

The fifteenth annual homecoming will be celebrated at Northeast Junior College Friday with the football game between the N. J. C. Indians and the Wolves of Copiah-Lincoln featuring the day's activities.

Copiah-Lincoln is the oldest of rivals currently appearing on the Redskins' schedule, and the Wolves will come here with a little the better season's record. Co-Lin has emerged the victor in four of five contests so far while Coach Jim Malone's Redmen have won three out of four.

The Wolfpack, winner over the Tribe last year by a 12-6 count, may be coming to Monroe a little the more favored club, but Malone's chargers have been playing mighty impressive football this season and look like a much better club than last year. However, Co-Lin has back practically the same outfit that faced the Tribe last year.

"We'll be out for revenge if possible," Malone said last night. "Copiah-Lincoln is always a tough customer, however, and have never failed to give us some of our stiffest competition each season. They'll have another cracker jack team this trip and we'll have to be at our best to win."

The most encouraging development at N. J. C. has been the steady improvement of the Redskin line. Back at something like normal shape after crippling blows early in the season, the Indian forwards looked their best Friday night in holding Arkansas College scoreless while their speedy back chalked up 34 points.

TROJANS CRUSH OREGON BEAVERS

Southern Cal In Impressive Show To Ruin Rivals' Bowl Hopes

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Southern California's Trojan football machine dealt Orgon State's Rose Bowl hopes a sad blow today, wrecking the Beavers, 48 to 6, before 61,301 fans in Memorial Coliseum.

Still generating heat after crushing Ohio State a week ago, the red shirted Troys hit the scoreboard for seven touchdowns and handed the Beavers from the Northwest the worst beating a Trojan eleven has registered since the two teams first met in 1914.

The Beavers hoped to hurdle past Southren Cal and, with a comparatively easy schedule for the rest of the year, figured in pre-season predictions to be a strong threat for the honor of representing the Pacific Coast Conference in the Rose Bowl Jan. 1.

There were completely overmatched in all departments. U. S. C. didn't have to punt until the final two minutes of the game and the Beavers never got past the midfield stripe until halfback Kenny Carpenter raced a kickoff 74 yards to setup the long Oregon State touchdown against Trojans subs in the third period.

The beefy Trojans scored the first time they got the ball—40 yards, four plays, four minutes—and enjoyed a 21-0 lead at half time. They were ahead 28-0 when the Oregons scored.

Coach Jeff Cravath, trying to hold back his men for the big battle next week against undefeated California at Berkley, dipped to the fifth and sixth string subs, but even these lads went yard-crazy and reeled off three touchdowns in the final period.

The most spectacular run was Jack Kirby's 72-yard sideline dance from scrimmage in the fourth period.

SOUTHERNERS TROUNCE SOUTHWESTERN, 15 TO 7

LAFAYETTE, La., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A strong Mississippi Southern football team tonight defeated Southwestern Louisiana Institute 15 to 7 here.

The old rivals fought on even terms until the last 15 seconds of the first half when Southwestern scored. The tally came when Smith heaved a Southwestern pass from his own 33 to Fisher on the southern 35. Fisher scampered across for the tally. Petit's kick for the extra point was good.

The Southerners scored a safety in the third quarter when Southwestern's Halfback H. T. Smith was dropped behind his goal line on a faked punt. A few moments later Southern drove from its own 41 to the Southwestern 20, where Legros passed to Brown for a touchdown. Howard failed to convert.

In the last quarter Mississippi Southern staged a sustained drive which carried them practically to the goal line where Brown scored and Howard converted.

PRO GRID TEAMS CONTINUE CLOSE SCRAP FOR LEAD

Top Places At Stake In Divisions Of National Circuit Today

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—(Special)—With first place at stake in both the Eastern and Western divisions the five games scheduled for tomorrow in the National Football League take on added significance.

The tremendous spectator interest that has resulted in record-breaking paid crowds at Washington, Green Bay and Chicago and the second largest crowd in the history of N. F. L. football in Detroit, may bring new attendance records in the fourth week of the most exciting season in years.

The Chicago Cardinals, pace-setters in the Western division, with three victories and no defeats, will meet Los Angeles, tied with Green Bay for second place with two wins and one reverse, in a game at Los Angeles that is expected to draw the top attendance of the day.

Should the Rams and Green Bay win, a three way tie for first place in the Western division will result with the Cards one of the three sharing the top position. Should the Cardinals win they would be in a commanding position at the conclusion of the first third of the season.

Both the Chicago Bears and Detroit, the latter getting more potent as the season progresses, are hopeful of victory in their game in the Windy City. The Bears vanquished the Eagles last week while Detroit was losing a hard fought battle to Los Angeles. The duel between Sid Luckman, the passer, and Bill Dudley, the runner and pass receiver, should be one of the best of the campaign.

Washington, with Bronco Sammy Baugh, the terror of every defense set up against him in his familiar passing role, hopes to equal the series with Green Bay by winning in the game that will be played in Milwaukee. The Redskins, after losing to Philadelphia, defeated Pittsburgh and New York while Green Bay won over the Chicago Bears and Los Angeles and lost to the front running Cardinals.

Tied with Washington for first place, the Eagles, with Tommy Thompson enjoying a great year in passing and with the incomparable Steve Van Buren, hope to return to winning ways by defeating Pittsburgh in Pittsburgh. But Jock Suotherland and his Steelers have other views on that subject. In third place with two wins and two defeats, Pittsburgh hopes to move into first place by winning from the Eagles. Green Bay, however, would have to make an assist by defeating Washington.

Boston and New York, which battled to a 7 to 7 tie in their first encounter, will meet in the metropolis with fourth place in the Eastern Division at stake. Both teams have yet to display the offensive strength expected of them, although both gave indications last week that their running and passing attacks are greatly improved.

There is not a team that can be counted out of the race in either division. The Bears last week demonstrated that they are very much in the thick of the fight and it would not be surprising to find one or more teams creating an upset to scramble the 1947 chase for sectional honors.

The series between the teams shows New York with three wins and two ties in its five games with Boston; Philadelphia leading Pittsburgh with 12 wins to nine and one tie; Green Bay has won three to two with Washington; the Bears have 15 wins to eight with Detroit and two ties and the Chicago Cards and Los Angeles have each won one game in their abbreviated series.

Opposing teams will have to set up a special defense for Ed Saenz, Washington's great kickoff return specialist. He ran 94 yards for a touchdown against both Philadelphia and New York and has amassed the astounding total of 356 yards on nine returns, an average of 29.6 yards per runback.

Neville-Ruston Battle Friday May Determine District Class A Champ

Tigers To Invade Bearcat Grid For Important Conference Game

The Neville High School Tigers, after passing their only open date of the season the past week, begin preparations tomorrow for their important Class A conference scramble with the Ruston High School Bearcats next Friday night at Ruston.

The Bearcats loom as the big obstacle in Neville's hopes of reaching the district championship playoffs, and Coach Bill Ruple declared last night that his charges would have to be playing their best brand of football this week to repulse the hard-fighting Ruston eleven.

"On comparative scores the heavy Ruston team is favored in this contest which may well decide the district championship for one team or the other," Coach Ruple stated.

But over at Ruston, Coach "Hoss" Garrett is just as strong in nominating Neville as the favored team.

"Neville has one of the finest lines in this section of the state this season, and that shifty halfback, Bucky McElroy, will be enough to cause any opponents all the trouble they want offensively any night," the Bearcat coach maintains.

Ruston has spiked Neville title hopes for the past several years, and the Bengals haven't been able to beat the Lincoln parish club since 1937. Last year Ruston bounced Neville, 27 to 0, and the Tigers' lineup this year includes only Guards Ronald Gunter and "Buster" Stevens, and Quarterback Stoney Smallwood from the starting lineup that faced the 'Cats last year.

Neville went to Ruston as the favorite two years ago and came home a 13-6 victim of the Bearcat upset ability. Coach Ruple still well remembers what happened in 1945, and he'll see to it that the Tigers go out fighting this week with the realization that Ruston is quite capable of again ruining title aspirations.

If Neville can get past Ruston, the Tigers will be decided favorites to whip Winnfield, Ferriday, Bastrop, and possibly Lafayette in their remaining games.

GOLDEN GOPHERS BOW TO ILLINOIS

Perry Moss' Passes Help Smash Minnesota 'Beef Trust,' 40-13

By Charles Chamberlain

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Perry Moss completed seven passes in seven tosses today--two of them spiraling to long touchdowns--as Illinois' High-Octane football team crushed Minnesota, 40-13.

The ponderous Gophers, entering the important Big Nine game with a string of three victories, suffered their first defeat of the season before a wildly cheering partisan crowd of 56,048 in Memorial Stadium.

In remaining undefeated in four games, the Illini cracked the Gophers "beef trust" by drilling through a line which had a weight advantage up to a 21 pound per man and striking through the air against a pass defense that was nil.

The Gophers slowness afoot enabled Moss, the migrant from Tulsa University, to hurl a 25 yard scoring pass to Dwight Eddleman and then follow up with a 54-yard aerial play to Art Duffelmeier for two touchdowns in the first period.

The Gophers, resorting to power plays which made Coach Bernie Bierman famous, rammed 60 yards for a touchdown at the outset of the second quarter. Bill Elliott knifed for 40 of the total yards and capped the effort by smashing over from the six.

A few plays later, Eddleman scored for the second time in one of the longest runs of the season. The high-jumping track start hugged Harry Elliott's punt and streaked 89 yards.

Minnesota shook off this dazzling play by scrambilng 97 yards only to be denied entrance through the touchdown gate. Everette Faunce set the drive in motion by returning the kickoff 59 yards. Illinois line, which let the Gophers seep through for 251 yards, cemented and held for downs on the three as time ran out in the half. From then on it was a rout.

LAKE PROVIDENCE TRIMS START ELEVEN, 32 TO 13

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., Oct. 18.—(Special)—The Lake Providence Panthers continued their conquest of Class B competition here last night by trouncing Start High School, 32 to 13.

Deal led the Panthers' scoring with three touchdowns, and Clements and Trieschmann added one each. D. Craighead scored both Start touchdowns. Herrington and Clements contributed extra points for Lake Providence and the lone Start conversion was on a pass, Craighead to Berry. The first downs were 13-9 in favor for the Panthers.

The Craighead brothers played outstanding ball for the visitors, while Bradley and Phillips played good defensive ball for Lake Providence, and Deal, Clements, and Jack Brown stood out offensively.

SPORTS ROUND UP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Imaginary play of the week: North Carolina vs. William and Mary. Carolina has the ball on its own ten yard line. Charley Justice breaks loose. As beautiful downfield blocking clears the way, he goes past midfield, to the 20, the 1, the 5. . . . Just then the voice of a Southern Conference eligibility committee member rings out: "Stop. You're ineligible." . . . Justice downs the ball. The officials go into a huddle to decide (A) Should the entire play be called back? (B) Should Carolina get the ball where it was downed?

Tough Racquet

The intramural sports program at the University of Florida this year will require about 500 dozen tennis balls. . . . Usually when a college loses as many football games as Florida, its the coach that gets the bounce.

Sportspourri

Word from New England is that Holy Cross alumni are sharpshooting at Coach Ox Da Grosa because his teams don't win enough games. . . . Nat Fleischer has left the hospital after a three weeks stay following an operation. Jacobs Beach hears that in that time Nat wrote four books, edited three issues of Ring Magazine and burned out two telephones. . . . Brian Bell, who figures to be Washington and Lee's best back against Virginia, attended the University for one year when W. & L. had dropped football during the war. Bell persuaded his high school pal, Ray Brown to attend the same school but Brown stayed there and became Virginia's best ground gainer during the past two seasons.

Bench Warmer

Kemp Wicker, former Yankee and Dodger pitcher who managed Columbus, Ga., to its second straight Sally League pennant this year, hasn't been chased from a game by the umps during those two seasons. Only three of Wicker's players have been banished in that period. . . . "And, if you've ever seen Sally League umpires," comments Sports Scribe Gayle Hayes, "brother, that's something."

St. Ambrose college of Davenport, Ia., which doesn't bust into the official N. C. A. A. statistics, wants it known that its football team has averaged 258.7 yards by rushing in four games, which tops any big team in its section. . . . Dean C. P. Miles, who is with the Virginia Tech team at West Point as faculty athletic representative, coached the only Tech team that ever beat Army, in 1905. . . . Montana football fans figure they hit rock bottom last week-end. Four state teams lost to outsiders and the only game that seemed certain to produce a Montana victory (Eastern Montana Normal vs. Montana State Normal) ended in a scoreless tie.

Monroe Amateur Reached Third Round Of Club Championship Meet

E. S. "Shep" Girault, one of Monroe's top flight amateur golfers, is setting the pace in the McGuire Park Club Championship tournament, already having advanced to the third round while other contenders are still in first and second round play.

Girault got by the first round easily on a default from Gene Demmary, and when Bobby Oliver defaulted to Vance Rhodes, then Girault and Rhodes immediately got together in their second round match with Girault winning, 3 and 2.

Other first round results, reported by Pro Johnny Myers, were: Wesley Shafto defeated Frank Johnson, 4 and 3; Kenneth Holt passed Harold Woods, 5 and 4; McVea Oliver won by default from Ford Hines, and Ed Shave advanced on default by F. V. Allison.

The Girault-Rhodes match is the only second round engagement yet to come off.

Other first round matches remaining to be played, and which must be completed by Wednesday, are Bill Jones vs. Ben Downing and Aaron Parker vs. George Miller. Second round matches must be played not later than next Sunday, Pro Myers said.

COLUMBIA BEATS DUBACH, TAKES ON START FRIDAY

COLUMBIA, La., Oct. 18.—(Special)—The Columbia Crimson Tide, which plays Start High School here Friday in Columbia High School's annual homecoming contest, walloped the Dubach Flunging Rattlesnakes, 39 to 7, last night at Clarks.

The Tide rolled to 26 points over the Plungers in the first half in which Coach Woodrow Turner used his first and second stringers, but everything on the Columbia bench got a chance to operate in the last half.

The homecoming game with Start will be played at Columbia's new Caldwell Memorial Park, beginning at 2 o'clock Friday. The homecoming queen will be crowned at the game and all former Columbia football players from 1913 until the present will be introduced.

MICHIGAN SLUGS NORTHWESTERN BY 48-21 MARGIN

Undefeated Wolverines Batter Wildcats For Seven Touchdowns

By Charles Dunkley

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Michigan's proud and capable Wolverines bidding for a Rose Bowl date, swept to their fourth consecutive lopsided victory today, burying Northwestern's injury-riddled eleven under a 49 to 21 score.

A shirtsleeved capacity crowd of 48,000 watched the untied, undefeated Wolverines batter the weakened Wildcats in achieving their first victory of the "Big Nine" campaign.

The Wolverines scored seven touchdowns and rolled up a total of 500 yards gained by rushing and in the air to Northwestern's 317. Most of Northwestern's yardage was picked up in the second half when Coach Fritz Crisler of the trumphant Wolverines, currently the nation's number one football eleven, was shooting 39 reserves into the game. In the first half with the Michigan regulars operating, Northwestern was held to a mere 82 yards, while Michigan was rolling up 238.

The 49 points, added to the 69 Michigan scored over Pittsburgh a week ago, 55 in defeating Michigan State and 49 rolled up against Stanford, raised Michigan's total to 222 for four games against 34 for all opposition.

Northwestern playing without the services of highly rated Center Alex Sarkisian, side-lined with a broken arm, and four other regulars but because of injuries, made a praiseworthy showing, particularly 21-year-old Art Murakowski, a rip-snorting ground gainer, who scored Northwestern's trio of touchdowns.

No one individual star stood out in Michigan's smashing victory, Jack Weisenburger, the Wolverines plunging fullback, accounted for two touchdowns and led his teammates in piling up yards, with a total net gain of 116. Chalmers Elliott and Bob Chappuis, ace halfback, rolled up 65 and 60 respectively.

The Wolverines piled up two touchdowns in the first six minutes of play. Derricotte ran Worthington's punt back 54 yards to Northwestern's nine. Elliott raced around right end for a touchdown on the first play. Brieske made the first of seven conversions.

MAROONS RALLY LATE TO DEFEAT DUQUESNE, 34-0

Dukes Hold Miss. State Scoreless First Half Before Roof Falls In

By Eddie Pagnac

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Mississippi State Maroons mixed accurate passing with hard running today to trounce a hard-fighting Duquesne eleven, 34 to 0, before a homecoming day crowd of about 10,000.

It was a battle of powerful lines during the first half, but State's power came to the fore in the last two periods as "the Duke" tired.

Two of the Maroon touchdowns came as the result of passes, and three were on running plays. Tom "Shorty" McWilliams, former Army player who returned to State last year, figured in three State touchdowns, tossing to End Ken Davis for the first tally and scoring the second himself on a seven-yard run through the line. In the last period McWilliams swept around left end for State's last tally. Max Stainbrook, subbed for McWilliams for placekicking purposes and contributed four extra points from placement.

Earlier in the fourth period, Harper Davis, State right half, who did considerable running for the victors tossed to Substitute End Jerry Odom for another touchdown, and a few

N. J. C. TO FACE CO-LIN IN HOMECOMING FRAY

Redskins Seek Revenge For Last Year's Loss Here Friday Night

The fifteenth annual homecoming will be celebrated at Northeast Junior College Friday with the football game between the N. J. C. Indians and the Wolves of Copiah-Lincoln featuring the day's activities.

Copiah-Lincoln is the oldest of rivals currently appearing on the Redskins' schedule, and the Wolves will come here with a little the better season's record. Co-Lin has emerged the victor in four of five contests so far while Coach Jim Malone's Redmen have won three out of four.

The Wolfpack, winner over the Tribe last year by a 12-6 count, may be coming to Monroe a little the more favored club, but Malone's chargers have been playing mighty impressive football this season and look like a much better club than last year. However, Co-Lin has back practically the same outfit that faced the Tribe last year.

"We'll be out for revenge if possible," Malone said last night. "Copiah-Lincoln is always a tough customer, however, and have never failed to give us some of our stiffest competition each season. They'll have another cracker jack team this trip and we'll have to be at our best to win."

The most encouraging development at N. J. C. has been the steady improvement of the Redskin line. Back at something like normal shape after crippling blows early in the season, the Indian forwards looked their best Friday night in holding Arkansas College scoreless while their speedy back chalked up 34 points.

TROJANS CRUSH OREGON BEAVERS

Southern Cal In Impressive Show To Ruin Rivals' Bowl Hopes

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Southern California's Trojan football machine dealt Orgon State's Rose Bowl hopes a sad blow today, wrecking the Beavers, 48 to 6, before 61,301 fans in Memorial Coliseum.

Still generating heat after crushing Ohio State a week ago, the red shirted Troys hit the scoreboard for seven touchdowns and handed the Beavers from the Northwest the worst beating a Trojan eleven has registered since the two teams first met in 1914.

The Beavers hoped to hurdle past Southren Cal and, with a comparatively easy schedule for the rest of the year, figured in pre-season predictions to be a strong threat for the honor of representing the Pacific Coast Conference in the Rose Bowl Jan. 1.

There were completely overmatched in all departments. U. S. C. didn't have to punt until the final two minutes of the game and the Beavers never got past the midfield stripe until halfback Kenny Carpenter raced a kickoff 74 yards to setup the long Oregon State touchdown against Trojans subs in the third period.

The beefy Trojans scored the first time they got the ball—40 yards, four plays, four minutes—and enjoyed a 21-0 lead at half time. They were ahead 28-0 when the Oregons scored.

Coach Jeff Cravath, trying to hold back his men for the big battle next week against undefeated California at Berkley, dipped to the fifth and sixth string subs, but even these lads went yard-crazy and reeled off three touchdowns in the final period.

The most spectacular run was Jack Kirby's 72-yard sideline dance from scrimmage in the fourth period.

SOUTHERNERS TROUNCE SOUTHWESTERN, 15 TO 7

LAFAYETTE, La., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A strong Mississippi Southern football team tonight defeated Southwestern Louisiana Institute 15 to 7 here.

The old rivals fought on even terms until the last 15 seconds of the first half when Southwestern scored. The tally came when Smith heaved a Southwestern pass from his own 33 to Fisher on the southern 35. Fisher scampered across for the tally. Petit's kick for the extra point was good.

The Southerners scored a safety in the third quarter when Southwestern's Halfback H. T. Smith was dropped behind his goal line on a faked punt. A few moments later Southern drove from its own 41 to the Southwestern 20, where Legros passed to Brown for a touchdown. Howard failed to convert.

In the last quarter Mississippi Southern staged a sustained drive which carried them practically to the goal line where Brown scored and Howard converted.

PRO GRID TEAMS CONTINUE CLOSE SCRAP FOR LEAD

Top Places At Stake In Divisions Of National Circuit Today

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—(Special)—With first place at stake in both the Eastern and Western divisions the five games scheduled for tomorrow in the National Football League take on added significance.

The tremendous spectator interest that has resulted in record-breaking paid crowds at Washington, Green Bay and Chicago and the second largest crowd in the history of N. F. L. football in Detroit, may bring new attendance records in the fourth week of the most exciting season in years.

The Chicago Cardinals, pace-setters in the Western division, with three victories and no defeats, will meet Los Angeles, tied with Green Bay for second place with two wins and one reverse, in a game at Los Angeles that is expected to draw the top attendance of the day.

Should the Rams and Green Bay win, a three way tie for first place in the Western division will result with the Cards one of the three sharing the top position. Should the Cardinals win they would be in a commanding position at the conclusion of the first third of the season.

Both the Chicago Bears and Detroit, the latter getting more potent as the season progresses, are hopeful of victory in their game in the Windy City. The Bears vanquished the Eagles last week while Detroit was losing a hard fought battle to Los Angeles. The duel between Sid Luckman, the passer, and Bill Dudley, the runner and pass receiver, should be one of the best of the campaign.

Washington, with Bronco Sammy Baugh, the terror of every defense set up against him in his familiar passing role, hopes to equal the series with Green Bay by winning in the game that will be played in Milwaukee. The Redskins, after losing to Philadelphia, defeated Pittsburgh and New York while Green Bay won over the Chicago Bears and Los Angeles and lost to the front running Cardinals.

Tied with Washington for first place, the Eagles, with Tommy Thompson enjoying a great year in passing and with the incomparable Steve Van Buren, hope to return to winning ways by defeating Pittsburgh in Pittsburgh. But Jock Suotherland and his Steelers have other views on that subject. In third place with two wins and two defeats, Pittsburgh hopes to move into first place by winning from the Eagles. Green Bay, however, would have to make an assist by defeating Washington.

Boston and New York, which battled to a 7 to 7 tie in their first encounter, will meet in the metropolis with fourth place in the Eastern Division at stake. Both teams have yet to display the offensive strength expected of them, although both gave indications last week that their running and passing attacks are greatly improved.

There is not a team that can be counted out of the race in either division. The Bears last week demonstrated that they are very much in the thick of the fight and it would not be surprising to find one or more teams creating an upset to scramble the 1947 chase for sectional honors.

The series between the teams shows New York with three wins and two ties in its five games with Boston; Philadelphia leading Pittsburgh with 12 wins to nine and one tie; Green Bay has won three to two with Washington; the Bears have 15 wins to eight with Detroit and two ties and the Chicago Cards and Los Angeles have each won one game in their abbreviated series.

Opposing teams will have to set up a special defense for Ed Saenz, Washington's great kickoff return specialist. He ran 94 yards for a touchdown against both Philadelphia and New York and has amassed the astounding total of 356 yards on nine returns, an average of 29.6 yards per runback.

Perry Moss' Passes Help Smash Minnesota 'Beef Trust,' 40-13

The Gophers, resorting to power plays which made Coach Bernie Bierman famous, rammed 60 yards for a touchdown at the outset of the second quarter. Bill Elliott knifed for 40 of the total yards and capped the effort by smashing over from the six.

A few plays later, Eddleman scored for the second time in one of the longest runs of the season. The high-jumping track start hugged Harry Elliott's punt and streaked 89 yards.

Minnesota shook off this dazzling play by scrambilng 97 yards only to be denied entrance through the touchdown gate. Everette Faunce set the drive in motion by returning the kickoff 59 yards. Illinois line, which let the Gophers seep through for 251 yards, cemented and held for downs on the three as time ran out in the half. From then on it was a rout.

SPORTS ROUND UP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Imaginary play of the week: North Carolina vs. William and Mary. Carolina has the ball on its own ten yard line. Charley Justice breaks loose. As beautiful downfield blocking clears the way, he goes past midfield, to the 20, the 1, the 5. . . . Just then the voice of a Southern Conference eligibility committee member rings out: "Stop. You're ineligible." . . . Justice downs the ball. The officials go into a huddle to decide (A) Should the entire play be called back? (B) Should Carolina get the ball where it was downed?

Monroe Amateur Reached Third Round Of Club Championship Meet

E. S. "Shep" Girault, one of Monroe's top flight amateur golfers, is setting the pace in the McGuire Park Club Championship tournament, already having advanced to the third round while other contenders are still in first and second round play.

Girault got by the first round easily on a default from Gene Demmary, and when Bobby Oliver defaulted to Vance Rhodes, then Girault and Rhodes immediately got together in their second round match with Girault winning, 3 and 2.

Other first round results, reported by Pro Johnny Myers, were: Wesley Shafto defeated Frank Johnson, 4 and and 3; Kenneth Holt passed Harold Woods, 5 and 4; McVea Oliver won by default from Ford Hines, and Ed Shave advanced on default by F. V. Allison.

The Girault-Rhodes match is the only second round engagement yet to come off.

COLUMBIA BEATS DUBACH, TAKES ON START FRIDAY

COLUMBIA, La., Oct. 18.—(Special)—The Columbia Crimson Tide, which plays Start High School here Friday in Columbia High School's annual homecoming contest, walloped the Dubach Plunging Rattlesnakes, 39 to 7, last night at Clarks.

The Tide rolled to 26 points over the Plungers in the first half in which Coach Woodrow Turner used his first and second stringers, but everything on the Columbia bench got a chance to operate in the last half.

The homecoming game with Start will be played at Columbia's new Caldwell Memorial Park, beginning at 2 o'clock Friday. The homecoming queen will be crowned at the game and all former Columbia football players from 1913 until the present will be introduced.

MICHIGAN SLUGS NORTHWESTERN BY 48-21 MARGIN

By Charles Dunkley

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Michigan's proud and capable Wolverines bidding for a Rose Bowl date, swept to their fourth consecutive lopsided victory today, burying Northwestern's injury-riddled eleven under a 49 to 21 score.

A shirtsleeved capacity crowd of 48,000 watched the untied, undefeated Wolverines batter the weakened Wildcats in achieving their first victory of the "Big Nine" campaign.

The Wolverines scored seven touchdowns and rolled up a total of 500 yards gained by rushing and in the air to Northwestern's 317. Most of Northwestern's yardage was picked up in the second half when Coach Fritz Crisler of the trumphant Wolverines, currently the nation's number one football eleven, was shooting 39 reserves into the game. In the first half with the Michigan regulars operating, Northwestern was held to a mere 82 yards, while Michigan was rolling up 238.

The 49 points, added to the 69 Michigan scored over Pittsburgh a week ago, 55 in defeating Michigan State and 49 rolled up against Stanford, raised Michigan's total to 222 for four games against 34 for all opposition.

Northwestern playing without the services of highly rated Center Alex Sarkisian, side-lined with a broken arm, and four other regulars but because of injuries, made a praisworthy showing, particularly 21-year-old Art Murakowski, a rip-snorting ground gainer, who scored Northwestern's trio of touchdowns.

No one individual star stood out in Michigan's smashing victory, Jack Weisenburger, the Wolverines plunging fullback, accounted for two touchdowns and led his teammates in piling up yards, with a total net gain of 116. Chalmers Elliott and Bob Chappuis, ace halfback, rolled up 65 and 60 respectively.

The Wolverines piled up two touchdowns in the first six minutes of play. Derricotte ran Worthington's punt back 54 yards to Northwestern's nine. Elliott raced around right end for a touchdown on the first play. Brieske made the first of seven conversions.

MAROONS RALLY LATE TO DEFEAT DUQUESNE, 34-0

By Eddie Pagnac

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Mississippi State Maroons mixed accurate passing with hard running today to trounce a hard-fighting Duquesne eleven, 34 to 0, before a homecoming day crowd of about 10,000.

It was a battle of powerful lines during the first half, but State's power came to the fore in the last two periods as "the Duke" tired.

Two of the Maroon touchdowns came as the result of passes, and three were on running plays. Tom "Shorty" McWilliams, former Army player who returned to State last year, figured in three State touchdowns, tossing to End Ken Davis for the first tally and scoring the second himself on a seven-yard run through the line. In the last period McWilliams swept around left end for State's last tally. Max Stainbrook, subbed for McWilliams for placekicking purposes and contributed four extra points from placement.

Earlier in the fourth period, Harper Davis, State right half, who did considerable running for the victors tossed to Substitute End Jerry Odom for another touchdown, and a few

CONERLY LEADS REBELS OVER TULANE, 27-14

OLE MISS SCORES IN EVERY QUARTER FOR EASY VICTORY

Mississippi Ace Passes For Three TD's, Scores One Himself

By Kris Kreeger

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Charley Conerly passed for three touchdowns and plunged over for another to give the Mississippi Rebels a 27 to 14 victory over the Tulane Green Wave here this afternoon before 40,000 spectators.

Two of Charley's scoring heaves were 18-yarders on last down. His passes also set up the touchdown in which he scored himself. When not otherwise engaged. The Rebel tailback was keeping Tulane backed up with fine punts and quick kicks.

Tulane scored on third-period marches of 55 and 77 yards—the only sustained touchdown marches the Wave has made in four games this season.

Big Barney Poole caught two of Conerly's payoff pitches and played a bruising game at left end for Ole Miss, but Tulane made several substantial gains over his position.

A fumble recovery on Tulane's 26 set up the Rebs' first score early in the opening period. Conerly passed to Poole for the last seven, and Barney fell across the goal line after two tacklers had bounced off him.

Late in the second period Ole Miss Right Guard Jim Crawford blocked Leonard Finley's punt to give the Rebs the ball on Tulane's 23. Two Conerly passes put the ball on the two yard line, and Charley hit right guard for the touchdown.

Ole Miss marched back 74 yards after taking the second half kickoff. Conerly passed 18 yards to Poole on the goal line for the score. Earl Howell's 46-yard end run gained most of the distance in the drive.

The Wave then rolled 55 yards to its first touchdown in three games. Bennie Ellender passed to Don Fortier for the last five, after Fortier's toss to Al Waller had gained 42 to set up the score.

A few minutes later Tulane went 7 yards in seven plays until Ed Heider circled left end for three yards and six points. Fortier's 33-yard pass to Heider was the highlight of the push.

Just as it seemed Tulane's reserve strength was wearing the Rebels down, Ole Miss Trekked 65 yards to score again. Conerly threw 18 yards to Joe Johnson, sub end, who was all alone in the end zone. Conerly completed nine passes in eleven attempts.

M'NEESE TAKES BEATING FROM TYLER J. C., 35-14

LAKE CHARLES, La., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Tyler Junior College handed McNeese Junior College a 35 to 14 shellacking here tonight, as Rollins Frase and Drake teamed up to provide an excellent pass combination.

Tyler's first score was made by Frase from the two yard line in the first quarter. In the third period Taylor scored on a 23 yard pass from Drake. Then Frase took one from Drake for a tally and a few moments later repeated the process. In the fourth quarter Frase scored again on a heave from Drake. Porter kicked five conversions.

McNeese scored twice in the second period, once after a blocked punt was taken from the Tyler 26 to the 10. oland scored from there and Kingery kicked the conversion. After a sustained drive, Pruitt scored from the one and Kingery again added a punt.

OREGON UPSETS HUSKIES WITH SURPRISING POWER

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The underdog University of Oregon turned an amazing power to defeat a ragged University of Washington team 6-0 in their Pacific Coast Conference football game here today.

Oregon crossed the goal line three times, but twice penalties nullified the scoring plays. The Huskies never threatened.

The Ducks started their touchdown march on their own 43-yard line in the third period. Fullback Bob Koch broke through center for a first down on the Washington 46. Halfback George Bell broke through to the 33 and Norm Van Brocklin, quarterback, whipped a pass to Halfback Jake Leicht on the 5-yard line. On the next play Leicht scampered off left tackle to score. The try for point failed.

GRID POWERS COME THROUGH WITH IMPRESSIVE VICTORIES

Michigan, Texas, S. M. U., Notre Dame Roll On Undefeated

By Harold Claassen

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Big Nine as a unit and such widely scattered college football powers as Pennsylvania, Penn State, Georgia Tech, San Francisco, Notre Dame, Kentucky, Army, Texas, Southern California, California, Mississippi State and Navy added to their stature in games today.

The midwest circuit gained the most prestige. It sent what was labeled a weak and fumbling Wisconsin team to the home of unbeaten Yale and the Badgers pounded out a 9 to 0 verdict. In addition, Indiana took its turn in walloping Pittsburgh. This time the score against the hapless Panthers was 41 to 6, the second time Pitt has scored this year.

At the same time Purdue also invaded the east and crushed a hopeful Boston University aggregation, 62 to 7.

Within its own orbit, defending Champion Illinois outsped a ponderous Minnesota eleven, 40 to 13, and Michigan, heir-apparent to the title, outscored Northwestern, 49 to 21, while using 39 substitutes. Iowa got 13 points in the first half and Ohio State duplicated that total in the last half as their tussle ended in deadlock before 72,998 at Columbus.

Penn chalked up 21 points in the first period to beat back the challenge of Columbia, 34 to 14, and Navy triumphed for the first time since the 1946 opening game by pushing Cornell all over the field while winning, 38 to 19.

Army ran its string to 32 games without a defeat by downing Virginia Tech, 40 to 0, with the Cadets using 35 subs and the Virginians 24. Despite the wide search, Army Coach Earl Blaik didn't find either another Blanchard or Davis.

Penn State was off to a slow start but got going in time to register a 40 to 0 verdict over Syracuse.

One of the most impressive triumphs of the day was the 21 to 6 conquest of Arkansas by Texas. The Longhorns, generally regarded as a passing team because of Bobby Layne's presence, were grounded by rain but rolled over the stubborn porkers with relative ease.

Marquette played its first daylight game of the year and wished it hadn't as San Francisco cruised to a 34 to 13 victory. Kentucky subdued the previously unbeaten Vanderbilt Commodores, 14 to 0, and Mississippi State mastered Duquesne, 34 to 0.

California, Southern California and U. C. L. A., the coast's trio of stalwarts, all romped home without difficulty. California won its fifth straight, 21 to 6, with Washington State the victim. Southern California conquered a potent Oregon State outfit, 48 to 6, and U. C. L. A. trimmed Stanford, 39 to 6.

Notre Dame, still playing under apparent wraps, downed Nebraska, 31 to 0, with Ace Johnny Lujack on the bench most of the time while Coach Frank Leahy hunted for competent substitutes.

Other games in the east found Dartmouth getting a fourth period touchdown to beat Brown, 13 to 10; Princeton handling Colgate, 20 to 7, and Harvard coming to life long enough to beat Holy Cross, 7 to 0.

Eight Missourians broke into the scoring as the Tigers bested Kansas States, 47 to 7, in a Big Six fray that was overshadowed by the 13 to 13 deadlock registered by Kansas and Oklahoma, 1946 co-champions. Iowa State bowed to Michigan State, 20 to 0, in a non-loop game.

Georgia and Georgetown each invaded Oklahoma A. and M., 20 to 7, and Georgetown surprising with a 12 to 0 blanking of Tulsa.

The Chuck Conerly to Barney Poole passing combine brought Mississippi a 27 to 14 victory over Tulane and Alabama, with Harry Gilmer the hero, handed Tennessee another pasting, this time by a 10 to 0 count. Georgia Tech was scored on for the first time this season but trounced Auburn, 27 to 7. North Carolina, capitalizing on a William and Mary fumble, got back on the winning track, 13 to 7, and Virginia continued unbeaten by turning back Washington and Lee, 32 to 7.

The southwest was the scene of a pair of games that finished as minor surprises. Texas Christian crushed Texas A. and M., 26 to 0, and Southern Methodist blanked Rice, 14 to 0.

Not all the headlines were reserved for the major schools. Wilberforce crushed Wright Field, 101 to 0, and Brooklyn College's Jerry Edwards intercepted a Wagner pass on his own goal line and tip-toed 100 yards for a score in his team's 39 to 14 triumph.

BASTROP TACKLES WINNSBORO NEXT

BASTROP, La., Oct. 18.—(Special)—The Bastrop High School Rams, who licked their wounds through an open date this week after their 7-0 loss to Tallulah a week ago, resume their Class A conference campaign when they journey to Winnsboro next Friday for a clash with the strong Wildcat eleven.

Winnsboro boasts one of its fastest teams in years, and depends for its offensive power on Billy Wiggins, speedly little scatback, and hard driving Fay Duchesne, former Ouachita Parish High School fullback of Monroe.

The meeting with the Cats will be the third conference game for the Rams who have already battled to ties with Jonesboro and Winnfield.

However, the Rams will be underdogs in the Winnsboro scrap. Bastrop has been hampered by injuries to key players, and the locals haven't won since their season opener with Start.

SHOOTING EXHIBIT SCHEDULED HERE

"Folks who like to shoot also like to watch the other fellow shoot," says Ken Beegle, internationally famous marksman who will give a demonstration of his shooting ability here, Thursday, November 13, at the Plum street pistol range.

Beegle and his wife, Blanche, make up one of Remington Arms Company's shooting exhibition teams. During the war they toured the country, appearing before millions of G. I.'s at many army camps and naval bases. That their instructions were worthwhile is attested by the fact that they are the recipients of numerous letters from overseas combat soldiers who give the teachings of the Beegles credit for saving their lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Beegle are both ardent lovers of the out-of-doors and whenever they can get a day away from their strenuous shooting exhibition schedule, they like nothing better than to take a 'busman's holiday" and go hunting or fishing. They are just as expert with rod and reel as they are with gun and ammunition.

"Everyone who shoots is curious about how the other fellow does it and likes to try anything new in the shooting line," says Beegle. "Many of the fellows who watch me shoot go home with the 'If he can do it, so can I' idea and start in practicing some of my shots. And they can 'do it,' too, if only they will not become too easily discouraged and will keep on practicing until they develop the proper timing.

"Proper timing is the essence of all shooting at moving targets. Once the shooter learns to make the gun practically a part of himself, learning to shoot with efficiency becomes comparatively easy. Good shooting is not beyond the reach of anyone who has a healthy body, steady nerves or nerves which can be controlled and fairly good eyesight. Once the fundamentals of shooting become so firmly entrenched in the mind of an individual that they are a sort of second nature, it is easy for him to graduate from the status of a mediocre shot to that of an excellent marksman. No shot one person can do is impossible for the other fellow if he will only master the problems of timing and proper gun sighting or pointing. It just takes a little patience and a lot of practice."

Beegle's exhibition is replete with thrilling feats of marksmanship which seem almost impossible to the average sportsman. He uses fourteen different types of guns and is equally proficient with rifle, shotgun and pistol. His lecture on proper and safe gun handling, which runs throughout his exhibition, is one which every father should have his young son hear.

Mrs. Beegle assists her noted husband in all of his exhibitions. She is an accomplished sportswoman and loves all phases of outdoor life.

SHY GUY TRIUMPHS IN KEENELAND RACE

LEXINGTON, Ka., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A lightly-played second choice, Dixiana's bay colt, Shy Guy, closed in a hurry today to capture the $10,000 Added Breeders Futurity at Keeneland and win his fourth race in seven starts this season.

In outdistancing a field of 10 other two-year-olds at six furlongs in 1:11 4/5, Shy Guy responded to a smooth ride by Steve Brooks after trailing until midway of the stretch.

The second horse, Carrara Marble, set the early pace with Swedak, a field horse, running second and Shy Guy and Pennon trailing. The stretch Carrara Marble, W. M. Ingram's bay colt by Coldstream-Georgia Marble, continued to lead with Shy Guy, Perron and Alfred G. Vanderbilt's 9-10 favorite, Newsweekly, moving up.

Shy Guy soon went ahead, followed across the line by Carrara Marble, Pennon, the Hal Price Headley bay gelding ,and Newsweekly.

Newsweekly, the favorite, had won $30,955 prior to today and had taken two stakes events.

STRIKE APPARENTLY ENDS AT JAMAICA RACE TRACK

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The strike of grooms and exercise boys at the Jamaica race track apparently ended tonight amid confident predictions the Jamaica meet would resume next Monday with the running of the roamer and Frizette stakes.

A day-long meeting of the state labor relations board headed by the Rev. William J. Kelley, concluded with strikers' Spokesman Joseph Schorr, president of Local 814, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, (AFL), declaring:

"The strike is off."

Father Kelley said the union and nine owners had agreed to sign a "code of honor" pact embodying most of the terms drafted earlier this week by a special citizens' committee appointed by New York's Mayor William O'Dwyer.

He said a meeting would be held at the Jamaica clubhouse tomorrow where the remainder of the 151 owners and trainers were requested to appear, and he expressed confidence they would accept the "code of honor agreement."

MIGHTY STEERS BEAT ARKANSAS IN DRIVING RAIN

Scott Scores First For Porkers, But Texas Comes Back For 21-6 Win

By Harry P. Snyder

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The mighty Texas Longhorns displayed a brutal ground attack today to smash the University of Arkansas, 21 to 6, and mark their fifth successive victory of the season and their first in Southwest Conference play.

The great Bobby Layne's passing powers were laid aside as a drenching rain fell on a crowd of 28,080 in Crump* Stadium which was "home" for the Razorbacks for this one day.

Texas smashed across the goal three times, traveling 25, 56 and 72 yards after being jolted by the fancy footwork of Arkansas' Clyde Scott who sped 47 yards for a first period score.

Two of the touchdowns were scored by Raymond Jones, hard running fullback from Houston, and one by Halfback Randall Clay—all on bone-rattling drives from the one-yard line.

Texas, in keeping within the ranks of the nation's best, presented a fast, hard charging forward wall that completely dominated the conflict and enabled such ball carriers as James Canady, Byron Gillory and Billy Pyle to gain virtually at will.

Eighty-four times the Texans carried the ball compared to Arkansas' 34 and they racked up 18 first downs to the losers' three—those in the final minutes of play via desperation passes.

Scott's 47-yard touchdown jaunt was easily the most spectacular individual performance of the rainy afternoon. This former Navy star followed his blockers to the left, then cut to his right, shook off grasping hands of two foemen and outran the others, going across upright.

The first Texas counter came shortly after the second period opened. Gillory returned a punt 30 yards to the Razorback 25. Clay smashed for eight and then dashed 14 to the three. He was across in two more plunges.

Minutes later a 13-yard punt return set the Texas offense in action again on the Longhorn 44. Jones picked up 5, tacked on 13, and then three before H. J. Shands ambled through a hole large enough for a battleship and went to the 19, a 16-yard gain. Plays later Layne finally tossed a pass—the first, and End Max Bumgardner nabbed it for a 12-yard net. Jones then hammered to the pay-off.

Texas' final tally came on a drive that required 24 plays and six first downs to cover 72 yards. Clay and Canady gained consistently as the linemen tore the Razorback forwards to shreds. Jones finally barged over.

LOUISIANA TECH TRIMS WILDCATS BY 30-12 MARGIN

Harelson, Peace Lead Bulldogs In L. I. C. Win Over La. College

ALEXANDRIA, La., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs pounded out a 30-12 victory over Louisiana College to spoil the Wildcats homecoming celebration here tonight. After taking a 16-12 lead in the first two periods, the Techmen added 14 points in the third quarter to increase their safety margin.

Eddie Harelson and Raymond Peace paced the victors to their first win in four starts. The game was the second consecutive loss for the Pineville team, who showed improvement behind the play of Frank Cicero, triple threat left halfback.

The north Louisiana Bulldogs outgained the Wildcats 260 yards to 82 from scrimmage and tallied 15 first downs to the losers' 8. Five completed passes in 21 attempts netted 109 yards for the Wildcats and two successful tosses in 5 tries gave the Bulldogs 56 yards.

CHARLIE JUSTICE GETS CLEAN BILL OF HEALTH ON PRO GRID CHARGES

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Southern Conference executive committee today upheld the eligibility of Charlie Justice, University of North Carolina grid star, to play football.

After a more than two-hour closed session, Col. William Couper of Virginia Military Institute, president of the conference, announced that the Tar Heel flash had been given a clean bill of health.

Couper said the committee had studied not only the eligibility documents and declarations submitted by Justice in 1946 and 1947 but had considered the reported signing of a pro football contract by the player in 1943.

CONERLY LEADS REBELS OVER TULANE, 27-14

OLE MISS SCORES IN EVERY QUARTER FOR EASY VICTORY

By Kris Kreeger

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Charley Conerly passed for three touchdowns and plunged over for another to give the Mississippi Rebels a 27 to 14 victory over the Tulane Green Wave here this afternoon before 40,000 spectators.

Two of Charley's scoring heaves were 18-yarders on last down. His passes also set up the touchdown in which he scored himself. When not otherwise engaged. The Rebel tailback was keeping Tulane backed up with fine punts and quick kicks.

Tulane scored on third-period marches of 55 and 77 yards—the only sustained touchdown marches the Wave has made in four games this season.

Big Barney Poole caught two of Conerly's payoff pitches and played a bruising game at left end for Ole Miss, but Tulane made several substantial gains over his position.

A fumble recovery on Tulane's 26 set up the Rebs' first score early in the opening period. Conerly passed to Poole for the last seven, and Barney fell across the goal line after two tacklers had bounced off him.

Late in the second period Ole Miss Right Guard Jim Crawford blocked Leonard Finley's punt to give the Rebs the ball on Tulane's 23. Two Conerly passes put the ball on the two yard line, and Charley hit right guard for the touchdown.

Ole Miss marched back 74 yards after taking the second half kickoff. Conerly passed 18 yards to Poole on the goal line for the score. Earl Howell's 46-yard end run gained most of the distance in the drive.

The Wave then rolled 55 yards to its first touchdown in three games. Bennie Ellender passed to Don Fortier for the last five, after Fortier's toss to Al Waller had gained 42 to set up the score.

A few minutes later Tulane went 7 yards in seven plays until Ed Heider circled left end for three yards and six points. Fortier's 33-yard pass to Heider was the highlight of the push.

Just as it seemed Tulane's reserve strength was wearing the Rebels down, Ole Miss Trekked 65 yards to score again. Conerly threw 18 yards to Joe Johnson, sub end, who was all alone in the end zone. Conerly completed nine passes in eleven attempts.

Bobby Oswalt kicked Ole Miss' extra points and Heider booted Tulane's.

M'NEESE TAKES BEATING FROM TYLER J. C., 35-14

LAKE CHARLES, La., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Tyler Junior College handed McNeese Junior College a 35 to 14 shellacking here tonight, as Rollins Frase and Drake teamed up to provide an excellent pass combination.

Tyler's first score was made by Frase from the two yard line in the first quarter. In the third period Taylor scored on a 23 yard pass from Drake. Then Frase took one from Drake for a tally and a few moments later repeated the process. In the fourth quarter Frase scored again on a heave from Drake. Porter kicked five conversions.

McNeese scored twice in the second period, once after a blocked punt was taken from the Tyler 26 to the 10. Boland scored from there and Kingery kicked the conversion. After a sustained drive, Pruitt scored from the one and Kingery again added a punt.

OREGON UPSETS HUSKIES WITH SURPRISING POWER

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The underdog University of Oregon turned an amazing power to defeat a ragged University of Washington team 6-0 in their Pacific Coast Conference football game here today.

Oregon crossed the goal line three times, but twice penalties nullified the scoring plays. The Huskies never threatened.

The Ducks started their touchdown march on their own 43-yard line in the third period. Fullback Bob Koch broke through center for a first down on the Washington 46. Halfback George Bell broke through to the 33 and Norm Van Brocklin, quarterback, whipped a pass to Halfback Jake Leicht on the 5-yard line. On the next play Leicht scampered off left tackle to score. The try for point failed.

GRID POWERS COME THROUGH WITH IMPRESSIVE VICTORIES

By Harold Claassen

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Big Nine as a unit and such widely scattered college football powers as Pennsylvania, Penn State, Georgia Tech, San Francisco, Notre Dame, Kentucky, Army, Texas, Southern California, California, Mississippi State and Navy added to their stature in games today.

The midwest circuit gained the most prestige. It sent what was labeled a weak and fumbling Wisconsin team to the home of unbeaten Yale and the Badgers pounded out a 9 to 0 verdict. In addition, Indiana took its turn in walloping Pittsburgh. This time the score against the hapless Panthers was 41 to 6, the second time Pitt has scored this year.

At the same time Purdue also invaded the east and crushed a hopeful Boston University aggregation, 62 to 7.

Within its own orbit, defending Champion Illinois outsped a ponderous Minnesota eleven, 40 to 13, and Michigan, heir-apparent to the title, outscored Northwestern, 49 to 21, while using 39 substitutes. Iowa got 13 points in the first half and Ohio State duplicated that total in the last half as their tussle ended in deadlock before 72,998 at Columbus.

Penn chalked up 21 points in the first period to beat back the challenge of Columbia, 34 to 14, and Navy triumphed for the first time since the 1946 opening game by pushing Cornell all over the field while winning, 38 to 19.

Army ran its string to 32 games without a defeat by downing Virginia Tech, 40 to 0, with the Cadets using 35 subs and the Virginians 24. Despite the wide search, Army Coach Earl Blaik didn't find either another Blanchard or Davis.

Penn State was off to a slow start but got going in time to register a 40 to 0 verdict over Syracuse.

One of the most impressive triumphs of the day was the 21 to 6 conquest of Arkansas by Texas. The Longhorns, generally regarded as a passing team because of Bobby Layne's presence, were grounded by rain but rolled over the stubborn porkers with relative ease.

Marquette played its first daylight game of the year and wished it hadn't as San Francisco cruised to a 34 to 13 victory. Kentucky subdued the previously unbeaten Vanderbilt Commodores, 14 to 0, and Mississippi State mastered Duquesne, 34 to 0.

California, Southern California and U. C. L. A., the coast's trio of stalwarts, all romped home without difficulty. California won its fifth straight, 21 to 6, with Washington State the victim. Southern California conquered a potent Oregon State outfit, 48 to 6, and U. C. L. A. trimmed Stanford, 39 to 6.

Notre Dame, still playing under apparent wraps, downed Nebraska, 31 to 0, with Ace Johnny Lujack on the bench most of the time while Coach Frank Leahy hunted for competent substitutes.

Other games in the east found Dartmouth getting a fourth period touchdown to beat Brown, 13 to 10; Princeton handling Colgate, 20 to 7, and Harvard coming to life long enough to beat Holy Cross, 7 to 0.

Eight Missourians broke into the scoring as the Tigers bested Kansas States, 47 to 7, in a Big Six fray that was overshadowed by the 13 to 13 deadlock registered by Kansas and Oklahoma, 1946 co-champions. Iowa State bowed to Michigan State, 20 to 0, in a non-loop game.

Georgia and Georgetown each invaded Oklahoma A. and M., 20 to 7, and Georgetown surprising with a 12 to 0 blanking of Tulsa.

The Chuck Conerly to Barney Poole passing combine brought Mississippi a 27 to 14 victory over Tulane and Alabama, with Harry Gilmer the hero, handed Tennessee another pasting, this time by a 10 to 0 count. Georgia Tech was scored on for the first time this season but trounced Auburn, 27 to 7. North Carolina, capitalizing on a William and Mary fumble, got back on the winning track, 13 to 7, and Virginia continued unbeaten by turning back Washington and Lee, 32 to 7.

The southwest was the scene of a pair of games that finished as minor surprises. Texas Christian crushed Texas A. and M., 26 to 0, and Southern Methodist blanked Rice, 14 to 0.

Not all the headlines were reserved for the major schools. Wilberforce crushed Wright Field, 101 to 0, and Brooklyn College's Jerry Edwards intercepted a Wagner pass on his own goal line and tip-toed 100 yards for a score in his team's 39 to 14 triumph.

BASTROP TACKLES WINNSBORO NEXT

BASTROP, La., Oct. 18.—(Special)—The Bastrop High School Rams, who licked their wounds through an open date this week after their 7-0 loss to Tallulah a week ago, resume their Class A conference campaign when they journey to Winnsboro next Friday for a clash with the strong Wildcat eleven.

Winnsboro boasts one of its fastest teams in years, and depends for its offensive power on Billy Wiggins, speedly little scatback, and hard driving Fay Duchesne, former Ouachita Parish High School fullback of Monroe.

The meeting with the Cats will be the third conference game for the Rams who have already battled to ties with Jonesboro and Winnfield.

However, the Rams will be underdogs in the Winnsboro scrap. Bastrop has been hampered by injuries to key players, and the locals haven't won since their season opener with Start.

"Folks who like to shoot also like to watch the other fellow shoot," says Ken Beegle, internationally famous marksman who will give a demonstration of his shooting ability here, Thursday, November 13, at the Plum street pistol range.

Beegle and his wife, Blanche, make up one of Remington Arms Company's shooting exhibition teams. During the war they toured the country, appearing before millions of G. I.'s at many army camps and naval bases. That their instructions were worthwhile is attested by the fact that they are the recipients of numerous letters from overseas combat soldiers who give the teachings of the Beegles credit for saving their lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Beegle are both ardent lovers of the out-of-doors and whenever they can get a day away from their strenuous shooting exhibition schedule, they like nothing better than to take a 'busman's holiday" and go hunting or fishing. They are just as expert with rod and reel as they are with gun and ammunition.

"Everyone who shoots is curious about how the other fellow does it and likes to try anything new in the shooting line," says Beegle. "Many of the fellows who watch me shoot go home with the 'If he can do it, so can I' idea and start in practicing some of my shots. And they can 'do it,' too, if only they will not become too easily discouraged and will keep on practicing until they develop the proper timing.

"Proper timing is the essence of all shooting at moving targets. Once the shooter learns to make the gun practically a part of himself, learning to shoot with efficiency becomes comparatively easy. Good shooting is not beyond the reach of anyone who has a healthy body, steady nerves or nerves which can be controlled and fairly good eyesight. Once the fundamentals of shooting become so firmly entrenched in the mind of an individual that they are a sort of second nature, it is easy for him to graduate from the status of a mediocre shot to that of an excellent marksman. No shot one person can do is impossible for the other fellow if he will only master the problems of timing and proper gun sighting or pointing. It just takes a little patience and a lot of practice."

Beegle's exhibition is replete with thrilling feats of marksmanship which seem almost impossible to the average sportsman. He uses fourteen different types of guns and is equally proficient with rifle, shotgun and pistol. His lecture on proper and safe gun handling, which runs throughout his exhibition, is one which every father should have his young son hear.

Mrs. Beegle assists her noted husband in all of his exhibitions. She is an accomplished sportswoman and loves all phases of outdoor life.

SHY GUY TRIUMPHS IN KEENELAND RACE

LEXINGTON, Ka., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A lightly-played second choice, Dixiana's bay colt, Shy Guy, closed in a hurry today to capture the $10,000 Added Breeders Futurity at Keeneland and win his fourth race in seven starts this season.

In outdistancing a field of 10 other two-year-olds at six furlongs in 1:11 4/5, Shy Guy responded to a smooth ride by Steve Brooks after trailing until midway of the stretch.

The second horse, Carrara Marble, set the early pace with Swedak, a field horse, running second and Shy Guy and Pennon trailing. The stretch Carrara Marble, W. M. Ingram's bay colt by Coldstream-Georgia Marble, continued to lead with Shy Guy, Perron and Alfred G. Vanderbilt's 9-10 favorite, Newsweekly, moving up.

Shy Guy soon went ahead, followed across the line by Carrara Marble, Pennon, the Hal Price Headley bay gelding ,and Newsweekly.

Newsweekly, the favorite, had won $30,955 prior to today and had taken two stakes events.

STRIKE APPARENTLY ENDS AT JAMAICA RACE TRACK

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The strike of grooms and exercise boys at the Jamaica race track apparently ended tonight amid confident predictions the Jamaica meet would resume next Monday with the running of the roamer and Frizette stakes.

A day-long meeting of the state labor relations board headed by the Rev. William J. Kelley, concluded with strikers' Spokesman Joseph Schorr, president of Local 814, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, (AFL), declaring:

"The strike is off."

Father Kelley said the union and nine owners had agreed to sign a "code of honor" pact embodying most of the terms drafted earlier this week by a special citizens' committee appointed by New York's Mayor William O'Dwyer.

He said a meeting would be held at the Jamaica clubhouse tomorrow where the remainder of the 151 owners and trainers were requested to appear, and he expressed confidence they would accept the "code of honor agreement."

MIGHTY STEERS BEAT ARKANSAS IN DRIVING RAIN

By Harry P. Snyder

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The mighty Texas Longhorns displayed a brutal ground attack today to smash the University of Arkansas, 21 to 6, and mark their fifth successive victory of the season and their first in Southwest Conference play.

The great Bobby Layne's passing powers were laid aside as a drenching rain fell on a crowd of 28,080 in Crump Stadium which was "home" for the Razorbacks for this one day.

Texas smashed across the goal three times, traveling 25, 56 and 72 yards after being jolted by the fancy footwork of Arkansas' Clyde Scott who sped 47 yards for a first period score.

Two of the touchdowns were scored by Raymond Jones, hard running fullback from Houston, and one by Halfback Randall Clay—all on bone-rattling drives from the one-yard line.

Texas, in keeping within the ranks of the nation's best, presented a fast, hard charging forward wall that completely dominated the conflict and enabled such ball carriers as James Canady, Byron Gillory and Billy Pyle to gain virtually at will.

Eighty-four times the Texans carried the ball compared to Arkansas' 34 and they racked up 18 first downs to the losers' three—those in the final minutes of play via desperation passes.

Scott's 47-yard touchdown jaunt was easily the most spectacular individual performance of the rainy afternoon. This former Navy star followed his blockers to the left, then cut to his right, shook off grasping hands of two foemen and outran the others, going across upright.

The first Texas counter came shortly after the second period opened. Gillory returned a punt 30 yards to the Razorback 25. Clay smashed for eight and then dashed 14 to the three. He was across in two more plunges.

Minutes later a 13-yard punt return set the Texas offense in action again on the Longhorn 44. Jones picked up 5, tacked on 13, and then three before H. J. Shands ambled through a hole large enough for a battleship and went to the 19, a 16-yard gain. Plays later Layne finally tossed a pass—the first, and End Max Bumgardner nabbed it for a 12-yard net. Jones then hammered to the pay-off.

Texas' final tally came on a drive that required 24 plays and six first downs to cover 72 yards. Clay and Canady gained consistently as the linemen tore the Razorback forwards to shreds. Jones finally barged over.

The game will begin promptly at 2 p. m. and will be the last game played by the Cinderella Sports unless a playoff is called between the three local teams, namely the Cinderellas, All-Stars and Royals Deluxe.

Special seats have been reserved for white spectators who have been invited to come out and enjoy the game.

LOUISIANA TECH TRIMS WILDCATS BY 30-12 MARGIN

Harelson, Peace Lead Bulldogs In L. I. C. Win Over La. College

ALEXANDRIA, La., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs pounded out a 30-12 victory over Louisiana College to spoil the Wildcats homecoming celebration here tonight. After taking a 16-12 lead in the first two periods, the Techmen added 14 points in the third quarter to increase their safety margin.

Eddie Harelson and Raymond Peace paced the victors to their first win in four starts. The game was the second consecutive loss for the Pineville team, who showed improvement behind the play of Frank Cicero, triple threat left halfback.

The north Louisiana Bulldogs outgained the Wildcats 260 yards to 82 from scrimmage and tallied 15 first downs to the losers' 8. Five completed passes in 21 attempts netted 109 yards for the Wildcats and two successful tosses in 5 tries gave the Bulldogs 56 yards.

CHARLIE JUSTICE GETS CLEAN BILL OF HEALTH ON PRO GRID CHARGES

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Southern Conference executive committee today upheld the eligibility of Charlie Justice, University of North Carolina grid star, to play football.

After a more than two-hour closed session, Col. William Couper of Virginia Military Institute, president of the conference, announced that the Tar Heel flash had been given a clean bill of health.

Couper said the committee had studied not only the eligibility documents and declarations submitted by Justice in 1946 and 1947 but had considered the reported signing of a pro football contract by the player in 1943.

OUACHITA, FAIR PARK PRIME FOR 'AA' SCRAP

LIONS FAVORED TO TAKE CROWN IF INDIANS FALL

Game Thursday Will Be Last Scheduled Tilt At Home For O. P. H. S.

Riding high as the favored team right now in the north Louisiana district Class AA conference chase after their 7-0 win over Haynesville's Tornado Thursday, the Ouachita Parish High School Lions tackle the Fair Park Indians of Shreveport here Thursday night in another important step in the title race.

Coach Jim Hodgins' Lions are in a good position to ice the district crown away, provided they can get past Fair Park. With a win over the Indians, O.P.H.S. would only have to beat Byrd two weeks later and that shouldn't be too hard a job if Byrd's record of six defeats so far this season means anything.

The high school football followers are rating Ouachita No. 1 right now on the strength of their Haynesville victory and the fact that the Tornado had beaten Fair Park two weeks earlier, 14 to 0.

"You can forget all about Haynesville beating Fair Park," Coach Hodgins maintained. "Personally I think Fair Park has one of the finest lines in the district and would probably beat Haynesville if they had to meet again. You can just forget all about us being the favored team, too. If we win this one it will be because we put up the hardest fight of the season.

"Fair Park knows they have to beat us to stay in the race and they will come here primed to do just that."

Lee Hodges, the same hard driving Indian halfback who led Fair Park to a 33-13 win over Ouachita last year, will be back to lead the Tribe again.

Ouachita's green line has come along fast and looked like a seasoned crew against Haynesville, and it will be such forwards as Charles Venable, Jack Smith, Buddy Clifford, Robert Kirby, James Perry, Kendall Bailey, Quinn Becker, and Tommy Wilson who'll have to clear the way for their hard running backs Thursday.

Backs E. J. Sievers, Ernest King, James Moss, and Lawson Fleming can make their way if the line gives them the necessary support.

MAROONS RALLY

minutes later Sonny Jones, a substitute back, scampered 29 yards behind perfect interference for another score.

The teams battled on even terms during the first period with neither able to do much through the line. All appreciable gains were made through the air or around the ends.

The only threat in the first half came from State, which drove from the Duquesne four, but couldn't get any further.

State made eighteen first downs and allowed the Duke's only three.

The lineups:

Duquesne	Pos.	Miss. State
Yacina	LE	K. Davis
Trieschak	LT	Garrett
Dieringer	LG	Williams
Sheutz	C	Ray
Brendel	RG	Hughes
Huffner	RT	Champion
Chuba	RE	Alexander
Suet	QB	Stuart
Thomas	LH	McWilliams
Kocon	RH	H. Davis
Pesci	FB	Bailey

Miss. State	0	0	13	21	—34

Mississippi State scoring—Touchdowns: McWilliams 2. K. Davis, Jones (for McWilliams) Odom (for K. Davis). Points after touchdown, Stainbrook (for McWilliams) 4.

Substitutions: Duquesne, ends, Delonga, Karrs, Stainbrook, Squires; tackles, Fay, Triescpack, Huffner, Abraham, Belesky, Caswell; guards, Fitz, Gozur, Luke; center, Courture, Zaney; backs, Sundry, Arkelian, Tutsie, Platukkih, Pesci, Toman, Clamp, Bokowski, Fottler.

THEY'LL LEAD CHEERS FOR OUACHITA

Tag Team Scramble Will Feature Kallio's Wrestling Show Tuesday

The current favorites at Gus Kallio's Arena, Jack Curtis and George Craig, the "big" champ and the "little" champ respectively, pool their ring talents against a pair of rugged invaders, Prince Omar of Persia and Chico Ordis of Hiwaii, in a tag team brawl here Tuesday night, Promoter Kallio said yesterday.

Curtis, would's light heavyweight titlist, and Craig, holder of the Louisiana state light-heavy belt, will meet Omar and Ordis over a 90-minute time limit distance with two falls to win. Anticipating another big turn out of customers, Promoter Kallio said the advanced sale of tickets would begin tomorrow morning.

Prince Omar's best boast is that he "gets his man" in a hurry, and he displayed his speedy style in one match here already. But Ordis will be coming to Monroe for the first time with the boast that he's going to unveil the Hawaiian style of tag battling.

Whatever the style employed by Ordis is, remains to be shown, but a check on the boy from the islands reveals the customers can be looking for a bruiser of about the same type as Carlos Rodriquez, burly Mexican who has been showing here recently. Rodriquez is tough, so Ordis can be expected to be a rough customer also.

But Curtis and Craig seem to hold no fears. Told of Ordis' boasts, Curtis, laughing to Promoter Kallio declared, "What are they trying to do scare us poor southern boys?"

"It makes me feel a bit shaky, but bring him on. I'm going to have a good partner with Craig, and will see how they like Mississippi style."

Then Craig got in his blast: "What do I care where they come from and what style they use. Personally, I use the Oklahoma portable style in which I shift from one system to another as the occasion demands."

Two one-fall matches, serving as introductory bouts for the main event talent, will open the show at 8 o'clock.

S. M. U. FOLLOWS SOPHOMORE ACE PASS RICE OWLS

Doak Walker Leads Unbeaten Mustangs To 14-0 Win Over Rivals

DALLAS, Oct. 18. —(AP)— Southern Methodist whipped Rice decisively, 14-0 today to remain among the nation's unbeaten, untied teams and to exalt Doak Walker as the greatest all-around back ever to play for the Methodists.

A crowd of 22,503 roared approval at the amazing feats of the fiery sophomore who now has run virtually at will over four straight teams.

Walker led an 80-yard surge in the first period for the initial Methodist touchdown, scoring it himself on a dash around end, and getting off a long run that led eventually to the second. He also kicked two points after touchdown, narrowly missed a field goal from the Owl 15-yard line and intercepted two Rice passes that were labeled "touchdown."

Walker carried the ball 12 times for 87 yards as the leading groundgainer and he completed four of five passes for 33 yards, but his ball-handling and generalship were as important as his individual offensive efforts.

Rice never was in the game and but for some S. M. U. fumbling would have been beaten by a more decisive score. The Owls, pre-season favorites for the Southwest Conference championship never had a chance with the spirited Mustangs and Walker.

Southern Methodist, known as a passing team, stayed on the ground most of the game, ripping through the Owl line for 236 yards. Rice, known as a running team, tried 23 passes for 121 yards, just 31 yards less than it made rushing.

The only Rice running threat was George Walmsley, who carried 10 times for 67 yards, but Walmsley had trouble holding the ball, and it was his fumble in the second period that gave the Mustangs the ball on the Owl 36 from where they passed for a score.

The Methodist second - stringers drove 77 yards through the weary Owls in the fourth period to add further to the Rice Humiliation. The Owls did have enough left, however, to stop four jabs inside the eight-yard line and take over.

The nearest Rice ever got to the S. M. U. goal line was the 15-yard stripe and walker intercepted a pass to halt this threat.

The next touchdown came after Walker and Dick McKissack had ripped to the Rice 37 only to be halted by a clipping penalty. Ed Green kicked outside on the Rice 13. Walmsley made 16 at right end but fumbled on the next try and Walt Roberts recovered on the Rice 36. Gil Johnson passed to Raleigh Blakely for nine and to Dick Reinking for a touchdown.

KENTUCKY SINKS VANDERBILT, 14-0

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Kentucky's Wildcats had their backs up and their 'T' formation functioning to perfection today to defeat the hitherto unbeaten Vanderbilt Commodores 14 to 0 in a Southeastern Conference contest witnessed by 22,500 in Dudley Field stadium.

Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant's swift-striking T-model system, newly installed this year at Kentucky, completely smother Coach Red Sanders' orthodox singles wing which up to today had carried the Commodores to three straight victories.

The resurgence of the Wildcats was a continuation of their smooth performance of last Saturday night when they whipped Georgia 26 to 0. Kentucky and Vanderbilt now have two wins and one loss apiece in conference competition.

Kentucky gained almost at will through and around the Vanderbilt line which appeared sluggish today in contrast to its previous performances this season.

Kentucky piled up 19 first downs to Vanderbilt's 8. The Wildcats scored in the first seven minutes of the initial quarter after getting the ball on the Vanderbilt 13 on a pass interference ruling. Jack Farris, Kentucky's leading ground gainer, made nine yards and Fullback Moseley made it first down on the one yard stripe Quarterback George Blanda carried it over and then kicked goal to make the score 7 to 0.

MINIATURE RACERS PREPARE FOR MEET

The Model Hobby Association here has launched plans for its second annual miniature auto speedway classic which will be held November 11 at the Lakeside Country club track, and the local owners will have their little cars out for test runs this afternoon between 2 and 5 o'clock.

The event at Lakeside will be the last for that track since the old Lakeside Country Club property is to be broken up into a residential subdivision, and the miniature raers will take their races to the Bernstein Hobby Center hereafter. The Hobby Center is in the process of building.

Reservations are already coming in from out-of-state miniature auto enthusiasts, and the hobby leaders here are expecting an even bigger show than they had last New Year's.

The trophies to be offered at the Armistice Day event will be placed on display at Sears department store here Thursday and remain there for a week, it was announced last night.

ZALE-GRAZIANO BATTLE FAILS TO WIN SUPPORT

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Miami Boxing Commission today turned official thumbs down on a Tony Zale-Rock Graziano bout here in the Orange Bowl Feb. 12.

Billy Regan, chairman of the commission, said following an executive meeting that the commission "will not sanction a Zale and Graziano fight within its jurisdictional limits under any circumstnces."

States bitterly, accusing that country of trying to dictate to the French government.

He obviously referred to Sen. Styles Bridges, Republican, New Hampshire, chairman of the U. S. Senate's appropriations committee, who told a news conference here yesterday that the French government "must be strong in dealing with strikes inspired by Communists" if it wanted "help."

"More and more the government is submitting to the orders of international finance represented by the reactionary American government," Henaff declared.

"People come here today to try to dictate to the French government a social, economic and financial policy which is not inspired by the needs of France but by those of large capital," the labor leader continued.

Henaff, referred to "a certain American senator passing through France" who "advises our government to take more firm measures against the strikers." And declared "we fought to free our country from the Boches," and "never will we admit the dictatorship of another nation."

Strikers beat up a subway watchman last night, and workers charged with guarding a power station walked away, leaving the doors open. More nails were found on Paris streets where government trucks are carrying civilian passengers.

Orders to double pickets around subway and bus terminals, heavily guarded by police, were issued to the strikers by their leaders today.

Despite a vote to return to work by about 10 per cent of the striking bus and subway employes, the subway did not run a single train yesterday. Four bus lines which had resumed service Wednesday and yesterday halted again in view of what the French news agency called the "hostile attitude of the strikers."

happened and as to what may happen," the wartime chief of staff said comparing American Revolutionary days to the current struggles of the U. N.

Austin, permanent U. S. delegate to the U. N. said "nothing else will be available to keep the peace" if the U. N. fails.

"If we realized what has already been set up in two years to carry out the principles of human rights and fundamental freedom, there is no need to be discouraged," Austin declared.

"The outlook is bright that men and women of our times will not flinch at the challenge," Austin said. "We are moving forward all the time to remove the causes. If it cannot be carried out through the security council, it will be carried out through the general assembly."

Lafayette President Dr. Ralph C. Hutchinson commended Marshall for his "new campaign for human freedom in the world of political enslavement."

"We honor the consecration of your great abilities to the greatest cause of international history," Dr. Hutchinson said of Marshall.

New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Cotton futures trading was moderately active today with the market strong. There was a lack of hedging with most of the contract supplied by profit taking for over the week-end. Trade dealers were aggressive buyers, covering requirements for textile mills and sales to the CCC. Recently the CCC purchased 115,000 bales of cotton for export to Japan. It was estimated by merchants that so far this week dealers covered about 65,000 bales of cotton sold to the CCC.

Futures closed 95 cents to $1.35 a bale higher than the previous close.

OUACHITA, FAIR PARK PRIME FOR 'AA' SCRAP

LIONS FAVORED TO TAKE CROWN IF INDIANS FALL

Game Thursday Will Be Last Scheduled Tilt At Home For O. P. H. S.

Riding high as the favored team right now in the north Louisiana district Class AA conference chase after their 7-0 win over Haynesville's Tornado Thursday, the Ouachita Parish High School Lions tackle the Fair Park Indians of Shreveport here Thursday night in another important step in the title race.

Coach Jim Hodgins' Lions are in a good position to ice the district crown away, provided they can get past Fair Park. With a win over the Indians, O.P.H.S. would only have to beat Byrd two weeks later and that shouldn't be too hard a job if Byrd's record of six defeats so far this season means anything.

The high school football followers are rating Ouachita No. 1 right now on the strength of their Haynesville victory and the fact that the Tornado had beaten Fair Park two weeks earlier, 14 to 0.

"You can forget all about Haynesville beating Fair Park," Coach Hodgins maintained. "Personally I think Fair Park has one of the finest lines in the district and would probably beat Haynesville if they had to meet again. You can just forget all about us being the favored team, too. If we win this one it will be because we put up the hardest fight of the season.

"Fair Park knows they have to beat us to stay in the race and they will come here primed to do just that."

Lee Hodges, the same hard driving Indian halfback who led Fair Park to a 33-13 win over Ouachita last year, will be back to lead the Tribe again.

Ouachita's green line has come along fast and looked like a seasoned crew against Haynesville, and it will be such forwards as Charles Venable, Jack Smith, Buddy Clifford, Robert Kirby, James Perry, Kendall Bailey, Quinn Becker, and Tommy Wilson who'll have to clear the way for their hard running backs Thursday.

Backs E. J. Sievers, Ernest King, James Moss, and Lawson Fleming can make their way if the line gives them the necessary support.

minutes later Sonny Jones, a substitute back, scampered 29 yards behind perfect interference for another score.

The teams battled on even terms during the first period with neither able to do much through the line. All appreciable gains were made through the air or around the ends.

The only threat in the first half came from State, which drove from the Duquesne four, but couldn't get any further.

State made eighteen first downs and allowed the Duke's only three.

The lineups:

Duquesne	Pos.	Miss. State
Yacina	LE	K. Davis
Trieschak	LT	Garrett
Dieringer	LG	Williams
Sheutz	C	Ray
Brendel	RG	Hughes
Huffner	RT	Champion

Kocon	RH	H. Davis

Miss. State	0	0	13	21	34

Substitutions: Duquesne, ends, Delonga, Karrs, Stainbrook, Squires; tackles, Fay, Triescpack, Huffner, Abraham, Belesky, Caswell; guards, Fitz, Gozur, Luke; center, Courture, Zaney; backs, Sundry, Arkelian, Tutsie, Platukkih, Pesci, Toman, Clamp, Bokowski, Fottler.

The current favorites at Gus Kallio's Arena, Jack Curtis and George Craig, the "big" champ and the "little" champ respectively, pool their ring talents against a pair of rugged invaders, Prince Omar of Persia and Chico Ordis of Hiwaii, in a tag team brawl here Tuesday night, Promoter Kallio said yesterday.

Curtis, would's light heavyweight titlist, and Craig, holder of the Louisiana state light-heavy belt, will meet Omar and Ordis over a 90-minute time limit distance with two falls to win. Anticipating another big turn out of customers, Promoter Kallio said the advanced sale of tickets would begin tomorrow morning.

Prince Omar's best boast is that he "gets his man" in a hurry, and he displayed his speedy style in one match here already. But Ordis will be coming to Monroe for the first time with the boast that he's going to unveil the Hawaiian style of tag battling.

Whatever the style employed by Ordis is, remains to be shown, but a check on the boy from the islands reveals the customers can be looking for a bruiser of about the same type as Carlos Rodriquez, burly Mexican who has been showing here recently. Rodriquez is tough, so Ordis can be expected to be a rough customer also.

But Curtis and Craig seem to hold no fears. Told of Ordis' boasts, Curtis, laughing to Promoter Kallio declared, "What are they trying to do scare us poor southern boys?"

"It makes me feel a bit shaky, but bring him on. I'm going to have a good partner with Craig, and will see how they like Mississippi style."

Then Craig got in his blast: "What do I care where they come from and what style they use. Personally, I use the Oklahoma portable style in which I shift from one system to another as the occasion demands."

Two one-fall matches, serving as introductory bouts for the main event talent, will open the show at 8 o'clock.

S. M. U. FOLLOWS SOPHOMORE ACE PASS RICE OWLS

Doak Walker Leads Unbeaten Mustangs To 14-0 Win Over Rivals

DALLAS, Oct. 18.—(AP)— Southern Methodist whipped Rice decisively, 14-0 today to remain among the nation's unbeaten, untied teams and to exalt Doak Walker as the greatest all-around back ever to play for the Methodists.

A crowd of 22,503 roared approval at the amazing feats of the fiery sophomore who now has run virtually at will over four straight teams.

Walker led an 80-yard surge in the first period for the initial Methodist touchdown, scoring it himself on a dash around end, and getting off a long run that led eventually to the second. He also kicked two points after touchdown, narrowly missed a field goal from the Owl 15-yard line and intercepted two Rice passes that were labeled "touchdown."

Walker carried the ball 12 times for 87 yards as the leading groundgainer and he completed four of five passes for 33 yards, but his ballhandling and generalship were as important as his individual offensive efforts.

Rice never was in the game and but for some S. M. U. fumbling would have been beaten by a more decisive score. The Owls, pre-season favorites for the Southwest Conference championship never had a chance with the spirited Mustangs and Walker.

Southern Methodist, known as a passing team, stayed on the ground most of the game, ripping through the Owl line for 236 yards. Rice, known as a running team, tried 23 passes for 121 yards, just 31 yards less than it made rushing.

The only Rice running threat was George Walmsley, who carried 10 times for 67 yards, but Walmsley had trouble holding the ball, and it was his fumble in the second period that gave the Mustangs the ball on the Owl 36 from where they passed for a score.

The Methodist second - stringers drove 77 yards through the weary Owls in the fourth period to add further to the Rice Humiliation. The Owls did have enough left, however, to stop four jabs inside the eight-yard line and take over.

The nearest Rice ever got to the S. M. U. goal line was the 15-yard stripe and walker intercepted a pass to halt this threat.

The next touchdown came after Walker and Dick McKissack had ripped to the Rice 37 only to be halted by a clipping penalty. Ed Green kicked outside on the Rice 13. Walmsley made 16 at right end but fumbled on the next try and Walt Roberts recovered on the Rice 36. Gil Johnson passed to Raleigh Blakely for nine and to Dick Reinking for a touchdown.

KENTUCKY SINKS VANDERBILT, 14-0

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Kentucky's Wildcats had their backs up and their 'T' formation functioning to perfection today to defeat the hitherto unbeaten Vanderbilt Commodores 14 to 0 in a Southeastern Conference contest witnessed by 22,500 in Dudley Field stadium.

Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant's swift-striking T-model system, newly installed this year at Kentucky, completely smother Coach Red Sanders' orthodox singles wing which up to today had carried the Commodores to three straight victories.

The resurgence of the Wildcats was a continuation of their smooth performance of last Saturday night when they whipped Georgia 26 to 0. Kentucky and Vanderbilt now have two wins and one loss apiece in conference competition.

Kentucky gained almost at will through and around the Vanderbilt line which appeared sluggish today in contrast to its previous performances this season.

Kentucky piled up 19 first downs to Vanderbilt's 8. The Wildcats scored in the first seven minutes of the initial quarter after getting the ball on the Vanderbilt 13 on a pass interference ruling. Jack Farris, Kentucky's leading ground gainer, made nine yards and Fullback Moseley made it first down on the one yard stripe Quarterback George Blanda carried it over and then kicked goal to make the score 7 to 0.

MINIATURE RACERS PREPARE FOR MEET

The Model Hobby Association here has launched plans for its second annual miniature auto speedway classic which will be held November 11 at the Lakeside Country club track, and the local owners will have their little cars out for test runs this afternoon between 2 and 5 o'clock.

The event at Lakeside will be the last for that track since the old Lakeside Country Club property is to be broken up into a residential subdivision, and the miniature raers will take their races to the Bernstein Hobby Center hereafter. The Hobby Center is in the process of building.

Reservations are already coming in from out-of-state miniature auto enthusiasts, and the hobby leaders here are expecting an even bigger show than they had last New Year's.

The trophies to be offered at the Armistice Day event will be placed on display at Sears department store here Thursday and remain there for a week, it was announced last night.

ZALE-GRAZIANO BATTLE FAILS TO WIN SUPPORT

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Miami Boxing Commission today turned official thumbs down on a Tony Zale-Rock Graziano bout here in the Orange Bowl Feb. 12.

Billy Regan, chairman of the commission, said following an executive meeting that the commission "will not sanction a Zale and Graziano fight within its jurisdictional limits under any circumstnces."

States bitterly, accusing that country of trying to dictate to the French government.

He obviously referred to Sen. Styles Bridges, Republican, New Hampshire, chairman of the U. S. Senate's appropriations committee, who told a news conference here yesterday that the French government "must be strong in dealing with strikes inspired by Communists" if it wanted "help."

"More and more the government is submitting to the orders of international finance represented by the reactionary American government," Henaff declared.

"People come here today to try to dictate to the French government a social, economic and financial policy which is not inspired by the needs of France but by those of large capital," the labor leader continued.

Henaff, referred to "a certain American senator passing through France" who "advises our government to take more firm measures against the strikers." And declared "we fought to free our country from the Boches," and "never will we admit the dictatorship of another nation."

Strikers beat up a subway watchman last night, and workers charged with guarding a power station walked away, leaving the doors open. More nails were found on Paris streets where government trucks are carrying civilian passengers.

Orders to double pickets around subway and bus terminals, heavily guarded by police, were issued to the strikers by their leaders today.

Despite a vote to return to work by about 10 per cent of the striking bus and subway employes, the subway did not run a single train yesterday. Four bus lines which had resumed service Wednesday and yesterday halted again in view of what the French news agency called the "hostile attitude of the strikers."

happened and as to what may happen," the wartime chief of staff said comparing American Revolutionary days to the current struggles of the U. N.

Austin, permanent U. S. delegate to the U. N. said "nothing else will be available to keep the peace" if the U. N. fails.

"If we realized what has already been set up in two years to carry out the principles of human rights and fundamental freedom, there is no need to be discouraged," Austin declared.

"The outlook is bright that men and women of our times will not flinch at the challenge," Austin said. "We are moving forward all the time to remove the causes. If it cannot be carried out through the security council, it will be carried out through the general assembly."

Lafayette President Dr. Ralph C. Hutchinson commended Marshall for his "new campaign for human freedom in the world of political enslavement."

"We honor the consecration of your great abilities to the greatest cause of international history," Dr. Hutchinson said of Marshall.

New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Cotton futures trading was moderately active today with the market strong. There was a lack of hedging with most of the contracts being supplied by profit taking for the over the week-end. Trade dealers were aggressive buyers, covering requirements for textile mills and sales to the CCC. Recently the CCC purchased 115,000 bales of cotton for export to Japan. It was estimated by merchants that so far this week dealers covered about 65,000 bales of cotton sold to the CCC.

Futures closed 95 cents to $1.35 a bale higher than the previous close.

4 NEW PRODUCERS REPORTED IN ORA

A. K. Kilpatrick Futch No. 1 Abandoned; 13 New Locations Made

Ora field in Union parish chalked up four new producers during the past week, making a total of 53 successes since the discovery a little less than five months ago.

Included in the weekly report of the Monroe district conservation office were completion of Haroldson L. Hunt, Jr.'s Compton Unit No. 2 in section 3-21-1W, gauged at a rate of 292 barrels daily from 2,132-49 feet; Marine Oil Company's S. L. Smith No. 1, tested at 345 barrels a day through a 20/64-inch choke from 2145-55 feet; Shell Oil Company's Frost Lumber Industries' No. A-10, gauged at 231 barrels daily through a 17/64-inch choke from 2127-50 feet; and the same company's No. A-23, pumped at 178 barrels a day from 2123-44 feet.

The only abandonment in the area was the A. K. Kilpatrick Futch No. 1 in section 18-21-1W, southwest of the Ora field, plugged at 3210 feet. Sidewall cores taken at intervals below 2100 feet produced oil sands that were completely dry.

Thirteen new locations have been made in the Ora field during the past week, according to the conservation department report.

Three of them are the H. L. Hunt, Jr., P. L. Williams No. 1, 2, and 3, all in section 34-22-1W. The Lion Oil Company has applied for permits for the Ballard No. 5 in section 27-22-1W, and the Farrar No. 7 and 8 in 34-22-1W. Two by the Marine Oil Company are for its S. L. Smith No. 5 and 6 in 34-22-1W.

The Guy Mabee Drilling Company has asked a permit for its S. L. Smith No. 1 in 34-22-1W; C H Murphy, Jr.. for the Arvis No. 1 in section 14-22-1W; the Plunkett and Sklar Co. for the Farmerville Mercantile Co. No. A-1 in section 26-22-1W; and the Shell Oil Company for the Frost Lumber Industries No. D-2 and P. F. Tucker No. 3, both in 34-22-1W.

Ten and three-quarter inch casing has been set at the Lion Company's Farrar No. 7 and 8, both at 101 feet. Total depth for the former is given as 1910 feet and for the latter as 1200 feet.

Among the week's completions in the district was the American Liberty Oil Company's J. B. Nye No. 2 in section 12-16-8E in the Franklin parish wildcat field at the south edge of the Delhi field. Perforated at 3,620-25 feet, it was gauged at a daily flow of 97 barrels. The location is an offset of the same company's J. E. Holt No. 1, a dry hole drilled in January, 1945.

In the Catahoula parish wildcat field, the General American Oil Co. abandoned its Sam Calvert Fee No. 1, in section 35-7-6E, at a total depth of 9,607 feet.

In LaSalle parish, the M. E. Waldron Company's Urania Lumber Company No. 6, in section 19-10-2E, was completed as a pumper with a daily rate of 40 barrels daily from 1560-65 feet.

The Peterson Petroleum Company's Maude E. Wooten, in section 25-15-5E of Richland parish was reported abandoned at a total depth of 4,005 feet.

Other locations in the district are the Louisiana Gas Producing Company's Etta S. Rabun No. 1 and 2, in section 4-19-3E, and the Southern Carbon Company's Union Producing Company No. 9, in section 25-22-3E and the Turner No. 1 in section 15-22-3E, all in Union parish.

WHOLESALE PRICES HIT RECORD PEAK

Week-End Boosts In Bread Prices Reported; Shoes Join Price Spiral

(By Associated Press)

Wholesale commodities established a new record price peak Saturday as an increasing number of cities announced weekend boosts in the price of bread.

For the fourth consecutive day, the Associated Press composite price of 35 wholesale commodities broke previous all-time records. The index touched 196.93 compared with 196.92 on Friday and 100 during the base year 1926.

Meanwhile, the International Shoe company of St. Louis, one of the world's largest footwear manufacturers, announced wholesale price increases ranging from 35 to 95 cents a pair. The increase is expected to reach the retail level about Jan. 1.

Bakers attributed the bread price rise to higher flour prices and "three dollars a bushel wheat," while the International Shoe company said higher costs of raw materials from which leather is made necessitated the increase.

Individual commodities advancing included rubber, butter, oats, rye and cotton. Coffee, flour and corn declined.

Three dollar December wheat was back on the Chicago Board of Trade for the third time in a week. The cereal closed 1 1/2 to 5 1/2 cents a bushel higher, December $3.00 to $3.00 1/4. Corn was 1/4 to 3/4 higher, December $2.32 1/4-1/2, and oats were 1/4 to 1 1/4 higher, December $1.20 to $1.19 7/8.

All livestock prices were steady at the Chicago stockyards.

The present geologic era is estimated to have extended over a time period of 50 million years.

A. K. Kilpatrick Futch No. 1 Abandoned; 13 New Locations Made

Ora field in Union parish chalked up four new producers during the past week, making a total of 53 successes since the discovery a little less than five months ago.

Included in the weekly report of the Monroe district conservation office were completion of Haroldson L. Hunt, Jr.'s Compton Unit No. 2 in section 3-21-1W, gauged at a rate of 292 barrels daily from 2,132-49 feet; Marine Oil Company's S. L. Smith No. 1, tested at 345 barrels a day through a 20/64-inch choke from 2145-55 feet; Shell Oil Company's Frost Lumber Industries' No. A-10, gauged at 231 barrels daily through a 17/64-inch choke from 2127-50 feet; and the same company's No. A-23, pumped at 178 barrels a day from 2123-44 feet.

The only abandonment in the area was the A. K. Kilpatrick Futch No. 1 in section 18-21-1W, southwest of the Ora field, plugged at 3210 feet. Sidewall cores taken at intervals below 2100 feet produced oil sands that were completely dry.

Thirteen new locations have been made in the Ora field during the past week, according to the conservation department report.

Three of them are the H. L. Hunt, Jr., P. L. Williams No. 1, 2, and 3, all in section 34-22-1W. The Lion Oil Company has applied for permits for the Ballard No. 5 in section 27-22-1W, and the Farrar No. 7 and 8 in 34-22-1W. Two by the Marine Oil Company are for its S. L. Smith No. 5 and 6 in 34-22-1W.

The Guy Mabee Drilling Company has asked a permit for its S. L. Smith No. 1 in 34-22-1W; C. H Murphy, Jr., for the Arvis No. 1 in section 14-22-1W; the Plunkett and Sklar Co. for the Farmerville Mercantile Co. No. A-1 in section 26-22-1W; and the Shell Oil Company for the Frost Lumber Industries No. D-2 and P. F. Tucker No. 3, both in 34-22-1W.

Ten and three-quarter inch casing has been set at the Lion Company's Farrar No. 7 and 8, both at 101 feet. Total depth for the former is given as 1910 feet and for the latter as 1200 feet.

Among the week's completions in the district was the American Liberty Oil Company's J. B. Nye No. 2 in section 12-16-8E in the Franklin parish wildcat field at the south edge of the Delhi field. Perforated at 3,620-25 feet, it was gauged at a daily flow of 97 barrels. The location is an offset of the same company's J. E. Holt No. 1, a dry hole drilled in January, 1945.

In the Catahoula parish wildcat field, the General American Oil Co. abandoned its Sam Calvert Fee No. 1, in section 35-7-6E, at a total depth of 9,607 feet.

In LaSalle parish, the M. E. Waldron Company's Urania Lumber Company No. 6, in section 19-10-2E, was completed as a pumper with a daily rate of 40 barrels daily from 1560-65 feet.

The Peterson Petroleum Company's Maude E. Wooten, in section 25-15-5E of Richland parish was reported abandoned at a total depth of 4,005 feet.

Other locations in the district are the Louisiana Gas Producing Company's Etta S. Rabun No. 1 and 2, in section 4-19-3E, and the Southern Carbon Company's Union Producing Company No. 9, in section 25-22-3E and the Turner No. 1 in section 15-22-3E, all in Union parish.

In LaSalle parish, the M. E. Waldron Company's Urania Lumber Company No. 5, in section 19-20-2E; in Richland parish the George B. Franklin Company's Chess and Wymond Co. No. 1 in section 19-18-6E, and in Franklin parish, the Sohio Petroleum Company's Atlas Oil Corporation-Chicago Mill and Lumber Co. No. A-3 in section 34-14-9E.

Total locations for the week, 45; total drillings, 65; total inactive, 11, and total permits expired, 8.

WHOLESALE PRICES HIT RECORD PEAK

Week-End Boosts In Bread Prices Reported; Shoes Join Price Spiral

(By Associated Press)

Wholesale commodities established a new record price peak Saturday as an increasing number of cities announced weekend boosts in the price of bread.

For the fourth consecutive day, the Associated Press composite price of 35 wholesale commodities broke previous all-time records. The index touched 196.93 compared with 196.92 on Friday and 100 during the base year 1926.

Meanwhile, the International Shoe company of St. Louis, one of the world's largest footwear manufacturers, announced wholesale price increases ranging from 35 to 95 cents a pair. The increase is expected to reach the retail level about Jan. 1.

Bakers attributed the bread price rise to higher flour prices and "three dollars a bushel wheat," while the International Shoe company said higher costs of raw materials from which leather is made necessitated the increase.

Individual commodities advancing included rubber, butter, oats, rye and cotton. Coffee, flour and corn declined.

Three dollar December wheat was back on the Chicago Board of Trade for the third time in a week. The cereal closed 1 1/2 to 5 1/2 cents a bushel higher, December $3.00 to $3.00 1/4. Corn was 1/4 to 3/4 higher, December $2.32 1/4-1/2, and oats were 1/4 to 1 1/4 higher, December $1.20 to $1.19 7/8.

All livestock prices were steady at the Chicago stockyards.

The present geologic era is estimated to have extended over a time period of 50 million years.

D. A. R. Tea Is Distinctive Affair

Fort Miro Chapter D. A. R. Hostess At Brilliant Tea At Layton Place

For sentimental reasons, members of Fort Miro chapter Daughters of the American Revolution entertained complimentary to their new members with a tea, on the fifty-seventh anniversary of the founding of the National Society of the D. A. R.

The tea, one of the most brilliant events in the history of Fort Miro chapter, took place in the historic ante-bellum home of the Robert Laytons. The atmosphere of other days still lingers in the high ceilinged rooms, furnished in rosewood and mahogany, relics of the past glory of the old South. Paintings by Audobon, presented by the artist in appreciation for courtesies extended when he was a guest at Layton Place during the lifetime of Mr. Robert Layton's parents, are among the priceless possessions this home abounds in.

The handsome drawing room with its wrought iron balcony overlooking the gardens, needed only the placement of the pink asters and pink lilies in classic shaped urns to make the picture perfect. The hostesses on this occasion, Mrs. Ross Lawrence, Mrs. Travis Oliver, Jr., Mrs. H. W. McSherry and Mrs. George Snellings, Jr., all in lovely evening attire, stood in the drawing room to receive. Mrs. Lawrence wore aqua chiffon, Mrs. Oliver wore azure blue crepe, Mrs. Snellings wore black velvet and Mrs. McSherry wore a scarlet crepe model.

Others, beautifully gowned and extending courtesies, were Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Mrs. Jase Johnson, Mrs. Frank Stubbs, Mrs. Guy Stubbs, Mrs. Joseph Renwick, Mrs. Charles Mitchell.

Invitations to this distinctive affair were issued to:

Mrs. Charles C. Clay, Miss Mary Clay, Miss Ina Merle Thomas, Miss Alice Harrington, Mrs. C. E. McKenzie, Mrs. Harold Mouk, Mrs. W. M. "SHOPPING THE TOWN" WITH Camille

R STANDS FOR ROMANCE, but it also stands for R & A, the jewelry shop where I continually encounter romantic couples gazing at diamond engagement rings and gold wedding rings. The bride-to-be always gazes wistfully at the romantic antique jewelry and wishes in her heart for such a gift on her wedding day. D. A. R. Tea Is Distinctive Affair

Fort Miro Chapter D. A. R. Hostess At Brilliant Tea At Layton Place

For sentimental reasons, members of Fort Miro chapter Daughters of the American Revolution entertained complimentary to their new members with a tea, on the fifty-seventh anniversary of the founding of the National Society of the D. A. R.

The tea, one of the most brilliant events in the history of Fort Miro chapter, took place in the historic ante-bellum home of the Robert Laytons. The atmosphere of other days still lingers in the high ceilinged rooms, furnished in rosewood and mahogany, relics of the past glory of the old South. Paintings by Audobon, presented by the artist in appreciation for courtesies extended when he was a guest at Layton Place during the lifetime of Mr. Robert Layton's parents, are among the priceless possessions this home abounds in.

The handsome drawing room with its wrought iron balcony overlooking the gardens, needed only the placement of the pink asters and pink lilies in classic shaped urns to make the picture perfect. The hostesses on this occasion, Mrs. Ross Lawrence, Mrs. Travis Oliver, Jr., Mrs. H. W. McSherry and Mrs. George Snellings, Jr., all in lovely evening attire, stood in the drawing room to receive. Mrs. Lawrence wore aqua chiffon, Mrs. Oliver wore azure blue crepe, Mrs. Snellings wore black velvet and Mrs. McSherry wore a scarlet crepe model.

Mrs. James Conway Liner, Fort Miro regent, extended greetings to the three hundred or more guests who called during the receiving hours.

Others, beautifully gowned and extending courtesies, were Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Mrs. Jase Johnson, Mrs. Frank Stubbs, Mrs. Guy Stubbs, Mrs. Joseph Renwick, Mrs. Charles Mitchell.

In the dining room Mrs. James R. Wooten, in black lace model, presided over the handsome silver punch bowl placed at one end of the beautifully appointed refreshment table. An immense oval plaque of pink rosebuds formed the decorative central floral note. Silver trays held luscious confections including pastries and small cakes embossed in pink. Pink mints embossed with the letters D. A. R., were also served. Hot Russian tea was served from handsome antique silver urns.

Invitations to this distinctive affair were issued to:

Miss Handy Is October Bride

Wedding Of Miss Byrnie Handy And Dr. W. E. Smith Is A Prominent Event

Charming simplicity characterized the wedding of Miss Byrnie Handy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Handy and Dr. W. E. Smith, son of Mrs. W. E. Smith and the late Dr. Smith at the First Methodist Church, Saturday evening, October 11, at seven-thirty o'clock.

The ceremony was impressively performed by the pastor, Dr. A. M. Serex in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives who filled to capacity the generous environs of the church where the bride's paternal grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Jonn Sterling Handy worshipped. Mr. Handy was one of the builders of this church and one of the most ardent supporters during his lifetime. The bride has attended this church since infancy.

The organist, Mr. Leon Hammond, rendered a prenuptial concert and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Thomas Bryan ugh III who sang in beautiful voice "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "Because." During the benediction she sang "The Lord's Prayer." Throughout the ceremony Mr. Hammond rendered "Evening Star" from Wagner's "Tannhauser."

The gowns worn by the bride's attendants were most distinctive. The maid of honor, Miss Mary Edith Breard, wore a gold colored taffeta model fashioned with tight fitting basque with off-the-shoulder neckline edged with a deep bertha. The skirt was long and full with a sash forming a bustle in the back. She wore a bandeau of gold taffeta entwined in pearls and carried a crescent shaped bouquet of bronze chrysanthmums tied with gold ribbons. Elbow length gloves of self material were worn.

The maids, Miss Betsy Buchanan, Miss Barbara Faulk, Miss Gene Flournoy, Miss Alice Brauer and Mrs. Fred Peck wore lime green taffeta gowns, exact replicas of the one worn by the maid of honor. They all carried crescent shaped bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums tied with yellow ribbons.

The flower girls, Adair Richardson, neice of the bridegroom and Janelle Jones, cousin of the bride, wore lovely little French gowns of white net with tight basques, off-the-shoulder necklines and bouffant, floor length skirts. They wore bands of white tulle entwined with pearls in their hair and carried French baskets filled with rose petals.

The ring bearer, cousin of the bride, was Bradley Thach. He wore a black velvet suit with short trousers and eton jacket. He carried the rings on a white satin pillow adorned with a nosegay of miniature yellow chrysanthemums.

The groomsmen, in evening attire, de rigeuer of a formal wedding, and with white boutonnieres of white chrysanthemums, were Messrs. Jack Noble, Haynes Harkey, William Bray, Beverly Handy, Jr., and Major Fred Peck. The best man was Mr. E. S. Richardson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was the traditional bride in white Duchess satin wedding gown, featuring a high neckline, long tight fitting sleeves buttoned at the wrists with small buttons of self material. The long basque draped at the hipline, polonaire style, extended into a divided sash. The skirt, bustle effect, was quite bouffant and extended into a long court train.

Imported Veil

The beautiful imported lace veil, of finger-top length, was caught to the hair with a chaplet of orange blossoms. The bride carried the ivory prayer book her maternal grandmother carried on her wedding day. It was surmounted with a spray of orchids and valley lilies. Courting good luck, the bride placed a sixpence in her slipper and like all brides today, wore "something borrowed and something blue."

Her gift from the groom, a strand of exquisite pearls, were worn.

The bride-groom's mother wore a beautiful model of azure blue crepe with long skirt, gracefully draped. She wore gold slippers and elbow length gold colored gloves. She also wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

The reception at the home of the bride's parents on Riverside attracted throngs of guests. Sentiment held sway in the Handy home where the bride's three aunts, Mrs. R. J. Edwards, Mrs. F. J. Jones and Mrs. Bradley Waelder were married years ago. Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Waelder were both present at their neice's wedding and assisted in the courtesies extended at the reception.

The double parlors, ensuite and the spacious reception hall were adorned with shining Magnolia leaves and white chrysanthemums placed at every vantage point. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Gladys Sperry.

The bride's table in the candlelit dining room was overlaid with handsome imported lace and embroidery. Lily shaped crystal epergnes at the four corners overflowed with tube roses and at either end of the table handsome Colonial silver candelabra supported tall white tapers.

Wedding Cake On Mirror

The wedding cake a beautifully embossed, heart-shaped confection, was placed on an oval reflector on high silver base, in the center of the table. Toasts to the bride and groom were drunk in champagne. Individual wedding cakes on silver trays were passed among the guests.

Throughout the receiving hours a colored orchestra rendered beautiful music.

The bride changed her wedding gown for a smart tailleur of Hunter's green wool gabardine trimmed in gold buttons. She wore a becoming hat of cocoa brown felt trimmed in green cogue feathers. Her accessories were all brown and her corsage was of orchids.

Following a honeymoon in New Orleans and on the gulf coast Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home at the country home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Bradley Waelder.

The bride graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and Louisiana State University. She recently completed an extra year in the graduate school of social welfare at L. S. Miss Handy Is October Bride

Wedding Of Miss Byrnie Handy And Dr. W. E. Smith Is A Prominent Event

Charming simplicity characterized the wedding of Miss Byrnie Handy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Handy and Dr. W. E. Smith, son of Mrs. W. E. Smith and the late Dr. Smith at the First Methodist Church, Saturday evening, October 11, at seven-thirty o'clock.

The ceremony was impressively performed by the pastor, Dr. A. M. Serex in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives who filled to capacity the generous environs of the church where the bride's paternal grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. John Sterling Handy worshipped. Mr. Handy was one of the builders of this church and one of the most ardent supporters during his lifetime. The bride has attended this church since infancy.

Southern smilax played an important part in the decorations of the altar and chancel rail. Graceful lengths of smilax festooned the background and formed a solid hedge along the chancel rail.

Giant white chrysanthemums overflowed from tall wrought iron urns in the rear of the altar where they were interspersed with floor candelabra of graduated lengths supporting myriad cathedral tapers.

The organist, Mr. Leon Hammond, rendered a prenuptial concert and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Thomas Bryan Pugh III who sang in beautiful voice "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "Because." During the benediction she sang "The Lord's Prayer." Throughout the ceremony Mr. Hammond rendered "Evening Star" from Wagner's "Tannhauser."

The gowns worn by the bride's attendants were most distinctive. The maid of honor, Miss Mary Edith Breard, wore a gold colored taffeta model fashioned with tight fitting basque with off-the-shoulder neckline edged with a deep bertha. The ring bearer, cousin of the bride, was Bradley Thach. He wore a black velvet suit with short trousers and eton jacket. He carried the rings on a white satin pillow adorned with a nosegay of miniature yellow chrysanthemums.

The groomsmen, in evening attire, de rigeuer of a formal wedding, and with white boutonnieres of white chrysanthemums, were Messrs. Jack Noble, Haynes Harkey, William Bray, Beverly Handy, Jr., and Major Fred Peck. The best man was Mr. E. S. Richardson.

MEMBERS OF MONROE GARDEN CLUB AND GUESTS HEAR A CHARMING TALK ON 'ROSES'

Mrs. Wilson Ewing, president of the Monroe Garden Club, presided over the October meeting in the Cameo Room of the Virginia Hotel and introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Mary S. Shook, of Ellisville, Miss., who delighted those present with her talk on "Roses."

The hostesses on this occasion were: Mrs. A. K. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, Mrs. B, Beasley, Mrs. Booles Breed, Miss Emma Louise Biedenharn and Mrs. E. W. Cruse.

This was an open meeting and a large and enthusiastic group of rose lovers was present to hear the lecture by Mrs. Shook, who has grown and tested hundreds of varieties of roses, is a well-known contributor to garden magazines and is a lecturer of note. Colored slides of her rose garden were used to illustrate her remarks.

Mrs. Shook's lecture was divided into four parts: What to plant, where to plant, when to plant, and how to plant.

What To Plant—A poor way to select your roses is from cataloge plates; look about you in your friends' gardens; see what grows well in your locality; start with the old tried and true friends that have stood the test of time as the Etoile de Holland. Radiance, etc., and as you become successful in growing these older, hardier roses, the newer varieties may be added to your garden. Most widely planted of all are the Hybred Teas. These are among the most important roses grown today and are much used for bedding. Radiance thrives with unbounded vigor, blooming from early summer until late in the autumn.

Where To Plant—The rose is the most adaptable of garden plants and can be used in gardens both large and small. Where only a few plants can be grown, the bush roses, including the Hybred Teas, The Polyanthas and Floribundas make delightful informal masses of color. In large gardens they can be planted to advantage in broad groups in the foreground of shrub borders. Polyanthas are much used for massed beds, for edging and for low everblooming hedges. Floribundas exhibit the highly desirable garden qualities of hardiness, compact shrubbery growth, and a long blooming period. The plants are vigorous and easy to grow, the flowers are good for cutting and the color range is beautiful. Red roses grow best in alkaline soil — yellow roses in acid soil.

When To Plant—December or January. If planted too early, the sap will begin to rise and lush growth begin before the coldest weather sets in and the plant will be weakened.

How To Plant—Beds five feet wide will provide space enough to accommodate three rows of plants. This is an ideal set-up. When wider beds are planted the problem of maintenance becomes more difficult. Since roses require considerable spraying it is a good plan to have all beds and plantings easily accessible from all sides. Several important factors are essential in planting roses. A sunny location suits them but they can be grown successfully in light shade. Morning sun is best. When the plants arrive, get them into the ground promptly. If planting must be delayed, either store them in a cool place in the package in which they arrived, or dig a trench in a protected place and cover the roots with soil. Roses enjoy the best soil they can be given, plenty of fresh air and regular feedings. Prepare the rose-bed several weeks in advance, and allow the soil to settle before the bushes are planted. Preparation need not be carried to extravagant lengths for roses will tolerate ordinary conditions, but generally they deteriorate after several seasons if the ground has not been deeply and thoroughly prepared for them. Spade bed deeply, fertilize well with superphospate, any good commercial fertilizer, mixed with peat moss and turned under sod. Pulverize with rake. Keep the plants in a pail of water to prevent the roots from dying out while the holes are being dug. Examine plants carefully; cut away all broken branches or roots. Build mound of dirt in center of each hole, place plant in this mound allowing the roots to fall naturally – firm the soil well; fill the hole with water, and allow it to soak in before replacing top soil. Mulch well with pine straw, peat moss, or a growing mulch such as Wandering Jew, etc. Several kinds of insects and diseases sometime find their way to rosebeds: Black-spot, die-back, mildew, aphids are the worst enemies. These can be controlled with the various sprays containing stomache-poison, contact insecticides and dusting powders now on the market.

Pruning roses is simply a matter of common sense. Close pruning produces compact growth and fewer but larger roses. For the finest exhibition flowers the plant may be cut almost to the ground and only one or two flowers allowed to develop on each bush. All diseased and dead wood should be cut and ungainly canes should be shortened, remembering that the more wood there is left on the plants, the more flowers will be produced, but the less perfect they will be.

THE GOOD EARTH....

Seldom people ever realize how dependent man is upon the earth upon which he treads. Yet from it came his body and all the earthly things that minister to his comfort.

Every bit of food, every ounce of water, all the clothes that he wears, the drugs and chemicals that restore his well being when he is ill, the things he constructs, the physical structure of every living thing—everything that he sees, experiences, or handles—are all products of the earth.

Throughout all civilizations people have been dependent on the soil and seasons for their survival. Through the neglect of soils empires have fallen and their fruitfulness has been destroyed.

The great forces that generate within the earth are not man-made nor are they self-generating. They come from God. "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof, the sea and they that dwell therein." Men should strive to know more about God and live closer to His creations. The main source of such knowledge is the Church.

THE GOOD EARTH....

Seldom people ever realize how dependent man is upon the earth upon which he treads. Yet from it came his body and all the earthly things that minister to his comfort.

Every bit of food, every ounce of water, all the clothes that he wears, the drugs and chemicals that restore his well being when he is ill, the things he constructs, the physical structure of every living thing—everything that he sees, experiences, or handles—are all products of the earth.

Throughout all civilizations people have been dependent on the soil and seasons for their survival. Through the neglect of soils empires have fallen and their fruitfulness has been destroyed.

The great forces that generate within the earth are not man-made nor are they self-generating. They come from God. "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof, the sea and they that dwell therein." Men should strive to know more about God and live closer to His creations. The main source of such knowledge is the Church.

ORTON GOULD AND ORCHESTRA WILL BE PRESENTED HERE BY THE JUNIOR CHARITY LEAGUE

When Morton Gould and his Columbia Recording Orchestra is heard in its American Serenade concert on October 30, at Neville High Auditorium, many music lovers will see for the first time a conductor and an orchestra whose music making they already know through their Columbia Masterworks records. Like Morton Gould's brilliant recordings, this coming American Serenade concert features popular tunes of past and present in inimitable Gould arrangements, as well as contemporary classics by such modern composers as Aaron Copland, William Schuman, George Gershwin and by Mr. Gould himself.

As in his record albums, Morton Gould appears in four capacities in the coming American Serenade concert: As composer, conductor, arranger and soloist. This is a pleasant practice that Gould has been following since the tender age of six, when is first composition, appropriately ntitled "Just Six," was published. He has been making musical head- nes ever since. As a composer he as had his works performed by practically every outstanding symphony rchestra in the country. As a con- uctor, he has presided over the New ork Philharmonic Symphony, the hiladelphia Orchestra, and other eading symphonies, in addition to his wn excellent orchestra. Audiences ill testify to the fact that, as an ar- anger, Mr. Gould has no peer in lorifying the American tune. In the oming concert, he is also being heard r the first time in many years as iano soloist of his own "Interplay," r piano and orchestra, a work writ- n for a ballet by Jerome Robbins.

One of Gould's own symphonic orks "American Salute" opens the rogram. This magnificent piece, al- eady familiar to many through its nclusion in the recently issued Co- umbia "Music of Morton Gould" lbum, is based on the old Civil War arching song, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." Other recorded fav- rites which find prominent places n the coming program are Hoagy armichael's "Stardust" from his Rendezvous" album, Mr. Gould's nchanting arrangement of "The Sur- ey With the Fringe On Top" from is "String Time" album and "Begine he Beguine" which has just been ssued as part of his newest "Morton ould Showcase" album.

Perhaps because he still remembers hildhood fist fights with the small y of his youth who had little respect r his piano lessons, Morton Gould is ppy today over America's musical owth. He says that he is made are of it each time he goes on tour, d that his present concert trek of ne forty-two cities in convincing n that the American people are ning of age, musically speaking.

He believes that "long hair" music would be more attractive to radio listeners and to concert audiences if "given half the buildup that the average show or a variety show receives." Meanwhile, his arrangements of both "serious" and popular music bring down the house—for interpreted by this conductor, they glitter like Gould.

Out-Of-Town Wedding Is Of Interest Here

The wedding of Miss LaVonne Marion Doden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Doden, and Lewis Brandon Furr, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Furr, took place at the Tallulah Baptist Church in an impressive candlelight ceremony with the Rev. Chester Doden, uncle of the bride, officiating.

White cathedral candles in floor candelabra and immense white and yellow chrysanthemums, ferns and greenery decorated the chancel, forming a lovely setting for the nuptial rites.

Preceding the entrance of the bridal party, Miss Betty Jean Kuhn sang "At Dawning" and "O Promise Me." She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. B. L. Kuhn, pianist, who played the traditional wedding marches.

Robert Graves served the bridegroom as best man, and the ushers were Bobby Grimes, Eddie Mobley and Nelson Goss.

The bride's mother wore navy with a corsage of pink daisies, and the groom's mother wore black with a white carnation corsage.

A reception followed the wedding at the home of the bride's parents. The beautifully appointed bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom and was presided over by Miss Margie Doden, sister of the bride, while Miss Dorothy Doden had charge of the bride's book. Iced punch, cake, sandwiches and confections were served.

The couple left after the reception for a honeymoon trip. For traveling, the bride wore a fall suit of aqua wool, brown accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Furr is a graduate of the Tallulah High School and attended Northwestern State College. Mr. Furr also graduated at Tallulah High School and received his degree in agriculture from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. He is employed by the state as driver's license examiner with headquarters in Tallulah.

Delta Zeta members from Monroe will be among those honored when the Baton Rouge active and alumnae chapters of the sorority entertain October 25 with the first DZ State day to be held in Louisiana. Planned in connection with the homecoming game, this initial state-wide get-together is open to all members of the sorority.

The State day festivities will begin Friday night, October 24, when the traditional Founders' Day banquet will be held on the Heidelberg Hotel roof at 6:30 o'clock. This event, which will celebrate the 45th birthday of Delta Zeta, will be highlighted by the presentation of the scholarship awards.

Saturday afternoon all Delta Zeta actives, pledges and alumnae, together with their husbands and dates, will meet in the chapter room in Pan-Hellenion for an open house from 3 to 5 o'clock.

This open house has been planned so that it will not conflict with any of the homecoming meetings of the day, and has been placed on the university homecoming program.

WILL BE NOVEMBER BRIDE

Miss Carolyn Phyllis Johnson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. Marvyn Johnson of Leesville, La., whose engagement to Mr. Burnell Thomas Kien, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Kien of Oak Grove, La., is announced today. Mr. Kien is a veteran of the U. S. Navy and is now a student of Northeast Junior College, majoring in chemical engineering. Miss Johnson is a former student of Centenary College of Shreveport, La. After their marriage of November the twenty-second, the young couple will reside in this city.

FESTIVITIES IN CONNECTION WITH O. P. H. S. HOMECOMING MOST BRILLIANT IN HISTORY

One of the most colorful and enthusiastic events in the history of the Ouachita Parish High School was the 1947 Homecoming at Brown Stadium on October 3.

A "pep" assembly, honoring the O. P. H. S. Lions and their queen for the day, was held at noon in the O. P. H. S. auditorium. Harry Chappell, cheerleader, introduced the football queen, Alice Perry, and the maid of honor, Sharon Anderson and maids: Mary Coates, Jane Coates, Nancy Golson, Joan Parker, and Doris Turner. Other cheerleaders taking part in the assembly were: Jerry Platt, Betty Pettit, Peggy Williamson, Pat Ann Rector, Donald Bussey, Dick Pipes, and Richard Douglas.

The mascot was Frank Eason III, son of a former Lion man. The former queens, Mrs. Nan Drew Salisbury, class of '41, and Dorothy Powell, class '44, were introduced the evening of the game. The band and the Lionettes took a prominent part in the activities.

After school a parade was formed. It was led by the queen and maids, who were followed by the cheerleaders, Lionettes and band. The cleverly decorated cars, participating in a contest for the most original, most beautiful, and appropriate, made the parade exceedingly colorful. Cash prizes were awarded. The first prize was won by Carol Yarbrough for a gayly decorated jeep. The Lionettes were in full uniform and were led in their march by Jo Chisolm, Helen Prothrou, Ann Thompson, and Martha Jean Boyd, who carried banners of red and white.

Two "pep" rally's were held along the line of march.

The game began with the kickoff at 8:15 in Brown Stadium, after Ouachita's captains, Buster King, Buddy Clifford and James Perry, met in midfield with the Bolton captains and pitched a coin to see which team was to kick off. O. P. H. S. kicked off to Bolton.

At the half, 7,000 spectators watched the queen and her maids ride around the field in colorful convertibles lent for the occasion by automobile dealers. The band and the Lionettes formed an aisle with a column on each 45 yard line for the queen and their escorts to walk down. The court and escorts were as follows, queen, Alice Perry and Jack Smith; maid of honor, Sharon Anderson and Buster King; maids, Mary Coats and Buddy Clifford, Jane Coates and Charles Venable, Nancy Golson and Eddie Moss, Joan Parker and Mark Boatwright, Doris Jean Turner and E. J. Sievers. The girls looked charming in their bright colored fall suits and accessories. The queen wore a beautiful aqua suit with black accessories. Two former queens and their escorts: Dorothy Powell and James Perry, Mrs. Nan Drew Salisbury and Robert Kirby were also present. The queen was crowned by Mr. Sam Walker, an alumnus of O. P. H. S. The guest speakers for the occasion were Sam Walker '37, Meredith Johnson '38, Chester Decuir '36, and Wayne McDonald '30. They were introduced by Miss Jean Kennedy, and Miss June Shultz.

After the game open house was held at the Booster Club for the student-body of O. P. H. S.

VISIT OF DR. MARY MIMS PROVES BENEFICIAL TO CITIZENS OF TWIN CITIES

When Dr. Mary Mims, extension sociologist at the Louisiana State University, visited Monroe recently she advised the citizens of the Twin Cities, in one of her many talks, "To pray rather than criticize so as to help establish world peace."

Twenty years ago this same speaker said: "You can make your community what you want it to be." These words were the beginning of a campaign that has uplifted the rural life of the entire state of Louisiana. Under the leadership of Dr. Mims, more than a thousand Louisiana communities ranging in population from 100 to 10,000 have taken on more efficient, prosperous and happy ways. There are hundreds of new schools, libraries, and community houses, hundreds of farmers' cooperatives, community fairs, gardens, orchestras, choral groups, and playgrounds; thousands of homes repaired and repainted, with clean yards and neat fences.

The people in the various communities gazed wonderingly at Dr. Mims when she flung forth her challenge: "By the sincerity of your vision you can transform your community . . . make it what you want it to be."

How could they make their community better? Dr. Mims was ready with suggestions. For years the farmers had been growing short-staple cotton, which brought low prices. Why couldn't they raise higher-revenue, long-staple cotton? The roads, largely through swampland, were so bad the farmers sometimes didn't even get this low-priced cotton to the gins. Why not get better roads? Better roads, too, would enable them to get other farm products to market; chickens, butter, eggs. Why not drain the swampland and plant cotton there? That also would help do away with mosquitoes—and malaria, which was undermining the health of communities.

Skillfully Dr. Mims stirred the people to ask these questions of themselves. Many had thought of these things, but they had seemed so hopeless of attainment. Dr. Mims explained all the available forces that could be enlisted to advise and help them: the county and home demonstration agents, the local health agents, state road aid, the Louisiana Library Commission, experts from the state university who would come out and tell the farmers individually about clearing and draining land, planting, cultivating, marketing. So things got going.

Four years later that community was so changed that a returning prodigal would have rubbed his eyes and vowed it a miracle. Where cypress stumps once stood there was a handsome community house. There was a new church, a new school. The young folks who had mostly gone off somewhere when they grew up, were staying home and growing up with the land. Wandering ones were coming back. Nothing had been given to the people except the conviction that they could get what they wanted by united effort.

Dr. Mims, visiting the Twin Cities last week, remarked: "I go on what Henry Ford said: "That the only things you can give human beings without hurting them is the chance to help themselves."

Dr. Mims has mingled with royalty . . . She was presented at court in London, yet she has never lost the common touch. She has spent the best years of her life teaching the farmers of Louisiana not only how to live, but how to live more abundantly. By her wit, energy and knowledge of farmers' phychology, Dr. Mims has helped win the farmers into 100 per cent cooperation.

"Today," Dr. Mims reports, "the farmers all practice the soil conservation program. Each farmer has developed an all-year-round pasture, they all raise cattle, and Shiloh is sending milk, eggs and poultry to market in ten times the quantity it did before."

Like Morton Gould's brilliant recordings, this coming American Serenade concert features popular tunes of past and present in inimitable Gould arrangements, as well as contemporary classics by such modern composers as Aaron Copland, William Schuman, George Gershwin and by Mr. Gould himself.

As in his record albums, Morton Gould appears in four capacities in the coming American Serenade concert: As composer, conductor, arranger and soloist. This is a pleasant practice that Gould has been following since the tender age of six, when his first composition, appropriately entitled "Just Six," was published. He has been making musical headlines ever since. As a composer he has had his works performed by practically every outstanding symphony orchestra in the country. As a conductor, he has presided over the New York Philharmonic Symphony, the Philadelphia Orchestra, and other leading symphonies, in addition to his own excellent orchestra. Audiences will testify to the fact that, as an arranger, Mr. Gould has no peer in glorifying the American tune. In the coming concert, he is also being heard for the first time in many years as piano soloist of his own "Interplay," for piano and orchestra, a work written for a ballet by Jerome Robbins.

One of Gould's own symphonic works "American Salute" opens the program. This magnificent piece, already familiar to many through its inclusion in the recently issued Columbia "Music of Morton Gould" album, is based on the old Civil War marching song, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." Other recorded favorites which find prominent places in the coming program are Hoagy Carmichael's "Stardust" from his "Rendezvous" album, Mr. Gould's enchanting arrangement of "The Surrey With the Fringe On Top" from his "String Time" album and "Begine the Beguine" which has just been issued as part of his newest "Morton Gould Showcase" album.

Perhaps because he still remembers childhood fist fights with the small fry of his youth who had little respect for his piano lessons, Morton Gould is happy today over America's musical growth. He says that he is made aware of it each time he goes on tour, and that his present concert trek of ne forty-two cities in convincing him that the American people are coming of age, musically speaking.

He believes that "long hair" music would be more attractive to radio listeners and to concert audiences if "given half the buildup that the average show or a variety show receives." Meanwhile, his arrangements of both "serious" and popular music bring down the house—for interpreted by this conductor, they glitter like Gould.

Out-Of-Town Wedding Is Of Interest Here

The wedding of Miss LaVonne Marion Doden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Doden, and Lewis Brandon Furr, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Furr, took place at the Tallulah Baptist Church in an impressive candlelight ceremony with the Rev. Chester Doden, uncle of the bride, officiating.

White cathedral candles in floor candelabra and immense white and yellow chrysanthemums, ferns and greenery decorated the chancel, forming a lovely setting for the nuptial rites.

Preceding the entrance of the bridal party, Miss Betty Jean Kuhn sang "At Dawning" and "O Promise Me." She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. B. L. Kuhn, pianist, who played the traditional wedding marches.

Miss Margaret Keller, the maid of honor, wore a floor-length model of pink net, trimmed in black, and carried an old-fashioned bouquet. Sandra Doden, cousin of the bride, in multi-colored floor-length dress, carried an old-fashioned nosegay.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful wedding gown of white satin fashioned with Sweetheart neck line, molded bodice, and the skirt with tunic effect, which extended into a court train. Her finger-tip veil fell from a coronet of seed pearls, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses, carnations and tuberoses centered with an orchid.

Robert Graves served the bridegroom as best man, and the ushers were Bobby Grimes, Eddie Mobley and Nelson Goss.

The bride's mother wore navy with a corsage of pink daisies, and the groom's mother wore black with a white carnation corsage.

A reception followed the wedding at the home of the bride's parents. The beautifully appointed bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom and was presided over by Miss Margie Doden, sister of the bride, while Miss Dorothy Doden had charge of the bride's book. Iced punch, cake, sandwiches and confections were served.

The couple left after the reception for a honeymoon trip. For traveling, the bride wore a fall suit of aqua wool, brown accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Furr is a graduate of the Tallulah High School and attended Northwestern State College. Mr. Furr also graduated at Tallulah High School and received his degree in agriculture from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. He is employed by the state as driver's license examiner with headquarters in Tallulah.

Delta Zeta members from Monroe will be among those honored when the Baton Rouge active and alumnae chapters of the sorority entertain October 25 with the first DZ State day to be held in Louisiana. Planned in connection with the homecoming game, this initial state-wide get-together is open to all members of the sorority.

The State day festivities will begin Friday night, October 24, when the traditional Founders' Day banquet will be held on the Heidelberg Hotel roof at 6:30 o'clock. This event, which will celebrate the 45th birthday of Delta Zeta, will be highlighted by the presentation of the scholarship awards.

Saturday afternoon all Delta Zeta actives, pledges and alumnae, together with their husbands and dates, will meet in the chapter room in Pan-Hellenion for an open house from 3 to 5 o'clock.

This open house has been planned so that it will not conflict with any of the homecoming meetings of the day, and has been placed on the university homecoming program.

FESTIVITIES IN CONNECTION WITH O. P. H. S. HOMECOMING MOST BRILLIANT IN HISTORY

One of the most colorful and enthusiastic events in the history of the Ouachita Parish High School was the 1947 Homecoming at Brown Stadium on October 3.

A "pep" assembly, honoring the O. P. H. S. Lions and their queen for the day, was held at noon in the O. P. H. S. auditorium. Harry Chappell, cheerleader, introduced the football queen, Alice Perry, and the maid of honor, Sharon Anderson and maids: Mary Coates, Jane Coates, Nancy Golson, Joan Parker, and Doris Turner. Other cheerleaders taking part in the assembly were: Jerry Platt, Betty Pettit, Peggy Williamson, Pat Ann Rector, Donald Bussey, Dick Pipes, and Richard Douglas.

The mascot was Frank Eason III, son of a former Lion man. The former queens, Mrs. Nan Drew Salisbury, class of '41, and Dorothy Powell, class '44, were introduced the evening of the game. The band and the Lionettes took a prominent part in the activities.

After school a parade was formed. It was led by the queen and maids, who were followed by the cheerleaders, Lionettes and band. The cleverly decorated cars, participating in a contest for the most original, most beautiful, and appropriate, made the parade exceedingly colorful. Cash prizes were awarded. The first prize was won by Carol Yarbrough for a gayly decorated jeep. The Lionettes were in full uniform and were led in their march by Jo Chisolm, Helen Prothrou, Ann Thompson, and Martha Jean Boyd, who carried banners of red and white.

Two "pep" rally's were held along the line of march.

The game began with the kickoff at 8:15 in Brown Stadium, after Ouachita's captains, Buster King, Buddy Clifford and James Perry, met in midfield with the Bolton captains and pitched a coin to see which team was to kick off. O. P. H. S. kicked off to Bolton.

At the half, 7,000 spectators watched the queen and her maids ride around the field in colorful convertibles lent for the occasion by automobile dealers. The band and the Lionettes formed an aisle with a column on each 45 yard line for the queen and their escorts to walk down. The court and escorts were as follows, queen, Alice Perry and Jack Smith; maid of honor, Sharon Anderson and Buster King; maids, Mary Coats and Buddy Clifford, Jane Coates and Charles Venable, Nancy Golson and Eddie Moss, Joan Parker and Mark Boatwright, Doris Jean Turner and E. J. Sievers. The girls looked charming in their bright colored fall suits and accessories. The queen wore a beautiful aqua suit with black accessories. Two former queens and their escorts: Dorothy Powell and James Perry, Mrs. Nan Drew Salisbury and Robert Kirby were also present. The queen was crowned by Mr. Sam Walker, an alumnus of O. P. H. S. The guest speakers for the occasion were Sam Walker '37, Meredith Johnson '38, Chester Decuir '36, and Wayne McDonald '30. They were introduced by Miss Jean Kennedy, and Miss June Shultz.

After the game open house was held at the Booster Club for the student-body of O. P. H. S.

When Dr. Mary Mims, extension sociologist at the Louisiana State University, visited Monroe recently she advised the citizens of the Twin Cities, in one of her many talks, "To pray rather than criticize so as to help establish world peace."

Twenty years ago this same speaker said: "You can make your community what you want it to be." These words were the beginning of a campaign that has uplifted the rural life of the entire state of Louisiana. Under the leadership of Dr. Mims, more than a thousand Louisiana communities ranging in population from 100 to 10,000 have taken on more efficient, prosperous and happy ways. There are hundreds of new schools, libraries, and community houses, hundreds of farmers' cooperatives, community fairs, gardens, orchestras, choral groups, and playgrounds; thousands of homes repaired and repainted, with clean yards and neat fences.

The people in the various communities gazed wonderingly at Dr. Mims when she flung forth her challenge: "By the sincerity of your vision you can transform your community . . . make it what you want it to be."

How could they make their community better? Dr. Mims was ready with suggestions. For years the farmers had been growing short-staple cotton, which brought low prices. Why couldn't they raise higher-revenue, long-staple cotton? The roads, largely through swampland, were so bad the farmers sometimes didn't even get this low-priced cotton to the gins. Why not get better roads? Better roads, too, would enable them to get other farm products to market; chickens, butter, eggs. Why not drain the swampland and plant cotton there? That also would help do away with mosquitoes—and malaria, which was undermining the health of communities.

Skillfully Dr. Mims stirred the people to ask these questions of themselves. Many had thought of these things, but they had seemed so hopeless of attainment. Dr. Mims explained all the available forces that could be enlisted to advise and help them; the county and home demonstration agents, the local health agents, state road aid, the Louisiana Library Commission, experts from the state university who would come out and tell the farmers individually about clearing and draining land, planting, cultivating, marketing. So things got going.

Four years later that community was so changed that a returning prodigal would have rubbed his eyes and vowed it a miracle. Where cypress stumps once stood there was a handsome community house. There was a new church, a new school. The young folks who had mostly gone off somewhere when they grew up, were staying home and growing up with the land. Wandering ones were coming back. Nothing had been given to the people except the conviction that they could get what they wanted by united effort.

Dr. Mims, visiting the Twin Cities last week, remarked: "I go on what Henry Ford said: "That the only things you can give human beings without hurting them is the chance to help themselves."

Dr. Mims has mingled with royalty . . . She was presented at court in London, yet she has never lost the common touch. She has spent the best years of her life teaching the farmers of Louisiana not only how to live, but how to live more abundantly. By her wit, energy and knowledge of farmers' phychology, Dr. Mims has helped win the farmers into 100 per cent cooperation.

"Today," Dr. Mims reports, "the farmers all practice the soil conservation program. Each farmer has developed an all-year-round pasture, they all raise cattle, and Shiloh is sending milk, eggs and poultry to market in ten times the quantity it did before."

BRILLIANT CAST HEADS THE LITTLE THEATRE PLAY TO BE PRESENTED MONDAY NIGHT

A gala event on next week's calendar will be the opening of the Little Theatre's sixteenth season with "Hay Fever," the delightful Noel Coward comedy which was a distinct hit when presented here several years ago under the direction of Blanche Oliver.

The curtain will go up at 8:15 p.m. at Georgia Tucker School auditorium on a performance which includes eight actors who are new to Monroe audiences. They have been actively engaged in Little Theatre work elsewhere. The play will be shown Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Heading the cast will be June Shultz, a young dramatist of exceptional ability who is considered a real find for the Monroe Little Theatre. She plays the role of Judith Bliss in "Hay Fever."

Miss Shultz is speech instructor at Ouachita Parish High School. She came to Monroe two years ago from her home in Jennings, La., after graduation from Southwestern Louisiana Institute in Lafayette where she majored in speech and English. While in college she appeared in "Double Door," "Junior Miss," "I'll Leave It To You," and numerous one-act plays. She directed the senior play at Ouachita Parish High School last year.

Jeannette Brown, who will be seen as Sorel Bliss, returned to Monroe about four weeks ago, and two days later was in rehearsal with the Little Theatre. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John O. Brown, were originally from Monroe, and returned here about a year and a half ago. Jeannette, who has been teaching physical education at the National Cathedral School for Girls in Washington, D. C., for the last two years, joined them here in September. She is a graduate of George Washington University in Washington, D. C., where she majored in physical education, and also took speech courses. She's done extensive backstage work, and also took part in radio shows over WINX in Washington.

Douglas Schumann is a veteran of our famous sister-theatre, the Vieux Carre in New Orleans. He came to Monroe in July, and has been with Montgomery Ward as a trainee since. In New Orleans, he appeared in "Clarence," and also in various productions of the Children's Theatre. At Tulane University, where he majored in chemical engineering and business administration, he also worked backstage with the university theatre, and ran the house crew during his senior year. Mr. Schumann will be seen next week as Simon Bliss.

Gilbert Findlay, who will play David Bliss in next week's production, is the most widely traveled member of the cast. Connected with the M. W. Kellogg Construction Company, he has been in Monroe since March, coming here from California. Previously, he worked with the Anglo-Uranian Oil Company in Persia, Palestine, Egypt and the West Indies. During earlier years, he and two other boys put on plays, doing three one-act plays at a time, with each of them directing one of them, and acting in the others.

Joy Bernhardt has been active with Little Theatre for several seasons backstage, especially in make-up work, but is making her debut on the stage Monday, when she will appear as Myra Arundel. A graduate of Louisiana Tech in accounting, she is now connected with Frazier & Cox. She was also active with the university theatre while at Tech.

James Asanto is another actor who comes to us from the Vieux Carre, where he worked under Charles Meredith and Monroe Lippman. Coming to Monroe in July, he is now associated with Firestone. Mr. Asanto will be seen as Sandy Tyrell in "Hay Fever."

Marianne St. John is making her first stage appearance as Jackie Coryton. She graduated from Neville High School and attended Northeast Junior College. She took speech in high school. Currently she is employed with Universal Credit Corporation.

Wallace Kendall is the manager of the Social Security Administration in Monroe. He has made his home in Monroe since 1941, leaving it only for service with the savy in the Pacific. A native of Ruston, he attended Louisiana Tech and Louisiana State University where he majored in chemistry. In college he appeared in "Murder on the Second Floor," and "Pinafore." He was an announcer on KALB in Alexander for a year, and at present writes and directs a weekly radio show, "Social Security Day By Day," which is heard over station KNOE.

Vera Troy, the only old-timer in the cast, plays her second role after starring last spring in "You Can't Take It With You." It's just part of the family now—her eldest son, Dick, Jr., played two roles last year and won the award for the best performance of the year. Her father, Herbert Nobes, played in "The Drunkard" in the spring. And, of course, Dick, Sr., is now a member of the board of directors.

Luncheon Is Feature Of Club Meeting

The current Literature Club met at the home of Mrs. Wm. Whitfield. A delicious luncheon was served to the members and guests.

Immediately following the luncheon, the regular meeting was held. The topic, "We Can Have Better Schools," was given by Mrs. L. A. West.

Miss Frances Flanders, librarian of the Ouachita Parish Public Library reviewed "House Divided," by Ben Ames Williams.

"House Divided" is a very large, impressive story of the Civil War. Ben Ames Williams, the author, was born in Macon, Mississippi. His mother was a neice of General James Longstreet of the Confederate Army. His portrait of Longstreet is the most sympathetic in the book and the most flattering, I think, I have ever read.

Mr. Williams has put a great deal of research into this book. He has a good understanding of the period and of the issues involved. He gives an excellent picture of the attitude of the different groups of the population toward the war and of it's effect upon them.

He shows that the slave owners were a small minority in the south, that most of the men who fought the war had never owned a slave, but were fighting for a variety of other reasons; loyalty to their state; unwillingness to fight against Southerners (this was particularly true of people from Virginia); their belief in states rights; the fact that poor men were impressed for service in the army, while rich ones could get bombproof office jobs and a man with 20 slaves was excused from fighting.

He shows very clearly that the organization of the South was its weakness and contributed to its defeat. A confederation was too loosely organized to carry on a war. The states would give up none of their rights and consequently the Confederacy was never strong.

His picture of Davis is most critical. He shows him to be both stupid and stubborn. He promoted inefficient leaders at the expense of good ones. He allowed his feelings to overrule his judgment. He had a genius for doing the wrong thing. He was extremely unpopular during the war. Most of his popularity came later, when he became a Confederate martyr.

"House Divided" is a story of a period, a war, and a family. There are no heroes and no heroine of the story. This is a story of the Currain family. Each of them represents a type of southerner and we see how the war influenced their characters, how the strong became stronger and the weak went into total degeneracy.

The leading characters are Anthony Currain, who had a love affair with Lucy Hanks. She gave birth to an illegitimate daughter, named Nancy Hanks, who married Tom Lincoln and became the mother of Abraham Lincoln.

Anthony Currain married Sally Williber. She died a few years after marriage. He then married Lucy Coyboy and they had five children. The children are Anthony, Travis, Lucinda, Matilda and Fauntleroy.

The story is of these children and the effect of the war and the discovery that Nancy Hanks was their father's child had on their lives. Each child is a different type and each reacts differently.

Lucinda's words in conclusion show a wonderful philosophy and understanding. She said: "I'm not going to think any more, if I can help it; about what used to be. If the South isn't careful, it's going to start feeling sorry for itself, and being proud and wistful, and boasting how brave our men are, and how beautiful our women, and what charming lives we led till the Yankees spoiled it all. But as long as we keep looking back over our shoulders, we'll be forever stumbling. When we learn to forget, then we will go ahead."

Those members and guests present were: Mrs. Jordan Barton, Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Mrs. Gene Demmary, Mrs. Dan Dennett, Mrs. H. C. Menuet, Mrs. Louis Peters, Mrs. E. A. Porter, Jr., Mrs. R. F. Seiler, Mrs. Earl Stovall, Mrs. L. A. West, Mrs. William Whitfield, Mrs. Jack Wyatt; guests, Mrs. E. Malone and Miss Frances Flanders.

Talented Pianist And Vocalist Will Be Presented In Concert In This City Where They Formerly Resided

Monroe music lovers are enjoying an anticipatory thrill over the appearance in concert of two brilliant young musicians, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Anspach of Chattanooga, Tenn., October 28, at Neville auditorium under the auspices of the First Methodist Church.

It will be a joint recital featuring a group of piano numbers by Mr. Anspach and vocal numbers by Mrs. Anspach. This talented young couple were brought together by the war and their mutual interest in music while Mr. Anspach, whose home was in Philadelphia, was training for service at Selman Field.

Mrs. Anspach received her early voice training under Mrs. Estelle Sanders of this city who was the first to discover her remarkable talent. She later studied under Madam Louise Homer and Paul Althouse of New York. She has been most successful in concert work throughout the south.

Mr. Anspach's most brilliant success was achieved when he appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic orchestra. This was followed by equally successful appearances with the Philadelphia Orchestra under Joseph Iturbi. He also made three Town Hall recitals and was given unstinted praise from the New York press.

Mr. Anspach was soloist with the Bell Telephone Chorus at the Academy of Music in Philadelphia. He is now a professor of piano at the University of Chattanooga and recently appeared with the Chattanooga Symphony.

When Jose Iturb appeared in concert in Chattanooga he requested Mrs. Anspach to sing for him. He was so impressed with her beautiful voice he encouraged her to join her husband in concertizing. Soon after this they became affiliated with the Alkahest Celebrity Bureau in Atlanta, Ga.

Purely Personal

October, the most beautiful month of the year, waxes and wanes. The days are deceptively warm and outdoor living is still in order. The trees splurge with bright colors, waving a final blatant fling of autumn foliage. Dead leaves are underfoot and the withered grass and cornstalks rustle in the evening breeze carrying a hint of approaching winter. The air is filled with that smoky haze which first reminded the early settlers of Indian fires and gave this false summer its name. Indian summer is more than brilliant colors, however. It's a reminder of all the good things to come, the concert season for instance and the formal parties, the happy hours in one's own home beside the open fire with a good book for a companion.

One of the gala affairs of October was the cocktail party in the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Riley with their two attractive daughters, Misses Rosalie and Polly in lovely evening attire, assisting. The feminine guests were in ecstacies over the gorgeous silver service Mrs. Riley brought back from Mexico this past summer. It was used for the first time on this occasion. Champagne was the drink preferred by the great majority but tea and coffee was desired by a few, so Mrs. Riley served it in state from the handsome silver urns. There was music aplenty at the Riley's on this occasion. Their son Bill is an accomplished musician and accompanied Mrs. Thomas Bryan Pugh, who sang one beautiful song after another, by request. She is the former Nellie Breard whose voice has charmed friends for years. All in all, it was a very gay party, with informality the keynote.

Mrs. Harold Nachtrieb, a visitor from Berkeley, Calif., was an extemporaneous speaker at the meeting of the League of Women Voters in the home of Mrs. John Fox last Thursday morning. As a representative of the League of Women Voters attending the conference of the United Nations in San Francisco two years ago she was in a position to bring members of the local league a message of great worth. Mrs. Nachtrieb, the former Kate Cole of this city, is a woman of high intellectual attainments and is concerning herself, like all organized women throughout this country, about world peace. It's the dominant thought in the mind of today and literally millions all over the world are enlisted for intellectual adventure in search of ways that may lead to their goal. Another intellectual is Mrs. E. N. Jackson of this city who served as chairman of the meeting in the Fox home. She has gained a clear, unbiased perspective on the United States in relation to the world trade picture and is leading this group in the right direction. That the peace of the world must be women's responsibility is the firm convention of Mrs. Jackson and all members of the League of Women Voters, whose leaders envision their large organization as an important potential instrument in directing the course of destiny. The local branch of the League of Women Voters is drawing ever increasing numbers into their fold. The president is Miss Myrtle Rodgers, one of Monroe's prominent educators.

One of the handsomest women we have seen in many a day was Mrs. J. H. Carroll who wore a regal black evening gown at a dinner party recently. She is tall and slender and the gown, a sheath of black velvet, was unadorned. Her shining black hair, arranged high on her head was perfectly arranged for this type of gown. Mrs. Carroll is entertaining at tea this afternoon at her suburban home "Redwine," for members of Delta Rho Delta.

It isn't all work by any means for Miss Cherry Bernstein, student at Randolph Macon College. She was royally entertained by Cadet Ted Grant at West Point recently. Other Monroe girls attending eastern colleges are continually trotting off to proms and other festivities not only at West Point but Annapolis where Midshipman Monty Frazier plays host.

Many who attended the tea given by members of Fort Miro chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, at the Layton Place last week remembered the days when this home, one of the few ante-bellum homes left in this section, was surrounded with cotton fields. They remember the old slave quarters, the winding walk built by slaves of bricks made in the kilns right on the place. They remember old Annette, the colored retainer who was born and raised on Layton Place and looked after the family during her lifetime. Many newcomers to Monroe, attending the tea, saw the family portraits, damaged during the Civil War by sabres in the hands of Yankee soldiers. The Yankees invaded this home and stories have been handed down from one generation to another of the damage to priceless possessions.

Layton Place is the ideal setting for entertaining on a large scale . . . the ceilings are high, the rooms spacious and over all is the atmosphere of other days. After all, only a thin veil separates the Monroe of today from the glamorous Monroe of yesterday.

SMOTHERED FOR SPEECH

About 600 B. C., Draco, the famous lawgiver, made a stirring speech and was unwittingly smothered to death by a deluge of clothing. The ancient Athenians showed their appreciation of speakers and actors by throwing garments at them.

Ferriday

The Fourth Quarterly Conference of the Methodist church which met Sunday at the Sevier-Memorial Methodist church here went on record as requesting that the present pastor, Reverend Francis W. Fowler be returned for another year. W. H. Giles, district superintendent of the Monroe district, who was the presiding officer, was asked to make the recommendation to the annual church conference which meets in Lake Charles November 15.

Sevier-Memorial Methodist church held a promotion day for the children Sunday with Carter C. Wailes, chairman of the board of education in charge. The following teachers make up the new faculty of the school: A. B. Hagle, adult division; C. C. Wailes, intermediate department and Mrs. Ira Rogillio, beginners department. Dr. W. E. Mecom is Sunday school superintendent and Raymond Russell is secretary.

John Dale, chairman of the Concordia parish Democratic executive committee has announced that all candidates for parish and ward offices in the forthcoming Democratic Primary election in January, must file on or before 5 p. m. October 17 at his office in Vidalia.

BRILLIANT CAST HEADS THE LITTLE THEATRE PLAY TO BE PRESENTED MONDAY NIGHT

A gala event on next week's calendar will be the opening of the Little Theatre's sixteenth season with "Hay Fever," the delightful Noel Coward comedy which was a distinct hit when presented here several years ago under the direction of Blanche Oliver.

The curtain will go up at 8:15 p.m. at Georgia Tucker School auditorium on a performance which includes eight actors who are new to Monroe audiences. They have been actively engaged in Little Theatre work elsewhere. The play will be shown Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Heading the cast will be June Shultz, a young dramatist of exceptional ability who is considered a real find for the Monroe Little Theatre. She plays the role of Judith Bliss in "Hay Fever."

Miss Shultz is speech instructor at Ouachita Parish High School. She came to Monroe two years ago from her home in Jennings, La., after graduation from Southwestern Louisiana Institute in Lafayette where she majored in speech and English. While in college she appeared in "Double Door," "Junior Miss," "I'll Leave It To You," and numerous one-act plays. She directed the senior play at Ouachita Parish High School last year.

Jeannette Brown, who will be seen as Sorel Bliss, returned to Monroe about four weeks ago, and two days later was in rehearsal with the Little Theatre. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John O. Brown, were originally from Monroe, and returned here about a year and a half ago. Jeannette, who has been teaching physical education at the National Cathedral School for Girls in Washington, D. C., for the last two years, joined them here in September. She is a graduate of George Washington University in Washington, D. C., where she majored in physical education, and also took speech courses. She's done extensive backstage work, and also took part in radio shows over WINX in Washington.

Douglas Schumann is a veteran of our famous sister-theatre, the Vieux Carre in New Orleans. He came to Monroe in July, and has been with Montgomery Ward as a trainee since. In New Orleans, he appeared in "Clarence," and also in various productions of the Children's Theatre. At Tulane University, where he majored in chemical engineering and business administration, he also worked backstage with the university theatre, and ran the house crew during his senior year. Mr. Schumann will be seen next week as Simon Bliss.

Gilbert Findlay, who will play David Bliss in next week's production, is the most widely traveled member of the cast. Connected with the M. W. Kellogg Construction Company, he has been in Monroe since March, coming here from California. Previously, he worked with the Anglo-Uranian Oil Company in Persia, Palestine, Egypt and the West Indies. During earlier years, he and two other boys put on plays, doing three one-act plays at a time, with each of them directing one of them, and acting in the others.

Joy Bernhardt has been active with Little Theatre for several seasons backstage, especially in make-up work, but is making her debut on the stage Monday, when she will appear as Myra Arundel. A graduate of Louisiana Tech in accounting, she is now connected with Frazier & Cox. She was also active with the university theatre while at Tech.

James Asanto is another actor who comes to us from the Vieux Carre, where he worked under Charles Meredith and Monroe Lippman. Coming to Monroe in July, he is now associated with Firestone. Mr. Asanto will be seen as Sandy Tyrell in "Hay Fever."

Marianne St. John is making her first stage appearance as Jackie Coryton. She graduated from Neville High School and attended Northeast Junior College. She took speech in high school. Currently she is employed with Universal Credit Corporation.

Wallace Kendall is the manager of the Social Security Administration in Monroe. He has made his home in Monroe since 1941, leaving it only for service with the savy in the Pacific. A native of Ruston, he attended Louisiana Tech and Louisiana State University where he majored in chemistry. In college he appeared in "Murder on the Second Floor," and "Pinafore." He was an announcer on KALB in Alexander for a year, and at present writes and directs a weekly radio show, "Social Security Day By Day," which is heard over station KNOE.

Vera Troy, the only old-timer in the cast, plays her second role after starring last spring in "You Can't Take It With You." It's just part of the family now—her eldest son, Dick, Jr., played two roles last year and won the award for the best performance of the year. Her father, Herbert Nobes, played in "The Drunkard" in the spring. And, of course, Dick, Sr., is now a member of the board of directors.

Luncheon Is Feature Of Club Meeting

The current Literature Club met at the home of Mrs. Wm. Whitfield. A delicious luncheon was served to the members and guests.

Immediately following the luncheon, the regular meeting was held. The topic, "We Can Have Better Schools," was given by Mrs. L. A. West.

Miss Frances Flanders, librarian of the Ouachita Parish Public Library reviewed "House Divided," by Ben Ames Williams.

"House Divided" is a very large, impressive story of the Civil War. Ben Ames Williams, the author, was born in Macon, Mississippi. His mother was a neice of General James Longstreet of the Confederate Army. His portrait of Longstreet is the most sympathetic in the book and the most flattering, I think, I have ever read.

Mr. Williams has put a great deal of research into this book. He has a good understanding of the period and of the issues involved. He gives an excellent picture of the attitude of the different groups of the population toward the war and of it's effect upon them.

He shows that the slave owners were a small minority in the south, that most of the men who fought the war had never owned a slave, but were fighting for a variety of other reasons; loyalty to their state; unwillingness to fight against Southerners (this was particularly true of people from Virginia); their belief in states rights; the fact that poor men were impressed for service in the army, while rich ones could get bombproof office jobs and a man with 20 slaves was excused from fighting.

He shows very clearly that the organization of the South was its weakness and contributed to its defeat. A confederation was too loosely organized to carry on a war. The states would give up none of their rights and consequently the Confederacy was never strong.

His picture of Davis is most critical. He shows him to be both stupid and stubborn. He promoted inefficient leaders at the expense of good ones. He allowed his feelings to overrule his judgment. He had a genius for doing the wrong thing. He was extremely unpopular during the war. Most of his popularity came later, when he became a Confederate martyr.

"House Divided" is a story of a period, a war, and a family. There are no heroes and no heroine of the story. This is a story of the Currain family. Each of them represents a type of southerner and we see how the war influenced their characters, how the strong became stronger and the weak went into total degeneracy.

The leading characters are Anthony Currain, who had a love affair with Lucy Hanks. She gave birth to an illegitimate daughter, named Nancy Hanks, who married Tom Lincoln and became the mother of Abraham Lincoln.

Anthony Currain married Sally Williber. She died a few years after marriage. He then married Lucy Coyboy and they had five children. The children are Anthony, Travis, Lucinda, Matilda and Fauntleroy.

The story is of these children and the effect of the war and the discovery that Nancy Hanks was their father's child had on their lives. Each child is a different type and each reacts differently.

Lucinda's words in conclusion show a wonderful philosophy and understanding. She said: "I'm not going to think any more, if I can help it; about what used to be. If the South isn't careful, it's going to start feeling sorry for itself, and being proud and wistful, and boasting how brave our men are, and how beautiful our women, and what charming lives we led till the Yankees spoiled it all. But as long as we keep looking back over our shoulders, we'll be forever stumbling. When we learn to forget, then we will go ahead."

Those members and guests present were: Mrs. Jordan Barton, Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Mrs. Gene Demmary, Mrs. Dan Dennett, Mrs. H. C. Menuet, Mrs. Louis Peters, Mrs. E. A. Porter, Jr., Mrs. R. F. Seiler, Mrs. Earl Stovall, Mrs. L. A. West, Mrs. William Whitfield, Mrs. Jack Wyatt; guests, Mrs. E. Malone and Miss Frances Flanders.

Talented Pianist And Vocalist Will Be Presented In Concert In This City Where They Formerly Resided

Monroe music lovers are enjoying an anticipatory thrill over the appearance in concert of two brilliant young musicians, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Anspach of Chattanooga, Tenn., October 28, at Neville auditorium under the auspices of the First Methodist Church.

It will be a joint recital featuring a group of piano numbers by Mr. Anspach and vocal numbers by Mrs. Anspach. This talented young couple were brought together by the war and their mutual interest in music while Mr. Anspach, whose home was in Philadelphia, was training for service at Selman Field.

Mrs. Anspach received her early voice training under Mrs. Estelle Sanders of this city who was the first to discover her remarkable talent. She later studied under Madam Louise Homer and Paul Althouse of New York. She has been most successful in concert work throughout the south.

Mr. Anspach's most brilliant success was achieved when he appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic orchestra. This was followed by equally successful appearances with the Philadelphia Orchestra under Joseph Iturbi. He also made three Town Hall recitals and was given unstinted praise from the New York press.

Mr. Anspach was soloist with the Bell Telephone Chorus at the Academy of Music in Philadelphia. He is now a professor of piano at the University of Chattanooga and recently appeared with the Chattanooga Symphony.

When Jose Iturb appeared in concert in Chattanooga he requested Mrs. Anspach to sing for him. He was so impressed with her beautiful voice he encouraged her to join her husband in concertizing. Soon after this they became affiliated with the Alkahest Celebrity Bureau in Atlanta, Ga.

Purely Personal

October, the most beautiful month of the year, waxes and wanes. The days are deceptively warm and outdoor living is still in order. The trees splurge with bright colors, waving a final blatant fling of autumn foliage. Dead leaves are underfoot and the withered grass and cornstalks rustle in the evening breeze carrying a hint of approaching winter. The air is filled with that smoky haze which first reminded the early settlers of Indian fires and gave this false summer its name. Indian summer is more than brilliant colors, however. It's a reminder of all the good things to come, the concert season for instance and the formal parties, the happy hours in one's own home beside the open fire with a good book for a companion.

One of the gala affairs of October was the cocktail party in the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Riley with their two attractive daughters, Misses Rosalie and Polly in lovely evening attire, assisting. The feminine guests were in ecstacies over the gorgeous silver service Mrs. Riley brought back from Mexico this past summer. It was used for the first time on this occasion. Champagne was the drink preferred by the great majority but tea and coffee was desired by a few, so Mrs. Riley served it in state from the handsome silver urns. There was music aplenty at the Riley's on this occasion. Their son Bill is an accomplished musician and accompanied Mrs. Thomas Bryan Pugh, who sang one beautiful song after another, by request. She is the former Nellie Breard whose voice has charmed friends for years. All in all, it was a very gay party, with informality the keynote.

Mrs. Harold Nachtrieb, a visitor from Berkeley, Calif., was an extemporaneous speaker at the meeting of the League of Women Voters in the home of Mrs. John Fox last Thursday morning. As a representative of the League of Women Voters attending the conference of the United Nations in San Francisco two years ago she was in a position to bring members of the local league a message of great worth. Mrs. Nachtrieb, the former Kate Cole of this city, is a woman of high intellectual attainments and is concerning herself, like all organized women throughout this country, about world peace. It's the dominant thought in the mind of today and literally millions all over the world are enlisted for intellectual adventure in search of ways that may lead to their goal. Another intellectual is Mrs. E. N. Jackson of this city who served as chairman of the meeting in the Fox home. She has gained a clear, unbiased perspective on the United States in relation to the world trade picture and is leading this group in the right direction. That the peace of the world must be women's responsibility is the firm convention of Mrs. Jackson and all members of the League of Women Voters, whose leaders envision their large organization as an important potential instrument in directing the course of destiny. The local branch of the League of Women Voters is drawing ever increasing numbers into their fold. The president is Miss Myrtle Rodgers, one of Monroe's prominent educators.

One of the handsomest women we have seen in many a day was Mrs. J. H. Carroll who wore a regal black evening gown at a dinner party recently. She is tall and slender and the gown, a sheath of black velvet, was unadorned. Her shining black hair, arranged high on her head was perfectly arranged for this type of gown. Mrs. Carroll is entertaining at tea this afternoon at her suburban home "Redwine," for members of Delta Rho Delta.

It isn't all work by any means for Miss Cherry Bernstein, student at Randolph Macon College. She was royally entertained by Cadet Ted Grant at West Point recently. Other Monroe girls attending eastern colleges are continually trotting off to proms and other festivities not only at West Point but Annapolis where Midshipman Monty Frazier plays host.

Many who attended the tea given by members of Fort Miro chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, at the Layton Place last week remembered the days when this home, one of the few ante-bellum homes left in this section, was surrounded with cotton fields. They remember the old slave quarters, the winding walk built by slaves of bricks made in the kilns right on the place. They remember old Annette, the colored retainer who was born and raised on Layton Place and looked after the family during her lifetime. Many newcomers to Monroe, attending the tea, saw the family portraits, damaged during the Civil War by sabres in the hands of Yankee soldiers. The Yankees invaded this home and stories have been handed down from one generation to another of the damage to priceless possessions.

Layton Place is the ideal setting for entertaining on a large scale . . . the ceilings are high, the rooms spacious and over all is the atmosphere of other days. After all, only a thin veil separates the Monroe of today from the glamorous Monroe of yesterday.

MISS FLANDERS GIVES REVIEW OF 'HOUSE DIVIDED' AT A MEETING OF THE A. A. U. W.

If you have not yet read "House Divided" by Ben Ames Williams then you will enjoy the brief synopsis of the story given by Miss Frances Flanders, librarian at the Ouachita Parish Public Library, when she appeared on the October program of the American Association of University Women. She said:

"'House Divided' is a large, impressive story of the Civil War. Williams was born in Mason, Miss. His mother was a niece of General James Longstreet of the Confederate army. His portrait of Longstreet is the most sympathetic in the book and the most flattering I have ever read.

"Mr. Williams has put a great deal of research into this book. He has a good understanding of the period and of the issues involved. He gives an excellent picture of the attitude of different groups of the population toward the war and of its effect upon them.

"He shows that the slave owners were a small minority in the South, that most of the men who fought the war had never owned a slave, but were fighting for a variety of other reasons; loyalty to their state; unwillingness to fight against Southerners (this was particularly true of people from Virginia); their belief in states rights; the fact that poor men were impressed for service in the army, while rich ones could get a bombproof office job and a man with 0 slaves was excused from fighting.

He had a genius for doing the wrong thing. He was extremely unpopular during the war. Most of his popularity came later, when he became a Confederate martyr.

"'House Divided' is a story of a period, a war, and a family. There are no heroes and no heroine of the story. This is the story of the Currain family. Each of them represents a type of Southerner and we see how the war influenced their characters—how the strong became stronger and the weak went into total degeneracy.

"The leading character is Anthony Currain, who had a love affair with Lucy Hanks. She gave birth to an illegitimate daughter, named Nancy Hanks, who married Tom Lincoln and became the mother of Abraham Lincoln.

"Anthony Currain married Sally Williber. She died a few years after the marriage. He then married Lucy Coyboy and they had five children.

"The setting of the story is largely in Virginia, but embraces the whole Atlantic seaboard. As the main part of the story opens the war clouds are gathering over the Confederacy. Abe Lincoln was elected president and the South greeted his election as a calamity. Sumter was fired upon; Lincoln called for volunteers to crush South Carolina and Virginia left the Union.

"The war immediately affected the family. The Currains suffered as did every Southern family.

"Cinda's (one of the Currain girls) words in conclusion show a wonderful philosophy and understanding. She said: 'I'm not going to think any more, if I can help it, about what used to be. If the South isn't careful, it is going to start feeling sorry for itself, and being proud and wistful, and boasting how brave our men are, and how beautiful our women, and what charming lives we led till the Yankees spoiled it all. THIRTEEN NEW NAMES ARE ADDED TO THE ROSTER OF LOCAL BRANCH OF A. A. U. W.

Members of the local branch of the American Association of University Women are bestirring themselves as never before. They are a united group working together for a greater public understanding of what good education means to the community. They are also working for higher standards in our schools and in various ways are contributing to education in the broadcast sense.

Members of the local branch of the American Association of University Women are enthusiastic over the thirteen new names added to their roster at the October meeting. These new members are: Miss Martha Jane French, MacMurray College for Women; Mrs. Duncan Thomson, Jr., Syracuse; Mrs. E. D. Hall, University of Minnesota; Mrs. C. H. McHenry, Randolf, Macon; Mrs. David Garrett, Miss Clara Hall, Miss Sara Bres, Miss Geneva Washburn, Newcomb; Mrs. Alf Reid, Mrs. C. E. Buckley, Miss Ira Merle Thomas, Miss Demoris Rockett, Mrs. George Riser, L. S. U. Other eligible women in the Twin City area interested in affiliating with the local branch are urged to contact the membership chairman, Miss Carrie Dee Drew, 101 Ludwig Avenue, West Monroe.

With emphasis on membership during the month of October, it was very fitting that the president, Miss Ola Mae Pennington, address the group at this meeting on "What A. A. U. W. Is and What It Has To Offer." The speaker's main theme was the bigness of A. A. U. W. She prefaced her remarks by pointing out that A. A. U. W. was begun in 1882 by seventeen women graduates of eight different colleges who wanted to advance the educational opportunities for women. She continued by stating that the purpose of the association is still expressed in the little phrase of the founders: "Practical Educational Work."

"Further," Miss Pennington added, "the A. A. U. W. has grown from the seventeen members to 94,000 members in the past 65 years. There are now branches in 900 communities covering every state in the union with 261 colleges and universities on the approved list.

"A. A. U. W. is organized in state, regional and national divisions with headquarters in Washington," the president told the group, "and in addition," she said, "there is the I. F. U. W. (International Federation of University Women) which links the many countries together for international understanding and cooperation. During the war the work was interrupted but it is being revived and expanded."

Continuing, Miss Pennington said, "A. A. U. W. in a general way acts as a spokesman for educated women. It offers opportunities and has responsibilities. It offers graduate fellowships; offers reconstruction aid; and offers international study grants. Believing that before we can inform others on conditions of the day, or before we can help work out solutions to the problems that confront us—be they local, state, or national—we must be informed ourselves, the local branches offer study programs in five different fields, namely: educational, involving child study, schools etc., social studies, welfare, housing, employment; status of women; arts; and international relations."

"In conclusion," said Miss Pennington, "those of us who heard Dr. French at the workshop meeting remember how she stressed the fact that we are not just another social club but a united group working for better officials, locally, in the state, and nationally; studying the needs of children and youth; sponsoring recreation centers for youth, and in a great variety of ways contributing to education.

"And finally," added the speaker, "being an A. A. U. W. member or an officer is not only an honor and privilege but a great responsibility—there is work for everyone."

MISS FLANDERS GIVES REVIEW OF 'HOUSE DIVIDED' AT A MEETING OF THE A. A. U. W.

If you have not yet read "House Divided" by Ben Ames Williams then you will enjoy the brief synopsis of the story given by Miss Frances Flanders, librarian at the Ouachita Parish Public Library, when she appeared on the October program of the American Association of University Women. She said:

"'House Divided' is a large, impressive story of the Civil War. Williams was born in Mason, Miss. His mother was a niece of General James Longstreet of the Confederate army. His portrait of Longstreet is the most sympathetic in the book and the most flattering I have ever read.

"Mr. Williams has put a great deal of research into this book. He has a good understanding of the period and of the issues involved. He gives an excellent picture of the attitude of different groups of the population toward the war and of its effect upon them.

"He shows that the slave owners were a small minority in the South, that most of the men who fought the war had never owned a slave, but were fighting for a variety of other reasons; loyalty to their state; unwillingness to fight against Southerners (this was particularly true of people from Virginia); their belief in states rights; the fact that poor men were impressed for service in the army, while rich ones could get a bombproof office job and a man with 20 slaves was excused from fighting.

"He shows very clearly that the organization of the South was its weakness and contributed to its defeat. The Confederacy was too loosely organized to carry on a war. The states would give up none of their rights and consequently the Confederacy was never strong.

"His picture of Davis is most critical. He shows him to be both stupid and stubborn. He promoted inefficient leaders at the expense of good ones. He allowed his feelings to overrule his judgment. He had a genius for doing the wrong thing. He was extremely unpopular during the war. Most of his popularity came later, when he became a Confederate martyr.

"'House Divided' is a story of a period, a war, and a family. There are no heroes and no heroine of the story. This is the story of the Currain family. Each of them represents a type of Southerner and we see how the war influenced their characters—how the strong became stronger and the weak went into total degeneracy.

"The leading character is Anthony Currain, who had a love affair with Lucy Hanks. She gave birth to an illegitimate daughter, named Nancy Hanks, who married Tom Lincoln and became the mother of Abraham Lincoln.

"Anthony Currain married Sally Williber. She died a few years after the marriage. He then married Lucy Coyboy and they had five children.

"The setting of the story is largely in Virginia, but embraces the whole Atlantic seaboard. As the main part of the story opens the war clouds are gathering over the Confederacy. Abe Lincoln was elected president and the South greeted his election as a calamity. Sumter was fired upon; Lincoln called for volunteers to crush South Carolina and Virginia left the Union.

"The war immediately affected the family. The Currains suffered as did every Southern family.

"Cinda's (one of the Currain girls) words in conclusion show a wonderful philosophy and understanding. She said: 'I'm not going to think any more, if I can help it, about what used to be. If the South isn't careful, it is going to start feeling sorry for itself, and being proud and wistful, and boasting how brave our men are, and how beautiful our women, and what charming lives we led till the Yankees spoiled it all. But as long as we keep looking back over our shoulders, we'll be forever stumbling. When we learn to forget, then we will go ahead.'"

"And finally," added the speaker, "being an A. A. U. W. member or an officer is not only an honor and privilege but a great responsibility—there is work for everyone."

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Grammont At Catalpa

Ernest D. Holloway, Minister

There is a concerted effort through the church to secure the presence of the members at the hours of worship. Believing that this is a program of God, we desire to cooperate with the leaders by seeking the presence of our people at the services of the sanctuary. Under God, and with the cooperation of our co-religionists, we expect to put forth every effort to the end that the attendance may increase from week to week.

"A Loyal Churchman's Zeal for Worship Explained," is the theme of our morning message. Although he lived some years ago, his thinking is scriptural, reasonable, spiritual. One of our ablest and influential elders is persuaded that this is the weakness of our church, and until that weakness is obliterated, the Presbyterian Church in the United States can never do what it is capable of doing.

"True Worship," is the subject of the evening meditation. Information about true worship is found in the conversation which took place between the Christ and the woman of Samaria.

The elders will meet Wednesday evening, October 22, 6:30 o'clock.

A most cordial welcome awaits you at all hours of worship. A nursery is provided for parents with children, who may want to attend the hours of worship. "Come thou with us, and we will do three good."

P.-T. A. MEETING HELD IN ST. JOE

State President Mrs. Vincent, John Cockerham Are Speakers

The Tenth District P.-T. A. Conference, held in St. Joseph on October 14, had as its principal speakers Mrs. W. S. Vincent, state president of P.-T. A., and John Cockerham, of the United States department of agriculture. Both speakers brought to those in attendance a highly interesting, informative, and inspiring message.

Mr. Cockerham, as first speaker, stated that the audience was, no doubt, wondering how his subject, "Relationship of Soil Erosion, Soil Fertility and Human Health," was of concern to a P.-T. A. group. A direct relationship between the physical, mental and spiritual aspects of people and their food clearly illustrated by Mr. Cockerham. There has been an almost revolutionary change in agriculture production. In the time of Columbus, nineteen out of every twenty persons were farmers; now there are only five out of every twenty who make their living from the soil. Various reasons for this were given. Said Mr. Cockerham: "The population of the world is outgrowing its food supply." Figures were given to support this statement. He further stated that man's struggle for food has been the basis of all wars.

He deplored the destruction of good land that has gone on for centuries and is still going on. This matter of soil conservation is not just the concern of the agriculture department but is everyone's job, since in the final analysis the welfare of all depends on the productivity of the soil. "A hungry stomach doesn't obey any law," said the speaker. Although today our nation is the envy of the world, we face a serious problem in soil erosion that will affect not only us but all continents of the world.

The subject of Mrs. Vincent's address was "Strengthening Our State Parent-Teachers Organization." She began by saying that one of the main things needed to strengthen our organization is for us to read so as to learn more about our organization. She then outlined the objectives of the national four-point program for the next three years. They are: (1) school education; (2) health; (3) world understanding, and (4) parent and family life.

Speaking of school education, Mrs. Vincent talked of the inequality of education that now exists for the Negro and emphasized the importance of equalizing this program. The need, too, for new and adequate school buildings was discussed. Even if the cost of building is very high now, Mrs. Vincent believes that more needs to be done to make teaching a more attractive profession—such as improving teaching conditions not only in the school but also in the community. She thinks also that teacher salaries should be commensurate with salaries of other professions.

The second project that is endorsed by the state P.-T. A. is a more equitable distribution of our school funds by changing the present method of distribution on per-educable basis to that of daily average attendance.

Discussing the health service of the P.-T. A., Mrs. Vincent said that this field at present is more adequately taken care of than any other.

The monthly meetings of P.-T. A. units are a means of better understanding of family relations is the belief of Mrs. Vincent. She stated that prejudices are learned at home by children. Daily living develops neighborhood spirit, town, state and finally world understanding. There should be a study of child guidance. "Every child does what he does for some reason and it is up to you and me to find that reason," she concluded.

DIRECTOR WILL MEET KIWANIANS

The director for "Say It With Music," the show to be staged by the Monroe Kiwanis Club on November 6, wants all who desire to be participants in the play to meet him in the ballroom of Hotel Virginia Monday at 7 p.m.

This is quite important and all aspirants for parts are urged to be present.

MRS. W. L. JONES, JR., AND SON

Mrs. Jones posed for her picture with her son, Richard, who was home recently from Baylor University, Waco, Texas, where he is a second year student. When he completes his pre-dental course at Baylor University he plans to enter Baylor Dental College, in Dallas, where he expects to obtain his degree in dental surgery.

THE NATION TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The C. I. O. convention here—dull as it was, and it was mighty dull—can be taken pretty much as a symbol of the times.

For example: America is in a highly prosperous period now. Wages are high and so are prices.

A convention of unions like this one —41 C. I. O. unions met here—might have been expected to decide upon a campaign demanding higher wages all around.

The C. I O. didn't. If unions are going to ask for higher wages, that is left up to the individual unions. The C. I. O. itself took no stand on that.

The old chestnut about merging with the American Federation of Labor—it's been bobbing up for years —got nowhere.

The C. I. O. and A. F. of L. are both lusty—between them they have about 13,000,000 members. A. F. of L. claiming about 1,000,000 more than the C. I. O.—and they don't need to merge.

If times were tough and labor unions felt that their backs were against the wall, they might think of getting together.

With the demand for workers very great, as now, the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. can afford to go their separate ways.

The most solid thing which came out of the convention was perhaps this: The determination of the C. I. O. to:

1. Fight the new Taft-Hartley labor law.
2. Work actively to try to unseat the present 80th Congress which passed that law.

But all this doesn't mean that the work or the convention can be ignored. It set its feet along a long road.

Some of the things considered at this C. I. O. convention will be heard about for years to come.

Take the fair employment practices act, for instance. Such an act, which would in effect compel bosses to hire workers regardless of color or creed, has been knocked down in Congress.

The C. I. O. is on record as favoring it. In the years ahead the C. I. O. and other labor groups can be expected to be working on congressmen to pass such a law.

So, you'll be hearing more about fair employment practices for years to come. There's no sign Congress will pass such a law any time soon.

The same goes for another item: The C. I. O. is going to work year after year for Congress to pass some kind of national health insurance. (Some people call it socialized medicine, but the C. I. O. doesn't.)

The C. I. O. considered 36 resolutions in all. Very few of them could be expected to be achieved immediately.

Most of them are long-range goals with which labor, and particularly the C. I. O., will busy itself in the years ahead.

MAYOS AT RITES FOR SLAIN WOMAN

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Mayo, of 700 Hudson Lane, attended the funeral in Birmingham, Ala., Saturday, of Mrs. Corinne Limbaugh, 32, who was murdered in a mountain ravine, 12 miles from Birmingham. She had been absent from home two days when the body was discovered.

Mrs. Limbaugh was a first cousin of Mrs. Mayo of Monroe. Also Mrs. Henry C. Ray, of Monroe, is a first cousin as is C. D. Holcomb of West Monroe.

Neither Mrs. Ray nor Mr. Holcomb was able to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Ray stated that she and Mrs. Mayo were raised as was Mrs. Limbaugh, in Collins, Miss., and that they were deeply devoted to each other.

Efforts are being exerted to solve the puzzling mystery of the woman's death.

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Through the magnitude of his human life, he demonstrated the divine life. FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest D. Holloway, Minister

There is a concerted effort through the church to secure the presence of the members at the hours of worship. Believing that this is a program of God, we desire to cooperate with the leaders by seeking the presence of our people at the services of the sanctuary. Under God, and with the cooperation of our co-religionists, we expect to put forth every effort to the end that the attendance may increase from week to week.

"A Loyal Churchman's Zeal for Worship Explained," is the theme of our morning message. Although he lived some years ago, his thinking is scriptural, reasonable, spiritual. One of our ablest and influential elders is persuaded that this is the weakness of our church, and until that weakness is obliterated, the Presbyterian Church in the United States can never do what it is capable of doing.

"True Worship," is the subject of the evening meditation. Information about true worship is found in the conversation which took place between the Christ and the woman of Samaria.

The elders will meet Wednesday evening, October 22, 6:30 o'clock.

A most cordial welcome awaits you at all hours of worship. A nursery is provided for parents with children, who may want to attend the hours of worship. "Come thou with us, and we will do three good."

P.-T. A. MEETING HELD IN ST. JOE

State President Mrs. Vincent, John Cockerham Are Speakers

The Tenth District P.-T. A. Conference, held in St. Joseph on October 14, had as its principal speakers Mrs. W. S. Vincent, state president of P.-T. A., and John Cockerham, of the United States department of agriculture. Both speakers brought to those in attendance a highly interesting, informative, and inspiring message.

Mr. Cockerham, as first speaker, stated that the audience was, no doubt, wondering how his subject, "Relationship of Soil Erosion, Soil Fertility and Human Health," was of concern to a P.-T. A. group. A direct relationship between the physical, mental and spiritual aspects of people and their food clearly illustrated by Mr. Cockerham. There has been an almost revolutionary change in agriculture production. In the time of Columbus, nineteen out of every twenty persons were farmers; now there are only five out of every twenty who make their living from the soil. Various reasons for this were given. Said Mr. Cockerham: "The population of the world is outgrowing its food supply." Figures were given to support this statement. He further stated that man's struggle for food has been the basis of all wars.

He deplored the destruction of good land that has gone on for centuries and is still going on. This matter of soil conservation is not just the concern of the agriculture department but is everyone's job, since in the final analysis the welfare of all depends on the productivity of the soil. "A hungry stomach doesn't obey any law," said the speaker. Although today our nation is the envy of the world, we face a serious problem in soil erosion that will affect not only us but all continents of the world.

The subject of Mrs. Vincent's address was "Strengthening Our State Parent-Teachers Organization." She began by saying that one of the main things needed to strengthen our organization is for us to read so as to learn more about our organization. She then outlined the objectives of the national four-point program for the next three years. They are: (1) school education; (2) health; (3) world understanding, and (4) parent and family life.

Speaking of school education, Mrs. Vincent talked of the inequality of education that now exists for the Negro and emphasized the importance of equalizing this program. The need, too, for new and adequate school buildings was discussed. Even if the cost of building is very high now, Mrs. Vincent believes that more needs to be done to make teaching a more attractive profession—such as improving teaching conditions not only in the school but also in the community. She thinks also that teacher salaries should be commensurate with salaries of other professions.

The second project that is endorsed by the state P.-T. A. is a more equitable distribution of our school funds by changing the present method of distribution on per-educable basis to that of daily average attendance.

Discussing the health service of the P.-T. A., Mrs. Vincent said that this field at present is more adequately taken care of than any other.

The monthly meetings of P.-T. A. units are a means of better understanding of family relations is the belief of Mrs. Vincent. She stated that prejudices are learned at home by children. Daily living develops neighborhood spirit, town, state and finally world understanding. There should be a study of child guidance. "Every child does what he does for some reason and it is up to you and me to find that reason," she concluded.

DIRECTOR WILL MEET KIWANIANS

The director for "Say It With Music," the show to be staged by the Monroe Kiwanis Club on November 6, wants all who desire to be participants in the play to meet him in the ballroom of Hotel Virginia Monday at 7 p.m.

This is quite important and all aspirants for parts are urged to be present.

THE NATION TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The C. I. O. convention here—dull as it was, and it was mighty dull—can be taken pretty much as a symbol of the times.

For example: America is in a highly prosperous period now. Wages are high and so are prices.

A convention of unions like this one —41 C. I. O. unions met here—might have been expected to decide upon a campaign demanding higher wages all around.

The C. I. O. didn't. If unions are going to ask for higher wages, that is left up to the individual unions. The C. I. O. itself took no stand on that.

The old chestnut about merging with the American Federation of Labor—it's been bobbing up for years —got nowhere.

The C. I. O. and A. F. of L. are both lusty—between them they have about 13,000,000 members. A. F. of L. claiming about 1,000,000 more than the C. I. O.—and they don't need to merge.

If times were tough and labor unions felt that their backs were against the wall, they might think of getting together.

With the demand for workers very great, as now, the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. can afford to go their separate ways.

The most solid thing which came out of the convention was perhaps this: The determination of the C. I. O. to:

1. Fight the new Taft-Hartley labor law.

2. Work actively to try to unseat the present 80th Congress which passed that law.

But all this doesn't mean that the work or the convention can be ignored. It set its feet along a long road.

Some of the things considered at this C. I. O. convention will be heard about for years to come.

Take the fair employment practices act, for instance. Such an act, which would in effect compel bosses to hire workers regardless of color or creed, has been knocked down in Congress.

The C. I. O. is on record as favoring it. In the years ahead the C. I. O. and other labor groups can be expected to be working on congressmen to pass such a law.

So, you'll be hearing more about fair employment practices for years to come. There's no sign Congress will pass such a law any time soon.

The same goes for another item: The C. I. O. is going to work year after year for Congress to pass some kind of national health insurance. (Some people call it socialized medicine, but the C. I. O. doesn't.)

The C. I. O. considered 36 resolutions in all. Very few of them could be expected to be achieved immediately.

Most of them are long-range goals with which labor, and particularly the C. I. O., will busy itself in the years ahead.

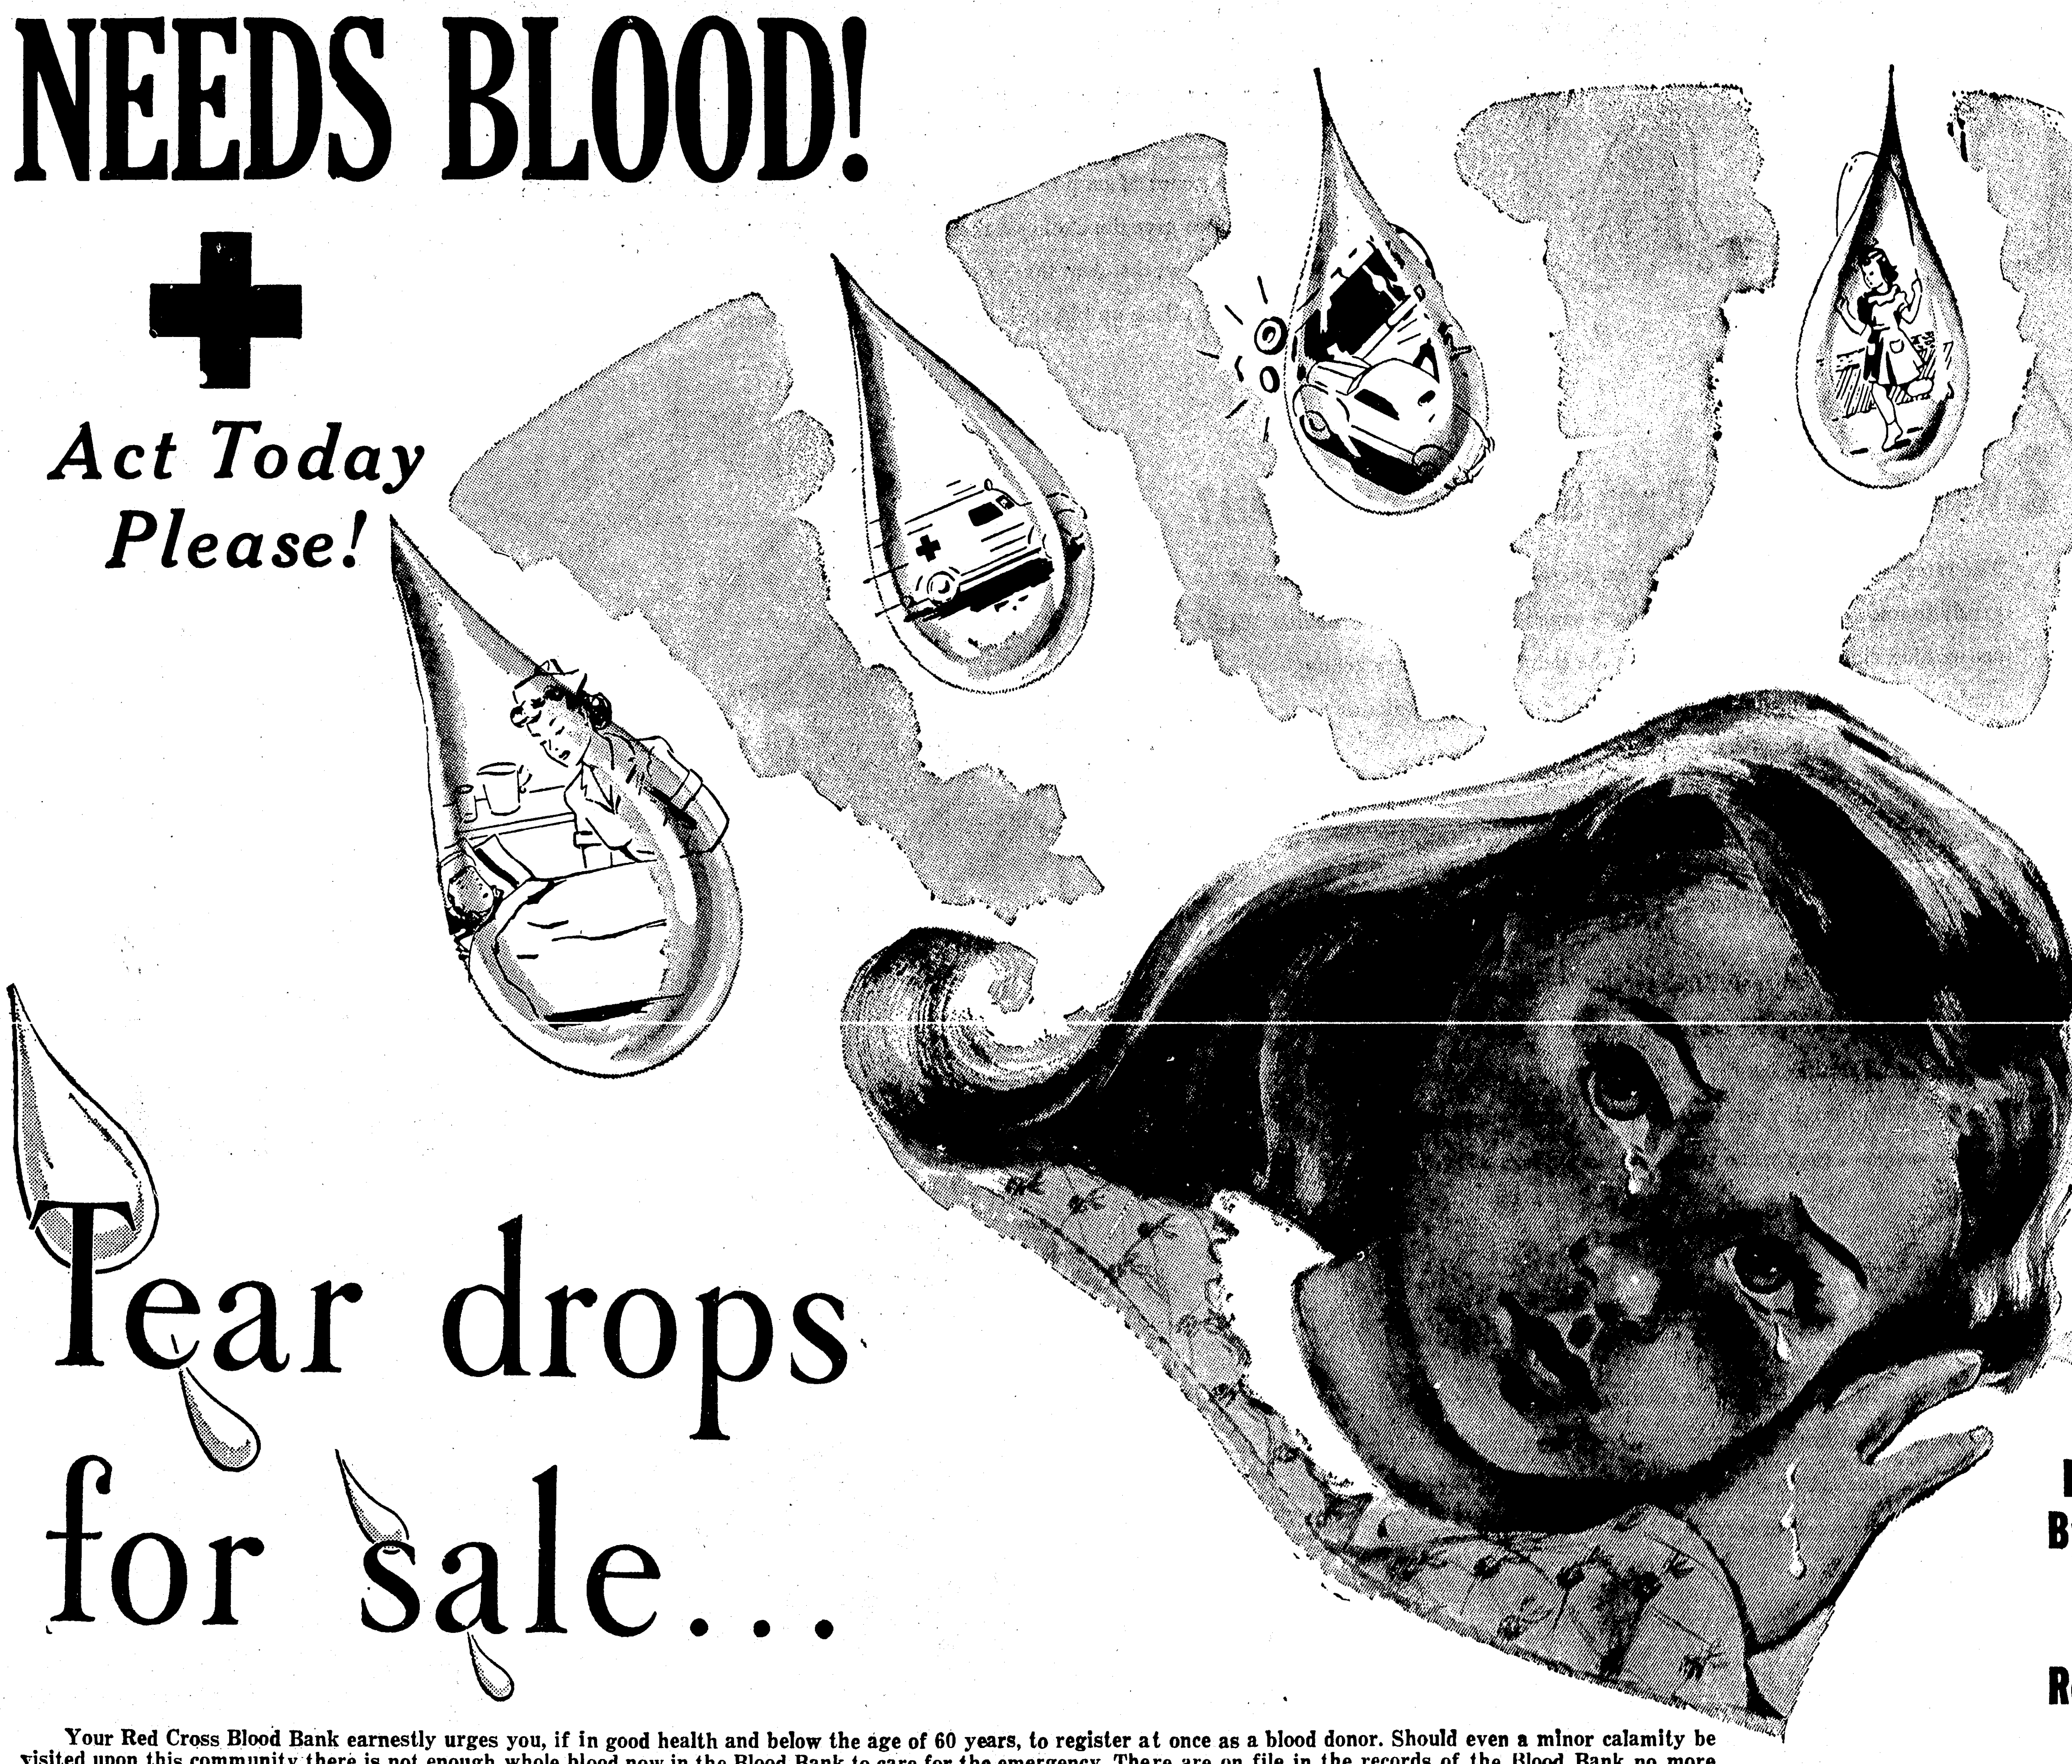
YOUR RED CROSS BLOOD BANK NEEDS BLOOD!

Act Today Please!



Tear drops for sale...

Your Red Cross Blood Bank earnestly urges you, if in good health and below the age of 60 years, to register at once as a blood donor. Should even a minor calamity be visited upon this community there is not enough whole blood now in the Blood Bank to care for the emergency. There are on file in the records of the Blood Bank no more than 375 donors. This is woefully inadequate for a community of our size, serving as it does as a hospitalization center for northeast Louisiana and southeastern Arkansas. There should be no less than one thousand donors typed and registered who should at reasonable intervals contribute blood to the bank, thereby permanently keeping the supply at a safe level. Every home in the parish should have a serious conference about this all important matter, and one person should volunteer from each family. The next call for blood at the bank may be for a loved one from your family! The blood is given without charge by the donor. In turn it is given without charge to the patient, except for a very small charge made by the hospital for laboratory services in preparing the blood for transfusion in the hospital. Withdrawals are conducted at the Ouachita Parish Health Center under direction of highly capable physicians and surgeons assisted by prominent ladies of the community who serve as nurses aides. In no instance has a donor suffered ill effects from a withdrawal at the Red Cross Blood Bank. The need is urgent. The cause is humanitarian. Won't you act today? TARZAN by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS
LOUD ROARS OF RAGE REVERBERATED THROUGH THE JUNGLE AS THE CROCODILE TURNED ON THE MONKEY. AT THE WATER'S EDGE, TARZAN AWOKE, AND HEARD THE COMMOTION.
IN A FURIOUS BURST OF SPEED, HE COVERED THE INTERVENING DISTANCE, AND LAUNCHED HIMSELF AT THE CHARGING MONSTER.
TIME AFTER TIME, THE APE-MAN'S KNIFE SLASHED THROUGH THE LEATHERY HIDE.
Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

TARZAN
by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS
IN A FURIOUS BURST OF SPEED, HE COVERED THE INTERVENING DISTANCE, AND LAUNCHED HIMSELF AT THE CHARGING MONSTER.
TIME AFTER TIME, THE APE-MAN'S KNIFE SLASHED THROUGH THE LEATHERY HIDE.
Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
